CALL GERMAN BLUFF ON REPARATIONS, LOUCHEUR ADVISES

French Minister Says Germany Can Pay 10 Billion Francs a Year, but Shams Bankruptcy.

FOR ALLIED RECEIVERSHIP

BRIAND TO OUTLINE POLICY

Will Tell Deputies Today of Plans to Get Treaty Executed Without Using Violence.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 18.—Louis Loucheur, the new Minister for the French Devastated Regions, says that Germany can pay 10,000,000,000 francs indemnity annually. Four-fifths of this, he says, could be paid in coal without crippling German industry.

M. Loucheur, who is rated as the richest man in France, is one of the country's leaders of industry. He was a member of the French Peace Commission and took a prominent part in drafting the financial clauses of the Treaty of Versailles.

Since M. Loucheur is going to take part in the interallied conference which will meet in Paris next Monday, his opinion on how much and how Germany can pay is timely. It is his belief that the Allies must take radical action to collect the indemnity.

"The German game is clear," he said in an interview today. "It is to drive the republic to bankruptcy. The bosses in Berlin figure that in letting the economic situation continue to get worse, in making no real effort to better the financial situation, in snapping their fingers at the deficit which increases daily in the public services, and in constantly depreciating the mark by daily emissions of paper money, they can in several months say to the Entente: 'We've had enough of this. You take charge of our affairs.'

"In my opinoin we ought not to wait for this invitation. We may find ourselves facing a situation impossible of solution. We must have a detailed summing up, and then trifle and discuss no longer. We have only to take account of the situation in Germany and say: 'All right. The Entente will take charge of Germany. Germany will find in us honest liquidators. We are just as much interested as her leaders in her economic recovery, but we are going to have more courage in taking the necessary measures.'

Reforms Loucheur Would Enforce.

"Now, I will tell you what measures I mean.

"First, cut the mark into four or five, give it real value. What is the use of talking about billions when the monetary unit has lost its buying power?

"Then, put some order into the public services. Is it admissible that the operation of the railroads should show an annual deficit of 20,000,000,000? We French have increased our railroad rates. Why shouldn't the German people bear the same burden? The same reasoning applies to the postal service, which also shows a deficit. We should then control a carefully worked out German budget, and we should see that, as the treaty provides, the taxpayer across the Rhine would pay as much as the French taxpayer, and we should take measures so that the taxes were paid.

"I believe that to allow the latter to be paid entirely in manufactured products would be a great mistake. Our own industry would suffer. The only possible solution I can see at this time is payment in coal. I have examined carefully the figures of German coal production for the last forty years. I have calculated the needs of Germany's industries and that of the neutrals of which she is the natural furnisher. Taking account of these elements, I figure that Germany can turn over to us annually 8,000,000,000 francs' worth of coal. We can easily find 2,000,000,000 francs more in her chemical products and taxes on exports—a total of 10,000,000,000 francs.

"We have talked enough. The Germans must pay. It is France, sure of her right, who must give them formal assurance that they are going to pay."

Berlin Talks of Allied "Proposal."

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—The Tageblatt says that the German Government, despite serious objections to the Anglo-French reparation proposal providing for a temporary arrangement according to which Germany in the next five years shall pay 3,000,000,000 gold marks annually, the total to be fixed afterward, is willing to meet the Entente's demands as far as possible. But the Tageblatt declares that an annual installment of 3,000,000,000 gold marks cannot be seriously considered, for even in France and England it must be known that such large payments would kill German commerce and industry, and that the demands must therefore be reasonably reduced.

Furthermore, it says, Germany cannot enter any such arrangements until the following five questions have been answered satisfactorily:

What will be the fate of Upper Silesia?

What is to become of German property in foreign countries?

What will be the cost of the allied armies of occupation?

What about freedom of trade?

How much shipping tonnage will Germany be allowed to retain?

If on these five points an understanding is reached, Germany, in order to re-

Long Beach Was Forgotten When Census Was Taken

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Discovery has been made by the Census Bureau that the Village of Long Beach, N. Y., was not included in the 1920 decennial census, no enumeration of population having been taken there, Director Rogers today informed Representative Siegel of New York. The village, which has less than a thousand inhabitants, is the only community in the nation left out of the census so far as the Census Bureau has determined.

EUROPE RELUCTANT TO DROP LEAGUE

Growing Signs of Coolness to Harding's Expected Plan of New Association.

ASSAILED AS AN ILLUSION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Indications are multiplying that the Harding plan for an association of nations, disregarding the League of Nations, is not going to receive the welcome he must hope it will obtain. It is pointed out that the League of Nations exists. It is tied up to treaties vital to the European nations. It has forty-seven members and it is something that Mr. Harding must reckon with whether he likes to do so or not.

For some time a good many European statesmen have been in a more or less unhappy frame of mind over Mr. Harding's world plans. With a Disarmament Commission existing under the League of Nations, they hear about American world disarmament plans. With a world court about to be established and $800,000 appropriated for it, hey hear about Mr. Harding's new court. They have their troubles with one league, which they credit to one American President, and they hear every day of another league planned by another American President. They feel something like shouting across the ocean: "You've got to stop kicking our dog around."

Because of the intense desire not to displease America there has been little publication of these views and the official attitude has been that France was very much open to any American suggestions. The Government press has given considerable prominence to Mr. Harding's plans without comment.

Ironical Criticism of Harding.

However, the Paris Midi today rather raises the lid and on its front page prints an article entitled "The Illusions of Mr. Harding." It says:

"We hear that Mr. Harding, the President-elect of the United States, intends to convoke soon representatives of the powers in Washington to examine his project of international arbitrament. When they go there—if they go—these envoys of the civilized world, hat in hand, will be told, no doubt:

"'Gentlemen, an American President named Wilson (Woodrow) induced you just two years ago to create an international organization called the League of Nations. America having changed her President, it is fitting that we should change this organization and replace it by another institution which I will proceed to explain to you. Please bear in mind that if by chance a Democratic President should come into power four years from now the civilized world will naturally have to change its plans again.'

"In other words, our job is to sneeze eternally at the bidding of the Americans. But that is not all, for the project of an international organization which Mr. Harding is going to present would have some strange consequences. His idea appears to be to constitute groups of nations according to continents. There would be on one side the American nations and on the other side the European nations. One court of arbitrament would dominate all. In this way the United States would not be obliged to intervene in the political affairs of Europe without breaking all links with the Old World.

Predicts South American Dissent.

"This is an ingenious plan, but will it suit everybody? One can gayly bet one's hat that sooner than accept such a project the nations of South America would prefer to ally themselves with China. The Monroe Doctrine has always appeared to them a nice excuse given by the United States for salting them before eating. To consent to enter into a purely American group in which the United States would be all-powerful would be for the South Americans to throw themselves benevolently into the jaws of a wolf.

"And what will the people in Washington say when Japan proposes in her turn to form a group of nations of the extreme Orient? In this group it would be understood beforehand that neither the United States nor any European State would be a member. But who would dominate then the extreme Orient and what would become of the American policy of the open door in China?

"The more one thinks about it the more one is convinced that the Harding project, if it should ever become definite, would end by sinking into ridicule. The League of Nations is a living thing. Having taken the trouble to give it

HARDING POSTPONES CABINET DECISIONS TILL AFTER CRUISE

DENIES ANY 'DRIVE' IS ON

TALK OF SHIFTING LATTER

Suggestion That He Be Made Attorney General and Root Head State Department.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 19.—No announcement of the next Secretaries of State and Treasury will be made in advance of the rest of the Cabinet, according to a statement dictated to correspondents by Mr. Harding today. The President-elect added that no Cabinet matters would be decided until after his return to St. Augustine the first of February from a twelve-day cruise.

In what was the longest and is regarded as the frankest statement by Mr. Harding on the Cabinet situation, he said:

"I had thought originally to name two or three places of the Cabinet in advance, to permit the parties named to take up informally the work that is to be theirs. But I have found it so difficult to fit in an administrative organization that I am not disposed to make definite tenders and have men accept until I myself have made up a complete organization.

"There is no semblance of any marked drive either for or against, either in support of or in opposition to, any individual. There is the natural current of both political and personal recommendations and the natural cross-currents of personal, individual and factional opposition.

"This is all normal and does not keep me awake nights. I am thinking all the time of getting an organization best fitted to serve this country. I am a partisan. I believe in party government, and I am going to have a Republican Cabinet, but no selection will be made because of party organization without consideration for the best service of the country."

Factors of the Problem.

In the light of recent developments these seem to be the chief points of the Cabinet problem which Mr. Harding will attempt to solve in Florida.

1. Renewed pressure is being brought to bear in favor of Mr. Root as Secretary of State.

2. Although Mr. Harding regards Mr. Hughes as eminently qualified for a Cabinet post, he is understood to have received warning that some Senators would refuse to work with Mr. Hughes as Secretary of State.

3. Toward Harry M. Daugherty Mr. Harding might be considered lacking in gratitude if he did not offer him a Cabinet post.

4. Mr. Harding's promise today that "no Cabinet selection will be made because of party organization without consideration for the best service of the country."

It was suggested in some quarters tonight that Mr. Harding might try to settle his difficulties over the Cabinet by a transfer of some members of his original slate, shifting Daugherty and Hughes to make place for Root. A common reward for a political manager has been appointment as Postmaster General. Some think a way lies open to offer Hughes the office of Attorney General and make Daugherty Postmaster General, leaving the post of Secretary of State for Root.

The President-elect's statement today is taken to show that Mr. Harding is fully aware of the Senatorial drive to displace Hughes with Root as Secretary of State. But when asked this afternoon concerning the efforts of influences friendly to Root to displace Hughes from consideration or the place he said that to these activities he attached "no special significance." In connection with the recent visit of Senator Wadsworth of New York, who recommended both Root and Charles D. Hilles for the Cabinet, it is understood that pressure was brought to bear upon Mr. Harding, with the result that Root was then thought in some quarters to have precedence over Hughes. Last week, however, Mr. Harding gave a strong intimation that he intended offering the State portfolio to Hughes.

Daugherty Still a Favorite.

The President-elect's confession that he has found it difficult to "fit in an administratove organization" is thought likely to give further impetus to the drive for Root, already encouraged by the postponement of an early Cabinet announcement.

Mr. Harding's announcement that he sought a Republican Cabinet best fitted to serve the country, and that "no selection would be made because of party organization," may, it is felt, have a bearing on the appointment of political leaders to the Cabinet. That Harry M. Daugherty, who will accompany Mr. Harding on the Florida houseboat cruise, will be invited to the Cabinet is generally accepted as a certainty.

Mild opposition to appointment of political managers has been developing, according to information from Washington, particularly in view of the impression that Mr. Harding has no obligations arising from the election or the national convention. Leaders friendly

Court Hours Here Shock Justice Tompkins; Arrives at 9 A. M. and Finds Doors Locked

Early and long court hours in General Sessions were suggested yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins, who went to the Criminal Courts Building at 9 o'clock prepared to open Part 6, to assist the staff of Judges of General Sessions to dispose of the accumulation of business that threatens to clog the calendars. He found his courtroom door locked against him, and the only others present were the watchman and custodian of the building. The Justice had waited around for an hour when he got his first official greeting, from District Attorney Swann.

"What time does court open here?" queried the Justice. When the District Attorney replied that the hour was usually 10:30, Justice Tompkins remarked: "I think I can do better than that. We start work earlier up in Nyack, where I come from. What time do the courts close?" Informed that they adjourned at 4 o'clock, the Justice said: "Well, I guess I can sit a little longer than that and help to clean up some of the cases."

Justice Tompkins was assigned from the Supreme Court by the Appellate Division at the request of the Judges of General Sessions, who have a record list of 1,800 cases waiting to be tried or otherwise disposed of. There are only five of the seven Judges now at work. Judge Wadhams recently resigned and Judge Mulqueen is recovering from illness.

MAIL THIEVES GET $700,000 IN LOOT

BIG HAUL AT CHICAGO

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Approximately $700,000 was stolen from the United States mails in two recent robberies, the one at the Union Station last Tuesday evening and the earlier one at Mount Vernon, Ill. Of this $197,000, practically all in currency of small denominations, was taken in the Mount Vernon robbery. The largest bills were $20 ones.

Official figures of the Union Station robbery are still lacking, but revised estimates placed the loot between $500,000 and $550,000. A considerable portion of this was in cash, but most of it was in bonds and other securities easily negotiable.

Original estimates had placed the value of the Mount Vernon robbery loot at only $85,000 and that of the Union Station haul as low as $76,000. It was learned the estimates given out for publication had been purposely kept low by officials, who feared the possibilities of mail robberies would become too attractive.

New impetus was given the search for the mail robbers today when five New York insurance companies offered $5,000 reward for their capture. In addition the companies offered 10 per cent. of any portion of the loot which might be recovered to all engaged in the search for the stolen mail.

The facts as to the Tuesday robbery were partly disclosed today when the Chicago manager for Blair & Co., New York brokers, reported that bonds aggregating $61,000 sent from the company's office here were part of the loot. Ames, Emery & Co., brokers, reported a loss of $8,000 and the Harris Trust and Savings Bank $7,000, in the stolen pouches.

An account of the robbery at the Union Station on Tuesday was given today by Philip Cahill, who is employed by the Chicago, Minneapolis & St. Paul Railroad as a mail handler. He said his first intimation that anything unusual was to happen was when a young man wearing a soldier's overcoat came close to him while he was helping unload the mail, and said:

"I've got a gun here, old top, and if you make a move except as I tell you, I'll fill you full of lead."

Cahill said he started to throw up his hands, supposing that was what the robber expected, but as soon as he made a motion in that direction, the young fellow said: "Keep them down and act natural."

Obeying his instructions to the letter, Cahill behaved as though he were engaged in the ordinary job of unloading, dumping the sacks of registered mail into the robbers' car when the young man so ordered him.

Police and Federal authorities tonight admitted that none of the eighteen suspects taken could be definitely linked with the robbery. All but seven were released, according to Inspector Germer. The others were held for further investigation. Federal agents checking the contents of the stolen pouches said it would be several days before their report would be complete.

The securities which were stolen from mail pouches at the Union Station, at Chicago, on Tuesday, and which belonged to Blair & Co., Inc., of New York and Chicago, were worth, at par value, $61,000. Blair & Co. have issued a circular, giving a description of the securities and are advertising for the bonds. The trustees of all of the bonds have been notified of the loss and transfer has been stopped, and all parties are cautioned against negotiating them.

At the offices of Blair & Co. in this city it was said that the firm's interests were entirely protected, because the bonds, in addition to having been sent by registered mail, for which Blair & Co. holds a receipt, the shipment was entirely covered by insurance.

The securities listed by Blair & Co. are:

CARPENTIER FIGHT IS OFF, SAYS BRADY

Says Cochran Also Has Withdrawn as Backer of $500,000 Bout With Dempsey.

NEW CONTRACT POSSIBLE

"The $500,000 world's heavyweight championship bout, in which Jack Dempsey was scheduled to defend his title against Georges Carpentier, is definitely off, as far as I am concerned," said William A. Brady, one of the promotion triumvirate identified with the international bout, to a NEW YORK TIMES reporter yesterday. "The contracts have not been mutually observed, and, for that reason, I am withdrawing from further participation in the contemplated match for $500,000 and the world's heavyweight boxing championship.

"As American representative of Charles B. Cochran, London promoter, who is associated with Tex Rickard and myself in this enterprise, I authorize it to be recorded now that he is through with the original plans for the match, too," continued Mr. Brady. "You can say that as far as Promoters Brady and Cochran are concerned their interest in the proposed match is ended. The deal is over.

"The story published in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning is true in every detail," added Mr. Brady. "After reading it I communicated with the Central Union Trust Company. F. J. Fuller, an official of the company, to whom was assigned the duty of accepting and recording the deposits stipulated in the contract, verified THE TIMES story that the deposits had not been made. Mr. Fuller informed me that the only deposit he had was Mr. Cochran's, of which, by the way, I was perfectly familiar, since I had deposited it, and an assignment from Dempsey of the champion's interests in the battle. This was done by Dempsey, I believe, to protect himself against a possible lawsuit. Robert Edgren, who was accepted as arbiter of differences which might develop between the signing of the contract for the bout and the time the men entered the ring, telegraphed from California today for information on the deposits, and Mr. Fuller gave him the same information that he gave me.

Withdraws With Cochran.

"When the articles for the bout were drawn up the signatories to the contract bound themselves to abide by its provisions. The agreement has not been kept, and I therefore, with Mr. Cochran, for whom I am authorized to act in the matter, withdraw from the affair. I entered into a contract which was binding in every particular. I observed my part of the bargain, but others did not. The contract is then automatically abrogated, and naturally there can be no $500,000 world's heavyweight championship bout.

"The situation, summarized, is this: Promoter Cochran, before leaving for England, wrote a check to me for his one-third of the promoters' deposit of $100,000 stipulated in the contract. This was duly deposited before the time specified. Promoter Rickard and myself were bonded for our respective shares and the bonds intrusted to Attorney Nathan Vidaver, acting for the promoters in the proposed bout. Attorney Vidaver went to the Central Union Trust Company on or before Nov. 20, as the contract provided, intending to deposit the bonds of Promoter Rickard and myself. There he found that no deposit had been made by either Dempsey or Carpentier, and, accordingly, he did not deposit the bonds.

"There was a wait of a week in which no word came either from Dempsey or Carpentier on the subject. Finally a cable came from France saying that Carpentier had deposited in Paris the equivalent of $50,000, in French gold, but that the French Government refused to permit its shipment to this country because of the money stringency in the French Republic. There was another wait of a month, in which there was no word from Dempsey and Carpentier's money was tied up abroad. Finally the time arrived when it was necessary to name a date for the battle, and the deposits were missing. Under the circumstances, I washed my hands of the whole affair, and as far as Promoter Cochran and myself are concerned, everything is off with the original arrangements.

May Draw New Contract.

"Of course, while I am authorized to talk for Mr. Cochran concerning the present situation, I cannot discuss whatever future plans he might have. These are his to decide, and I am in the dark as concerns his future activities. Possibly he may sign the men to a new contract under different conditions. He is perfectly at liberty to talk business on such a proposition at any time. I

DU BOIS INDICTED AS POLICE GRAFTER PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Captain Denies Accepting Pay for Giving Protection in Printing Strike.

NEW INDICTMENT PROMISED

TO SIFT PRIVATE AGENCIES

Police Captain Percy M. Du Bois was indicted yesterday by the Whitman Grand Jury on the charge of accepting a gratuity of $100 from the Publishers' Printing Company of 207 West Twenty-fifth Street for improving police protection against strikers in the Fall of 1919.

Captain Du Bois was the second Captain to be indicted, the first having been Captain William A. Bailey, former commander of the West Thirtieth Street Station, who was indicted last week on the charge of accepting private fees for furnishing "protection" to fur manufacturers. A third Captain may be indicted on Friday on a similar charge.

The printers' strike lasted eleven weeks. Ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman said yesterday that statements to him showed that the employing printers had spent money for protection during that period at the rate of about $5,000 a week, although full protection should have been furnished as part of the routine police work. The investigators have not yet traced the disbursement of the fund in detail and could not say what proportion went to the police and what proportion to private detective agencies. Leo Gambardelli, a former policeman and now head of a detective agency, was in charge of much of the private policing, but told Mr. Whitman that he did not know of any fees to policemen.

Captain Du Bois pleaded not guilty and furnished bail of $2,500 on arraignment before Judge Thomas C. T. Crain in General Sessions. He was represented by Terence J. McManus, who said:

"Captain Du Bois is absolutely innocent and will prove it when the time comes."

Among the witnesses before the Grand Jury were Aaron Gantz, Secretary and Treasurer of the Publishers' Printing Company; Ralph Bartholomew, the sales manager, and Charles Eliscu, the auditor of the company. The payment of $100, described in the indictment, is said to be one of a great many similar transactions.

Protection Fund Raised.

The explanation made by printers who were called to his office by Mr. Whitman was that police protection failed in the first days of the strike and strikers resorted to sabotage and violence. A large fund was thereupon created by some of the printing houses. After that the police protection was satisfactory to the employers and much complained about by the strikers. Some of the "protection" furnished after the alleged transactions were described by Mr. Whitman as "vehement."

In an interview yesterday Mr. Whitman said that the character of police grafting today was totally different from that uncovered in his investigation after the Rosenthal murder. Then, he said, graft was collected entirely from lawbreakers, whereas most of it today appears to come from legitimate business men.

"During the time I was District Attorney," he said yesterday, "not a single case of this kind ever came to my attention. The idea of demanding money for performing police duty was unknown. I can't remember a single complaint bearing any resemblance in principle to the cases we now have under investigation."

"Does grafting prevail today on a scale comparable to that in the Becker days?" he was asked.

"It is different, but the indications are that it is as large or larger," was the answer.

When he was asked whether the so-called "commercial" graft, or the extortion of money from business houses, seemed to consist of individual isolated acts, or to be organized, he said:

"It is widespread. I don't want to go any further than that. It is entirely new to me. I did not know of its existence until I started this investigation."

In many of the "commercial" graft transactions laid before Mr. Whitman, the first move was made by the business houses. In several instances, it was learned, business men wanted special police service and approached policemen with offers to pay well for more activity. Some firms are said to have induced the police to change from neutrality between strikers and employers to a benevolent attitude in favor of employers. In other cases, firms unwilling to take pot luck with the rest of New York in the ordinary protection furnished by the police during the crime wave are alleged to have paid to have policemen stationed near their places of business as special watchmen.

Agencies Close to Police.

"One significant thing," Mr. Whitman said, "has been the tremendous increase in the number of private detective agencies in recent years, nearly all of them run by ex-policemen."

Many business men who have been interviewed by investigators connected

21 Killed and Wounded In Italian Train Hold-Up

Copyright, 1921, The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Jan. 19.—A band of Apulian brigands held up the Adriatic Express ten miles from Foggia last night.

By switching the express onto a sidetrack they caused it to collide with a freight train. The locomotive of the express and the nearest cars were derailed. While one group of brigands rifled the luggage vans others with pointed revolvers demanded money and jewelry from the passengers.

A squad of carabinieri acting as escort on the express engaged the train wreckers in a battle until, in answer to a telegraphed appeal for help, a troop train arrived on the scene from Foggia. The bandits then began to disperse toward the hill country, covering their retreat with repeated volley firing.

BROADEN CITY FIGHT AGAINST FARE RISE

ACCEPT BROOKLYN LEAD

Opposition Is to Federal Receiverships That Relieve Lines of Certain Regulation.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The revolt within the Legislature against the muddled transit conditions in New York City and the "perpetual" Federal receiverships was broadened today to comprise representatives from every borough of the city.

Lawmakers from Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens and Richmond took the initiative in calling a meeting of all the New York City members of both Senate and Assembly to be held next week. The Brooklyn members, already organized, have been specially invited to join their colleagues from the other boroughs at Tuesday's conference.

The call for the meeting was drafted by Assemblyman George N. Jesse of the Twenty-third Assembly District in Manhattan. Mr. Jesse led the fight on the Jenks higher fare bills in the Assembly last year and made a two-hour speech which will live long in the memories of those who heard it. Other signatories are Assemblyman Steinberg, dean of the Republican delegation from New York City in the lower house; Assemblyman Charles D. Donohue, leader of the Democratic minority in the Senate; Ward V. Tolbert, Republican, of the Twentieth District in Manhattan, and George H. Taylor, Republican, from the Twenty-third District in the Bronx, and Assemblyman Thomas Cosgrove of Richmond and Peter A. Leininger of Queens, both Democrats.

One object of next Tuesday's meeting is to bring about a general investigation of the transit situation in the entire city and not alone in Brooklyn, as proposed by the protestants from that borough, headed by Senators William T. Simpson and Alvah W. Burlingame Jr. The new movement was launched by some of the Republican Assemblymen from Manhattan for the purpose of enabling them to present a solid front against prospective fare increase legislation.

Few of the Brooklyn members were here today, but it was learned that their efforts will be focused on putting an end to the Federal receivership in that borough, which they say has rendered the B. R. T. and Brooklyn City Railroad lines practically immune from the State regulation to which other lines in the city, not enjoying the protection of the Federal courts, are subjected.

Senator Simpson, Chairman of the Brooklyn group of lawmakers, today named a number of lawyers as aids in the various shares of an investigation the Brooklyn legislators are setting on foot over the week-end for the purpose of determining conditions surrounding the franchises under which the Brooklyn lines operate and the cost of the receivership. This is said to be exceptionally costly as a result of the calling in of highly paid experts to direct the operation of such lines as still are doing business.

Senator Simpson today sent out an appeal to civic organizations in his borough and made tentative arrangements for a meeting to be held in the Aldermanic chamber at the Borough Hall Saturday afternoon, at which a number of Senators and Assemblymen from Brooklyn will attend and speak if it should be decided to hold it. In the meantime another meeting of the lawmakers from Brooklyn is to be held in the Assembly parlor at the Capitol prior to the legislative session Monday night.

PROPOSE POLICE 'DEAD LINE'

Government Club Urges Hylan to Adopt New Regulations.

The Government Club, whose complaint regarding police conditions following the robbery of one of its members, Mrs. Thomas W. Edgar, in Central Park on Dec. 17, brought a request from Mayor Hylan for a concrete plan for improvements in police regulations, submitted a plan in detail to the Mayor yesterday.

The club would have all persons who have been convicted of "a major offense" kept north of Fifty-ninth Street. They would also have a card index of all persons over twenty-one years old, more restrictions on the obtaining of taxi-cab licenses and fingerprinting of all persons who buy firearms. Deportation of all criminals who cannot prove citizenship is further suggested.

UNTERMYER PLEADS FOR WIDER POWERS IN HOUSING INQUIRY

CALLS SITUATION SERIOUS

SEES A CHANCE FOR RELIEF

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Samuel Untermyer, chief counsel of the Lockwood committee, appeared before the Senate Finance Committee and Assembly Ways and Means Committee at a hearing this afternoon on the resolution to give the committee power to look into the affairs and financial operations of insurance companies and banks, and served notice on the Legislature that, unless this power was given to the committee, its investigation into housing conditions must halt uncompleted on the very threshold of its most important phase.

To break up illegal combinations impeding building, Mr. Untermyer said, would avail nothing if, when these had been broken up, as they had been, there was no loan market to which builders could resort for the financing of their operations. The loan market, the lawyer added, had been depleted through the surtax on large incomes diverting the funds of rich estates and persons of wealth to investments in bonds and securities exempt under the income tax law.

The insurance companies and banks alone, he added, could afford relief in the present emergency, and to devise the proper legislation to force them into coming to the rescue of the State the thorough investigation the committee had proposed was essential.

To illustrate what he had in mind in making this statement, Mr. Untermyer said that information had been sought from the State Superintendent of Banks regarding the salary of certain Presidents of banking institutions. The committee had failed to obtain it because that official had questioned his right under the existing law to divulge such data.

Tells of High Salaries.

"Yet we will want it," Mr. Untermyer added, "for all we know there are salaries of men administering not only their own moneys but the money of the masses, responsible to no authority whatever, self-constituted guardians of this money, and members of self-perpetuating boards who receive salaries far in excess of what they should receive. There are men in such positions whose salaries, if they were brought to a reasonable sum by legislation that we might suggest if we thought the facts warranted it, would leave enough over for the creation of something of a fund for industrial purposes."

Mr. Untermyer described the housing situation as desperate and growing worse.

"It is desperate beyond description," he said. "It is growing more desperate all the time. We are fast approaching not only a crisis, but a cataclysm that is going to affect not only the morals but the commercial supremacy of our community. We are confronted with not only the possibility but the probability, of wholesale foreclosures, and thus alone a money market would be created."

Mr. Untermyer was the only speaker at the hearing. There was no one on hand to appear in open opposition to the committee's proposal for more power. Mr. Untermyer remarked on this, saying that he had hoped to meet his opponents face to face. It was intimated by Senator Charles J. Hewitt, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, who presided, that legislative procedure might be reversed and the opposition get its inning later.

Questioned by Lusk and Machold.

Senate Leader Lusk and Speaker Machold of the Assembly, both sat with the committee of their respective Houses, interested listeners at first, but later interrogators who cross-questioned Mr. Untermyer rather sharply on his proposal for more power. A colloquy between Chairman Hewitt and Mr. Untermyer at the opening of the hearing indicated that the temper of the Finance Committee was all that it has been represented to be in Albany newspaper dispatches.

After the hearing the two committees went into executive session and informally discussed the demand for power to investigate banks and insurance companies. Subsequently they called in Mr. Untermyer, Deputy Attorney General Samuel A. Berger and Leonard M. Wallstein of counsel for the Lockwood committee, whom they questioned further.

After the secret session advocates of the broader powers were a trifle more hopeful than they had been that emasculation of the resolution would not go as far as seemed likely a week ago. Fear was expressed in some quarters, however, that the old game of "playing one house against the other" might be resorted to by the opposition, and the proposal thus go down to defeat. Senator Lusk impressed some of the advocates of extended powers as more friendly to their proposal than he had been, while Speaker Machold refused to commit the Assembly to any line of action on the Lockwood resolution.

The hearing was held in the room of the Senate Finance Committee. Mr. Un-termyer, when called upon to speak, suggested that, in accordance with the legislative rules governing public hearings, the opposition be heard first.

"This is not a general hearing," said Chairman Hewitt. "It is only to give you an opportunity to tell the committee why you want this extended power."

Wants to Smoke Out Opposition.

"We would like to have some one here to tell us why we should not have that power," said Mr. Untermyer. "I assume, then, that there is no outside opposition, and that, if there is any at all, it comes from within the committee. We would like to smoke out the opposition, if there is any, and know where it comes from."

"Why assume there is any?" asked Chairman Hewitt.

"When opposition is covert and underground you generally can see the signs of it, even when you cannot see the opposition itself," was the retort of Mr. Untermyer. "I thought as this public hearing had been announced some one inside or outside the Legislature must have the courage to come forward and state why he opposes our demand. I suppose this will be the only hearing."

"I am not prepared to say that," said Mr. Hewitt.

"Then, if there is any opposition that develops, may we have an opportunity to come here, face to face with the opposition, regardless of this hearing?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"I am not prepared to say that," the Chairman replied.

Disavows General City Inquiry.

Discussing the merit of the committee's request for broader powers, Mr. Untermyer at the outset disavowed any intention of investigating the Government of the City of New York if the broader powers were granted, or, as had been suggested in some quarters, "explode the whole financial system of the City of New York."

"As for the city investigation," he added, "when it was suggested we said we would not listen to it because to go into a political or semi-political controversy would cripple the standing usefulness of the committee, and no intention to unsettle financial affairs lurks anywhere in this committee. On the contrary, our purpose would be to avoid such a catastrophe; but such a cry of alarm always goes up and great activity in these underground ways is always exhibited whenever a proposal is made for restrictive legislation affecting the financial interests."

Mr. Untermyer said the demand for power to investigate business construction as well as residential housing was due to the fact that the rent laws enacted last year appeared to have stimulated the construction of office buildings and lofts at the expense of dwellings. The committee wanted to frame legislation to remedy this situation.

Then Mr. Untermyer took up the demand for power to grant immunity to witnesses.

"A comprehensive investigation of this subject will necessarily involve a provision of this kind," he said. "We are to inquire into illegal combinations, and our witnesses in many instances are members of these who must be given immunity to induce them to testify, else they will plead their constitutional privilege and refuse to answer questions. Of course, no such witnesses will be given immunity except by vote of the committee, so the whole thing hinges on whether you trust your committee."

Calls Power Too Limited.

Mr. Untermyer declared the most substantial part of the Lockwood resolution was the clause broadening the power of the committee to investigate the affairs of insurance companies and banking institutions. At present the committee had power only to inquire into their investments. These could not be properly investigated without power to go into the entire standing and conditions of the financial institutions in question. It was through these institutions alone that relief in the housing situation could be obtained.

"It is quite natural," Mr. Untermyer said, "that rich estates and men of large wealth should withdraw their money from the loan market when they have to pay from 40 to 60 per cent. by way of income tax, leaving them only from 2.6 to 3.4 per cent. net return, when they can go in and buy tax exempt city and county bonds that will yield from 5 to 5½ per cent. And there is no prospect of the heavy surtax being materially reduced for many years to come. Public sentiment would be against taking the surtax off heavy fortunes. What are we to do to replace existing mortgages held by estates? And, more particularly, what are we going to do to stimulate building loans, so much needed at the present time?"

Mr. Untermyer said the banks and insurance companies afforded the only way out of the difficulty. He referred to the holdings of fire insurance companies which were not affected by the Armstrong insurance laws, that prescribed the character of investments for life insurance concerns.

"The fire insurance companies today have a large share of their investments in stocks of corporations," said the lawyer. "I am not going to characterize these stocks. Some are high class, others not so good, still they are permitted to invest a large part of their money in stocks and have practically no money in bonds and mortgages, and yet every dollar that they see is drawn from building. Real estate mortgages are liquid enough for the savings banks, from which every dollar of deposits can be drawn upon sixty days' notice, while a fire insurance company is required to pay only sixty days after proof of loss by fire, and the whole country is not going to burn at once."

"Misled," Lusk Asserts.

Mr. Untermyer had gone only a little further when Senator Lusk interruped with the remark:

"I don't see how this lecture bears on the question. We can get on faster if I can call your attention to the questions that are troubling the committee. I think, to begin with, that you have been misled by the newspapers. This controversy was created by them. It is a straw man. Every member of the Committee on Finance and of the Ways and Means Committee, and of the Legislature, so far as I know, has always been willing to extend to this committee every power to make a full and complete and sweeping investigation of this subject."

Mr. Lusk said he had very grave doubt whether the Legislature could grant power of immunity except in connection with a bill, because a resolution did not go to the Governor, and the Governor was part of the lawmaking power.

The question has not been raised in the Legislature, although such powers were given by resolution to the Lexow and Mazet committees investigating New York City affairs, and more recently to the Merritt committee, which investigated lobbying activities in the Legislature itself.

Mr. Untermyer said he had been over the subject and had no doubt. Congress, he declared, always extended power to grant immunity in the way it had been proposed to extend it to the Lockwood committee. He could see no harm in passing a statute as well, but did not regard it as necessary.

Senator Lusk said he did not think there was any general opposition among the lawmakers to the immunity clause in the Lockwood resolution.

"Do you want power to make a general investigation of banks or insurance companies, or do you simply want power to make an investigation bearing upon their relation to housing?" asked Senator Lusk.

Predicts Opposition at Every Step.

"That is the crux of the whole thing," said the lawyer. "All we would be likely to use would be the power to investigate that relation. But we are going to be opposed at every step by the keenest legal minds in the land, and if we have got to go to court every time to determine whether or not the particular thing we want is directly related to the housing situation, we are simply going to pile up a bundle of litigation and no evidence."

"You can stand it as long as the other fellows can, if we finance you and give you plenty of help, as we have so far," said Senator Lusk.

"I do not want to make a life work of this; I want to get through," said Mr. Untermyer.

"You would be sustained by the courts if you were right," suggested the Senate leader.

"But it puts the burden of proof on the committee every time," said the lawyer. "We would always be on the defensive. That means no investigation. I have been through all of this for Congress again and again, and I know the necessity for having broad powers. If you don't trust us, then you should have a new committee. We haven't any earthly intention of making a general upheaval of financial institutions and a general investigation. Anybody who tries that will be a long time at it, and he will kick up so much mud that he won't be able to settle it for a long time to come."

No Objection to Housing Inquiry.

"There is no objection to this committee going ahead with the housing investigation," said the Senate leader. "We doubt the wisdom of collateral investigations from two standpoints. We think you are doing too good work to quit housing for something else. And if we authorize a lot of collateral inquiries we do not know where we are going to land. I saw the questionnaire your committee put out. I went over it carefully, and found that you were asking for over half a million schedules under Exhibit A.

"Senator, you went off half-cocked," said Untermyer. "That questionnaire was sent out before we knew it. The man who put it out has been severed from the committee and the questionnaire withdrawn. Other questionnaires we have put out are already answered by 65 per cent. of the institutions."

"Have you tried to get something and failed to get it because you lacked powers under the present resolution?" asked Speaker Machold.

"We haven't touched the branch of the investigation we are now preparing to enter—that of the loan market," said Mr. Untermyer. "We haven't called a witness on it. Before we go into it we have got to have the power, and we haven't the power, and if we haven't the power we are not going into it. We are not going to make a fizzle of that important branch of the investigation. I understood that a meeting has already been held by some of these corporations to question the power of the committee under the existing resolution."

"Might you state some of the specific things you seek to find out from the insurance companies?" asked Senator Knight of Wyoming.

"I would rather not," said Mr. Untermyer.

"We haven't got along this far by exposing our case."

Mr. Untermyer said one thing the committee wanted to find out was why fire insurance rates and workmen's compensation rates in this State should be four times what they were in New Jersey.

At the opening of the hearing Senator Lockwood filed resolutions from the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce and the Citizens' Union indorsing his resolution. The City Club has gone on record against it.

It was said tonight that the Senate Finance Committee would act on the resolution next Tuesday.

BRINDELL ACCUSED OF LABOR TYRANNY

Witness at Trial Says He Tried to Foist Personal Friends on a Contractor.

Robert P. Brindell, Chairman of the Building Trades Council, on trial in the Supreme Court on an indictment charging extortion, attempted to dictate how a construction contract valued at $275,000 should be handled, threatened to deprive the contractor of all work in New York City, and suggested an arrangement whereby the cost of the work was to be increased about $125,000, according to the testimony of witnesses yesterday.

The contract in question was one awarded to Jacob Fradus, an excavator, by the Garment Center Realty Company, and called for the demolition of two blocks of houses on Seventh Avenue, between Thirty-sixth and Thirty-eighth Streets, and the digging of the foundation.

Fradus, his former lawyer, Franklin Nevius of Kellogg & Rose, and George H. Clark, a civil engineer of Holbrook, Cabot & Rollins, testified to Brindell's operations. The witnesses also swore that Brindell took an active part in introducing a contractor, Pierce, on the job after the Garment Center Realty Company canceled Fradus's contract because of a strike called by Brindell. In attempting to intercede with Brindell on behalf of Fradus, Clark was told by the labor leader that he, Brindell, wanted $7,500 from Fradus. Brindell pointed out to Nevius that as the Garment Center Realty Company did not engage a general contractor for the work they were saving money, and suggested that if Fradus consented to permit his friend Pierce, another contractor, to do part of the work the price should be increased from about $275,000 to about $400,000.

On cross-examination by Martin Littleton, counsel for Brindell, Fradus testified that he has brought suit for $345,000 against the Garment CenterRealty Company and Brindell, charging that they drove him out of business. He admitted asking for Brindell's aid in obtaining damages against the Garment Center Realty Company, but denied offering him $2,000.

Mr. Clark, who followed, said that Fradus called on him last April after the cancellation of the contract and suggested that he see Brindell. He visited the latter, who told him Fradus could have the contract if he paid $7,500 to him.

"Did he say why he wanted the money?" asked Samuel Untermyer, for the prosecution.

"He said he wanted it for himself. He said that the Garment Center Realty Company was saving money by not having a general contractor on the job and he wanted some of that money."

"What did he say would happen if he did not get it?"

"He said Fradus could not have that job or any other job in New York City."

"Yes," said Clark. "He said if Fradus paid the money he could have the job. If he didn't, he couldn't. The job had to go on, he said, and whatever arrangements were to be made had to be made immediately."

The session concluded shortly after noon to permit Mr. Untermyer to go to Albany on behalf of the Lockwood committee. The trial will be resumed at 10 A. M. today.

RENT CASES ARGUED IN COURT OF APPEALS

Array of Counsel Represents Tenant and Landlord—Early Decision Looked For.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—The disagreement as to the effect of the Emergency Housing laws enacted by the Legislature on Sept. 27, 1920, is to be settled by the Court of Appeals, which today heard arguments in nine test cases involving all phases of the question. In every step heretofore, except in a single instance, the landlords have lost their contentions. This was when the First and Second Appellate Divisions disagreed as to the right of the Legislature to take away powers vested in the Supreme Court in ejectment cases. The First Department of the Appellate Division held that the law was unconstitutional, while the Second Department ruled it constitutional.

All nine cases were in ejectment proceedings and covered various points which the landlords and leasing companies had brought forward to prove their stand. There was a big array of legal talent in the court when the cases were called. It is expected that the court will expedite the cases and that a decision will be reached possibly in two weeks, otherwise the determination will be held up until the next recess, the early part of February.

The cases were highly technical. As the arguments progressed members of the court asked many questions to clear up some points in the argument.

SERIES OF FIRES SWEEP WORCESTER

Losses Reach $1,800,000 When 50 Business Places and 20 Tenements Burn.

His Sanity Questioned—Police Report Evidence of Incendiarism in Many Buildings.

WORCESTER, Mass., Jan. 19.—William N. Taylor, night watchman of the Marrifield Building, destroyed by fire early this morning, was arrested tonight and was sent to the Worcester State Hospital for observation as to his sanity.

The arrest followed an epidemic of fires in Worcester which began before 3 o'clock this morning and continued throughout the day and night, causing damage estimated at $1,800,000.

The police say tonight that evidence of incendiarism was discovered in a score of the buildings destroyed or damaged. The latest fire, in the Oscar Will & Co. women's clothing store, in the lower floor of the State Mutual Building on Main Street, was set in three places, according to Chief Avery of the Fire Department.

At midnight, when the police relief went on duty, orders were read from Chief Hill that "firebugs were at work," and patrolmen were ordered to arrest all suspicious characters.

Every semi-public and public building in the downtown section is under police guard.

Score of Tenements Fired.

In the first fires, early this morning, two business buildings on Main Street, heavily stocked with goods, were burned out, and a few blocks south of City Hall a score of tenements were set on fire. Guests of the Bancroft and New Park Hotels, between the business and tenement districts, prepared to follow the tenement dwellers into the zero temperature of the streets, but both hotels were saved.

While this epidemic of flames to the south engaged all the city's apparatus another blaze developed several blocks northeast of City Hall, at North Foster and Union Streets, where the woodworking plant of the M. K. Smith Corporation was burned, with a loss of $100,000.

The fire area was too great to be adequately covered by the city's firemen, and Boston, Clinton, Millbury and Westboro were called on to send additional apparatus. All responded, a motor engine coming over the forty-four miles of bleak road from Boston in quick time.

The flames skirted the building of The Worcester Evening Post, but were kept away by a curtain of water. The consequent cellar flood, and the rush into the basement room out of commission and spoiled a large quantity of newsprint paper.

The first fire started in the Knowles Building, at Main and Chatham Streets, apparently in the top floor of the seventy-story brick structure. Embers fell into the elevator well and wind whipped the flames back through the salesrooms, offices and apartments on upper floors. From roof and windows a high northwest wind picked up the embers and scattered them over the centre of the city.

Sparks lodged in the William H. Sawyer Building across Main Street from the Knowles Building, and the two stories of that building, occupied by stores and offices, were burned quickly.

Wooden roofs of the tenement district beyond developed blaze after blaze, while the people they had sheltered turned out into the streets in night clothing, shivering in the icy northwest wind.

With a score of buildings burning at one time in the district bounded by Millbury, Ward, Lamartine, Assonet, Gold and Harding Streets, the firemen's lines became thin and the danger of a conflagration great. At this point help began to come in from outside, and it was timely.

New Blaze a Mile Away.

North of City Hall, a mile away, another fire was reported, and depletion of the forces engaged on the first fires was necessary to prevent the new blaze spreading from the plant of the M. K. Smith corporation to other woodworking plants and lumber yards in the vicinity of North Foster and Union Streets. This fire was controlled after a time, with only minor damage outside the Smith plant.

The fire was free of fatalities or serious injuries. Several firemen sustained hurts from falling glass, smoke, slippery ladders and toppling ruins, but none was injured severely. Those who left their homes in fear of the flames suffered somewhat from exposure, but they were under cover again by daylight in most cases.

Fifty business places, including six retail stores, six manufacturing plants and a large number of offices of dentists, doctors, music teachers and others, were wiped out.

The principal sufferers were S. S. Kresge Company, 5 and 10 cent store; S. Marcus Company, furriers and cloak dealers; Guy Furniture Company, Lewis Cleaning and Dyeing Company, Williams Book Store, C. F. Monahan's Sporting Goods Store, M. K. Smith Corporation, builders' finish; Henry Brannon & Sons, cabinet makers; Larkin & Sear, machine works; Macklin Oil Gauge Company, Worcester Gear Works and Beacon Enamelling Company.

The Bijou Theatre at Millbury and Lamartine Streets, a mile from the Knowles Building, caught fire, but the damage was slight. Plate glass windows in the Park Trust Company Building at Main and Franklin Streets were shattered by heat from the Knowles Building.

Mayor Sullivan arranged today to have the local National Guard companies mustered at their armories tonight ready for duty in case of an emergency, because of the exhausted condition of the firemen.

Governor Cox sent word to Mayor Sullivan that the State stood ready to supply troops or any emergency equipment necessary to assist the city. The Mayor replied that Worcester felt it could care for the situation without outside help.

Three more fires gave hard work to the weary firemen tonight. The R. P. Robb Power Company's foundry in Albany Street was destroyed, causing a loss estimated at $50,000. Five firemen were injured when the roof fell. Chief Avery sprained his ankle but refused to leave the scene.

The storehouse of a metal working plant on the outskirts of the city was burned early in the evening. Chief Avery said he believed this blaze was of incendiary origin.

Late tonight the firemen were called to fight a threatening fire in the State Mutual Building in Main Street.

STUDENT CONFESSES ARSON

St. John's Cadet Says He Burned School Building to Get a Vacation.

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Jan. 19.—Austin L. Ingersoll, 17 years old, a freshman cadet at St. John's Military School at Manlius, and son of a prominent Elmira druggist, confessed today that he had set fire to three of the school buildings because he "hoped the cadet battalion would be dismissed for the rest of the year and he could go home."

Immediately after his confession to District Attorney Frank P. Malpass, Ingersoll was indicted by the Grand Jury on three separate counts of arson, third degree. The three buildings which were fired by the cadet were the Academy Building, on Nov. 14, which was destroyed with a loss approximating $200,000; the chapel, which was set on fire Jan. 5, with slight loss, and Huntington Hall, a fire in which on Jan. 14 caused little damage.

CONFESSES KILLING ANNAPOLIS NURSE

Negro Tells How He Waylaid Her on Academy Grounds and Hit Her on Head.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 19.—Breaking down after twenty-four hours of the severest kind of third degree and after his alibi had been shattered by detectives of the Baltimore city force, Henry Brown, mess attendant in the United States Navy and deserter from the service, this afternoon confessed the murder of Miss Harriet Kavanaugh of Buffalo, the nurse who was found in a dying condition last Friday night after she had been attacked within the bounds of the Naval Academy reservation.

Brown deserted from the navy on Dec. 22, and since that time had been without work. He returned to Annapolis on the day of the murder and spent some time around the town. Then he went to the Naval Academy, entering by the Oklahoma gate, which is on King George Street. On account of his naval uniform he had no difficulty in gaining admittance; it was merely a matter of saluting the guard who stood at the entrance. From the gate he went to the grand stand on Worden Field.

Behind this stand he found a pile of junk from which he selected the short piece of pipe with which he killed Miss Kavanaugh. Following this he walked along the road to the College Creek Bridge, which is a hundred yards away, and crossed to the Naval Academy Cemetery. There he hid himself behind a tree and waited for some one to pass.

Thus it became known that Brown's act was directed not against Miss Kavanaugh in particular, as had first been surmised, but any person passing along the same road.

He waited behind the tree until Miss Kavanaugh approached. From the point where he stood he would have been able to see her while she was yet on the bridge, and he watched his victim coming fearlessly to the trap that he had laid for her.

When the nurse reached the spot he leaped out and struck her on the head with the pipe. She fell with the first blow and without an outcry. After that Brown is said to admit that he hit her on the head one more time, although there were three distinct fractures of the skull, when the body was found. He is understood to have adhered to his tale of two blows.

The negro then grabbed her handbag and ran. He recrossed the bridge and followed College Creek along the edge of the water in the direction of St. John's College. This way led behind the houses of naval officers stationed at the Naval Academy and was out of sight of the road. Arriving at the Naval Academy wall on King George Street, the murderer waited for his chance and climbed the wall. At the point where he must have scaled it the wall joins College Creek, and this part of King George Street is dark.

Once more on the street, Brown crossed it and climbed a low fence to the rear campus of St. John's College. It was here that he said he opened the small purse which he had found in Miss Kavanaugh's handbag. From the purse he took about $8 and then threw it into the bushes. The purse was found two days ago at the place where he said it had been thrown.

The trial of the murderer may be held either as a naval court-martial or before the United States District Court of Baltimore. The latter is the more probable.

84% OF FAILURES DID NOT ADVERTISE

G. A. Cullen Tells the Fact in Advising Fruit Farmers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—"A few days ago one of the financial agencies (either Dun's or Bradstreet's) gave out the information that of all the failures recorded in 1920, 84 per cent. were of firms which did not advertise."

This was the statement of George A. Cullen, Vice President of the North American Fruit Exchange and Vice President of the Lackawanna Railroad, in an address to the New York Agricultural Society at its meeting just ended here.

"That is rather significant," he continued. "Dun's and Bradstreet's reports do not cover the apple growers of New York State.

"You apple growers sitting before me furnish one of the most striking examples in this country of intelligent men failing to make use of the one thing that could turn disaster into success. Why do California growers successfully invest $750,000 in advertising to create an appetite for the citrus fruits, while New York growers invest practically not a cent to create an appetite for some of the finest fruit produced on the face of the earth.

"Think of the Pacific Coast raisin growers investing $500,000 a year in advertising, and the prune growers $350,000, while the New York State farmers apparently try to keep it a secret that they produce the finest of seed potatoes and maple syrup.

"There is a further and exceedingly important use for advertising by the grower. That is in constantly keeping the consumer informed when his products are available or to be available, when they are abundant and when they are or should be relatively cheap at retail. This has real practical value in stimulating consumption.

"Why then does not the grower keep his public informed daily of the state of the market? Why should the department stores use about one-third of the space in each day's papers to tell their public about their goods while the grower leaves it to some Government agency or other belated crop report source to print the market quotations on perishables (of all things!) in some obscure corner of one page?

"The answer, of course, to why the farmer does not advertise is the same as that to why he does not standardize and why he does not provide himself with the proper system of distribution. It is because he does not organize."

BOSTON MAN HELD UP.

Followed Home From New York by Thieves, Who Get $4,200.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 19.—A trio of crooks who followed Allie Finkelstein of 46 Thornton Street, Revere, from New York last night, attacked and robbed him of $4,200 at his own door early today. The money was the proceeds of a business deal in Manhattan.

The victim managed to catch a glimpse of one of the robbers as he turned to flee and he recognized him as one of three men he saw on the train from New York.

Finkelstein left the trolley car at the corner of Broadway and Thornton Street, Revere, and started along Thornton Street toward his house. He was within a few feet of it when three men confronted him, one with a revolver.

Finkelstein resisted. The man holding the weapon did not shoot, but aided his companions in holding Finkelstein's arms in order to expedite the search. The robbers obtained the money then ran along Thornton Street and disappeared around the nearest corner.

Chinese-Siberian Negotiations Off.

PEKING, Jan. 18.—Negotiations between the Chinese Government and M. Yourin, head of the Far Eastern Republic's mission in this city, are reported virtually to have been abandoned, owing to the failure of the Far Eastern Republic to satisfy China as to the safety of the lives and property of Chinese residents in Siberia. Continual complaints of ill treatment and confiscation of property have been received here, and these had a bearing on the conversations that were being carried on.

Drastic New Order Explains Wholesale Dropping of Men and Decrease of Hours.

ROAD'S BUSINESS HARD HIT

Department Heads Have Discretion in Making Reduction—May Cut Passenger Service.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—A new general order for another 10 per cent. reduction in expenses of the Pennsylvania Railway system, making a 20 per cent. cut since November, is the explanation given for the widespread movement to lay off employes or decrease the hours of employment.

Ways and means of effecting the reduction in expenses are left to the discretion of heads of departments and superintendents. All classes of railroad employes are affected—clerks, trainmen, yardmen, shopmen and maintenance of right of way men.

The seniority rule will prevail in the elimination of employes, and in many cases the reduction will be made by lessening the number of hours of employment each week, rather than by discharge of employes.

A falling off in freight traffic of 20 to 22 per cent. from the peak haulages of August and October is given as the reason for the drastic step now taken.

Statement by President Rea.

President Rea issued the following statement today:

"By reason of the continued falling off in business, the management of the Pennsylvania Railroad has instructed all departments to effect a further reduction in expenses of 10 per cent., as compared with the expenses in November, 1920. This is in addition to the 10 per cent. reduction previously ordered to be necessary.

"There is no arbitrary rule adopted. The principle on which the reduction will be made is to secure the utmost economy consistent with safety and efficiency. The Vice Presidents, however, have been directed that in carrying out these instructions they shall do so in the manner best adapted to avoid, as far as possible, unnecessary disruption of the organization or individual hardship.

"It is to be hoped that the reduction in business will continue for only a brief period. The management of the Pennsylvania Railroad sincerely regrets that uninterrupted employment cannot be assured to every faithful man on its payroll. But the situation is a practical one, and no way has as yet been devised in such climaxes as these now existing to avoid a reduction in expenses and working forces.

"As indicative of the severity of the conditions confronting the management, it may be pointed out that the Pennsylvania Railroad system now has on its lines 58,000 idle freight cars, which is about 20 per cent. of the number owned, and that the idle cars are increasing daily. Freight traffic has declined 20 per cent. to 22 per cent. as compared with the early Fall, and all available information as to the prevailing conditions in the productive industries and general commerce indicates that a further slowing down in the freight movement must be anticipated before recovery can reasonably be expected. Regretfully, there is, therefore, no course open to the management except to curtail expenses accordingly."

Will Affect 15,000 Men in East.

It is figured that several hundred clerks in the Broad street station will be affected by the new order, and that throughout the Eastern Division a total of 15,000 men will lose employment or work fewer hours per week.

This official statement covering the changes was issued:

"The option was given employes to choose which method appealed to them, as it was thought it would make for more stable conditions if the men would work only five days a week instead of a large number being laid off to join the ranks of the unemployed."

Reports that the railroad was contemplating reductions in rates of wages were denied by officials, who pointed out that most of the employes were working on rates of pay fixed by agreement and by decisions of the railroad labor boards.

Absolute economy in usage of material, from rubber bands and pencil stubs in the clerical departments to material in use on the roadways, has been ordered, in furtherance of the economy plan.

It is stated that in the section from the Atlantic Ocean to the Alleghany Mountains many clerical employes have petitioned department chiefs to let them take a day off each week instead of reducing the force and this plan has been followed. In shop and track maintenance departments reductions are made in the number of men employed.

No concerted action has been taken by the Reading railway system as to laying off workers, but about 1,000 men were laid off several months ago. Division superintendents were instructed to bear in mind at all times the policy of rigid economy and to eliminate all men whose services were not necessary. Retrenchment over the entire system is the watchword of the Reading Railway.

May Cut Passenger Service.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19.—Reductions in the forces of the Baltimore Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad are being put into effect this week. This will bring the number of employes dismissed since Fall up to 800. The force was 6,800 when dismissals began.

It is said here that the Pennsylvania is contemplating taking off some passenger trains, both express and local. This, it is said, is being worked out in the general offices in Philadelphia.

OTHER ROADS DROPPING MEN.

But No Plan to Decrease Working Time Is Considered Here.

A canvass of local railroad offices yesterday showed that a majority of the lines did not contemplate a reduction in working days. Opinion on the Pennsylvania announcement, however, was divided. Some railroad men said that the company was offering to keep its employes if the latter would agree to a shorter working week. Others felt that this was not the time to do anything that might further raise the question of wage agreements.

While no reduction in working days is contemplated by the Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Lehigh Valley, New York Central and New Haven roads, it was explained officially for all of the companies that there had been a material reduction in working forces as traffic had fallen off.

This dropping and taking on of some classes of employes is an elastic affair and it is influenced by the demands of business on the individual roads.

LONG ISLAND R. R. DROPS 900.

Some Trains May Be Taken Off if More Men Are Let Go.

Nine hundred of the 9,000 employes of the Long Island Railroad have been laid off since Jan. 1 and more will follow unless the road gets permission to increase its fares, according to a statement made yesterday at the offices of J. H. Savage, General Manager.

It was said that the 10 per cent. cut, while it affects all departments, was so handled that no passenger trains were taken off. This may be necessary if there is a further reduction.

N. & W. TO LAY OFF 2,000 MEN.

Drop in Business Since Jan. 1 "Serious," Says President.

ROANOKE, Va., Jan. 19.—About 2,000 employes of the Norfolk & Western Railway Company will be laid off Saturday, according to information given out today at the general offices of the company. The cut is effective over the entire system and affects practically all shop departments. About 900 men will be laid off in Roanoke.

This reduction will make the total number of men laid off recently to about 3,500.

President N. D. Maher said that the cut was made necessary by a decrease in the company's business, which, he stated, had been "very serious since January."

BROOKLYN LABOR HOPEFUL.

Five Firms Increased Staffs, but 30% of Workers Are Unemployed.

Reports received by Grant E. Scott, industrial secretary of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, who has been surveying the labor situation in Brooklyn, indicates that of the workers employed on June 1, 1920, 30 per cent. were unemployed at the beginning of this year. Mr. Scott's investigation was largely of individual plants, which, under normal conditions, employ about 250,000 workers.

Despite prevailing conditions, Mr. Scott found optimism among employers and workers. Five large concerns reported that they had recently increased the number of their workers. In most cases employers were doing all they could to keep their employees at work by the adoption of half-time and other measures, and the workers were contributing generously to aid those out of employment.

CITY'S SHIVERS CEASE AS COLD SPELL ENDS

Temperature Rises to 21 Above —Snow Coming—Skating in Full Swing.

The grip of arctic weather relaxed gradually yesterday, so that by last midnight the worst of the cold spell was over. The thermometer slowly struggled up from 6 above, at 3 in the morning, to 22 at 3 in the afternoon. Thereafter it wavered within a degree or two, but lost no material ground, the last report issued from the Weather Bureau, at 11 o'clock last night, fixing the official temperature for that hour at 21 above.

The prediction for today is "unsettled and much warmer Thursday and Friday; fresh south winds." An earlier and more ample report said that "the change to warmer, following the cold wave, is marked and widespread, and has advanced as far east as Cincinnati and Detroit. In this vicinity the temperature will rise decidedly tonight and tomorrow, with increasing cloudiness and probably rain or snow Thursday. Fresh northerly winds will shift to southeast."

Low temperatures of the last few days have resulted in unusual opportunities for skating on hard, smooth ice. The red ball was up in Van Cortlandt Park and hundreds were there. The Morris Canal was frozen over from Paterson to Mountain View, offering a stretch of ice fifteen miles long and as smooth as a billiard table. Many took the Erie to Mountain View and skated all the way back to Paterson.

STERN JUSTICE IN CHICAGO.

Hold-Up Men Get Sentences of From Ten Years to Life Terms.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—With fifteen Judges, or more than double the usual number, trying criminal cases at top speed today the wheels of justice revolved at unusual speed in Chicago.

In Judge Kersten's court Thomas Sloaznik and Stephen Kreeway were sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of from ten years to life—the maximum penalty for robbery. The two pleaded guilty to robbing an express company messenger of $17,500 last July. Two other robbers figured in the attack. One of them was shot and died later. The other, pleading not guilty, is now being tried.

DU BOIS INDICTED AS POLICE GRAFTER

with the Whitman inquiry have told of reporting burglaries or sabotage to the police, and added:

"All the police would do was to recommend a private detective."

In some cases where a private detective agency was employed, it was said that the private detective charged large fees, but succeeded in having all or most of his work done by members of the Police Department paid by the city.

Mr. Whitman indicated yesterday that the relations between private detective agencies and the Police Department would probably be the most important part of his investigation. His view is that this form of graft is worse than that which flourished in the period which culminated with the Rosenthal murder, because the alleged victims today are legitimate business men while the prey of the police grafter of 1912 were gamblers and white slavers. The outlaws who paid protection in 1912, it was pointed out, were persons of limited means, and could not finance graft on a great scale, whereas the treasuries of fur manufacturers, big printing houses and other industries to be disclosed later offered much greater possibilities.

GOV. MILLER INVITES PRESS CO-OPERATION

Courts Criticism as Well as Approval, He Tells Publishers.

SEES VALUE OF PUBLICITY

He Assures Convention of State Editors That They Will Not Find Him "Thin-Skinned."

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Governor Miller made a frank appeal today for co-operation of the press in directing the glare of publicity on his administrative program in a speech to the State Publishers' Association in convention here.

"I court your approval and support of just those things we undertake which appeal to you as being right," he said. "If we undertake anything you do not think is right, I want you to tell us so."

The Governor told the publishers he realized fully the importance of publicity.

"We have quite a program ahead. Part of it has been outlined and the rest will follow. We cannot get very far without the backing of public opinion and we must rely upon you to inform the public correctly so it can form an intelligent opinion.

"Practically all of my life I have been engaged in a vocation in which I avoided publicity. It is a new experience to me where publicity is required. The people who surround me think I do not develop fast enough in the arts of publicity, but I assure you I am trying my best. I want the newspapers to be very free to comment as they see fit and to point out what they please."

The Governor declared he welcomed co-operation of the press and added: "If at times this means criticism, do not think I am thin-skinned."

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—The State Publishers' Association, the membership of which includes the owners of fifty-two daily newspapers in the State, today went on record as opposed to any reduction of hours in the mechanical departments of their papers.

This action resulted from the announcement by officials of the Stereotypers and Electrotypers' Union that, beginning May 1, the union would demand a forty-four-hour week, a reduction of four hours from the present working week.

In formal resolutions adopted today the Publishers' Association says:

"It is an un-American theory that it is a proper function of labor to exact a maximum toll of profits regardless of conditions."

The resolutions further state that "a marked reduction of output with a rapid enhancement of the cost of production and an extension of the vicious circle of rising prices will be the immediate and inevitable result of such a course.

"In view of the business conditions today labor costs cannot be advanced. The forty-eight-hour week is the economic limit beyond which under present conditions in the newspaper industry it is not possible to go."

Frank E. Gannett of The Rochester Times-Union was re-elected President.

MILLER WARNS WOMEN OF RULE BY GROUPS

Governor Tells Them His Administration Is Going to Be a Partisan One.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Governor Miller, addressing Republican women of the State gathered here in conference tonight, warned them against Government by groups, declaring that aggressive minorities should always be subservient to the majority.

The Governor told the women of his economy and retrenchment program. He reminded them that while a Judge of the Court of Appeals he upheld the statute prohibiting night work for women, but said he did so because the law was constitutional and not because "it was desirable."

"The law was mainly intended to protect mothers and the health of women in industry," said Governor Miller, "but unmarried women who were forced out of employment suffered from its provisions. There is much agitation for social and industrial welfare laws, but there is little true understanding of the social and economic conditions they are intended to effect."

The Governor declared for equal opportunities in industry for women with men. He warned, however, that "there are those who utilize these efforts to accomplish betterments for women to gain some ulterior purpose which has nothing to do with either health or welfare."

"I believe in partisanship, and this is going to be a partisan administration," the Governor said. "I do not want to be misunderstood about this. It has nothing to do with politics in the sense of politics, because doing the right thing is always good politics. We have too much group government. There has been a disintegration lately with no official party mediums to declare principles, and of late there have been influences too good to enroll under party banners."

The women also heard George A. Glynn, Chairman of the Republican State Committee; former Senator Henry M. Sage of Albany and Majority Leader Clayton R. Lusk.

INSISTS POST FREED TREASONABLE ALIENS

Palmer Repeats Charge to Senators—Department Handled 17,900 Wartime Cases.

WOULD REPEAL SPY ACT

Debs Among 130 Convicted Persons Being Considered for Clemency by the President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — Attorney General Palmer, testifying today before the Senate Judiciary Committee, asserted that in enforcing the wartime laws of the country the Department of Justice had at all times been careful not to overstep the bounds of its authority and in all instances accused persons received the benefit of all doubts, as far as the department was able to direct such consideration.

Discussing the deportation cases which followed raids by the department in all parts of the country, the Attorney General again asserted that in many instances Assistant Secretary of Labor Louis Post had decided in favor of aliens against whom, in his opinion, the evidence was conclusive as regarded the treasonable activities of such aliens.

The total number of cases handled by the department in its efforts to enforce the wartime laws, the Attorney General said, was about 17,900, and of this number 5,720 had been disposed of by conviction in the courts, and 9,259 cases were still pending, while 2,924 cases had been disposed of otherwise than by conviction.

The greatest number of cases involved violation of the Selective Draft law, the total cited not including minor delinquencies, such as selling liquor and other offenses, under Sections 12 and 13 of the Draft law. Of the draft cases, convictions have been obtained in 4,812 cases, 2,144 cases have been disposed of otherwise than by conviction, while 8,846 cases are still pending in the courts. Under the Espionage act there have been 581 convictions, 315 cases are pending, while 786 cases have been disposed of otherwise than by court action.

Fewer Than 600 Punished.

The careful consideration that the department had given to all cases under the Espionage act, the Attorney General argued, was proved by the fact that fewer than 600 persons had been punished for violating the law. Several cases were cited in which complaint had been made that the department had exceeded its authority.

In one case it was alleged that a prisoner had been maltreated by Department of Justice agents, and a photograph was produced showing the accused with a black eye. Mr. Palmer explained that he had investigated this case, and that a photograph taken by the Government at the time of the arrest showed the accused with two very good and clear eyes. Two other cases cited by Senator Walsh of Montana, the Attorney General said, could not be charged against him, as one was disposed of before he became Attorney General, while the other was an immigration case.

Senator Walsh did most of the questioning, his inquiries being for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not the department had, on occasion, directed arrests without due process of law, and also whether or not search warrants had been issued for the purpose of obtaining evidence concerning persons against whom at the time there was no evidence that they had committed a crime.

The status of the Communist Party, and of the Communist Labor Party, came in for discussion during the examination. The Attorney General pointed out that the deportation law assigned to the Secretary of Labor the duty of deciding what organizations and persons were proscribed, and that in line with this duty the Secretary of Labor had decided that the Communist Party as an organization sought the overthrow of the Government of the United States and therefore alien members of that party were subject to deportation.

Subsequently, the Secretary of Labor decided that the aims of the Communist Labor Party were identical with those of the Communist Party, and as a result the Department of Justice did its best to take into custody aliens identified with the movement to overthrow the Government, after arrest transferring the prisoners to the Department of Labor, to which department the law leaves the final decision in matters involving deportation.

Under the Sabotage act there have been seven convictions, four cases are pending and one case has been decided without recourse to court action. Under the Trading With the Enemy act there have been six convictions, fourteen cases have been disposed of without court action, and twenty-six cases are still pending in the courts.

Many Persons Pardoned.

In answer to questions as to the number of pardons by the President, Attorney General Palmer said that from July 2, 1918, up to Jan. 15, this year, the President had pardoned or commuted the sentences of 199 persons convicted under the Espionage act and that 130 other cases involving possible executive clemency were being considered by the Department of Justice. He added, in answer to a question by Senator Borah, that the case of Eugene V. Debs was among the cases now under consideration.

"Whether Debs will be pardoned or not is as yet undecided," the Attorney General said, "but a pardon has not been refused."

The Attorney General opposed a general amnesty proclamation and said that the department was fast disposing of all cases that might be affected by such a proclamation.

"If you don't want the laws enforced, the best way to settle the matter is to repeal the laws," said the Attorney General. "I have favored for some time the repeal of the Espionage act."

ZAYAS WINS ELECTION CASE.

First Cuban Decision on Contests Favors His Candidacy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—Dr. Zayas's followers were elated tonight over the first judicial decision on the recent election in Santa Clara, but the Liberal adherents of General Gomez did not consider that the decision affected the final result. The decision is summed up thus:

"The Supreme Court has rendered its first decision in the appealed election cases which were decided by the Provincial Board of Santa Clara Province, and the result is that Alfredo Zayas gets the decision, which practically assures the electoral vote of that province for the National League. In this case it means that there is little hope for the appellants to secure enough decisions.

"The Liberals asked for the annulment of the elections held in the precincts of the aguas Claras, Rancho Veloz, Guanillas, San Vicente and Santa Fé. In Santa Fé there must be a new election, but this will not be sufficient to change the general result, as far as the national issue is concerned. The reports of the Provincial Electoral Boards are upheld in all the other precincts, and that about settles the matter as far as Santa Clara Province is concerned."

General Crowder is making no comment, but an official statement is expected from Dr. Zayas soon.

COMMENDS HARDING LETTER

London Paper Says It Excludes an Anti-British Policy.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—The Daily Chronicle, in an editorial appreciation of President-elect Harding's letter to the governors of the Sulgrave Institution, regards it as giving a forecast of Mr. Harding's Presidential policy.

"These declarations," says the paper, "exclude the idea that America under Mr. Harding's leadership will play a lone hand in world politics. They exclude equally the idea of her playing an anti-British hand."

The Chronicle proceeds:

"It is given out that one of Mr. Harding's first acts after his inauguration will be to summon a conference of international representatives to discuss the limitation of armaments. That problem is the most urgent immediately confronting the powers, but as it cannot easily be solved in isolation from the others we imagine that the others will be also on the agenda.

"To such a conference Britain would send her representatives in a spirit of cordial cooperation and good-will. She is perfectly conscious of the extent to which the success of any world-wide peace machinery depends upon Anglo-American harmony. Her own feeling toward the United States is different in kind from that toward any other power, and while she does not for a moment claim to occupy in America's regard the same preferential position which America occupies in hers, she knows very well how much more initial affinity to their own ideals and practices American statesmen will find in British statesmanship than in that of peoples who have not shared the common English-speaking traditions.

"Mr. Harding is entirely right in saying that such assets of natural kinship should be used in the service of the world as a whole not for the exclusion of the brotherhood of others, but for a better brotherhood flowing toward others.'"

HARDING POSTPONES CABINET DECISIONS

to appointment of political managers to the Cabinet regard delay of selections as giving time for more organized opposition.

Mr. Harding's attention was called to a dispatch in an Ohio paper, saying that Will Hays as Postmaster General was his first Cabinet selection, Mr. Harding said that the report was news to him and that he would like to know "where the authoritative announcement came from." After publication of this report Mr. Hays was invited to Marion and rode with the President-elect to Cleveland Monday, but it is known that during their three hours' conversation Mr. Harding made no Cabinet tender to the Chairman.

Mr. Harding's positive declaration that he would appoint a "Republican Cabinet" appears to dispose of all speculation about George E. Chamberlain, Democratic Senator from Oregon, as Secretary of War. This speculation arose largely from remarks of Mr. Harding concerning his regard for Senator Chamberlain.

Mr. Harding Gives Up Editorship.

MARION, Ohio, Jan. 19 (Associated Press).—Mr. Harding attended to various personal matters today preparatory to departure from Marion tomorrow night. All of tomorrow will be given over to packing and putting his private business affairs in order.

Definite announcement was made tonight that the President-elect would return to Marion before the inauguration. He will spend only one day here, however, arriving on March 2 and leaving the next day for Washington.

Mr. Harding resigned tonight as President of the Harding Publishing Company, and thus relinquished the active direction he has exercised for thirty years over the editorial policy of The Marion Daily Star. He did not sever his connection with the paper, however, accepting the Chairmanship of the Board of Directors with the understanding that his duties are to be more or less perfunctory while he is in the White House.

FALL GOING WITH HARDING.

Senate Feeling Against Hughes and for Root Still Growing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Senators Fall of New Mexico and Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, two of President-elect Harding's closest friends, will leave Washington tomorrow for St. Augustine to join Mr. Harding. Mr. Frelinghuysen is to be the host of the President-elect and Mrs. Harding on his houseboat during their Florida vacation. Mr. Fall is going at Mr. Harding's invitation, and it is supposed that he desires to consult the Senator concerning the makeup of the Cabinet and other matters.

Mr. Frelinghuysen is reported to favor the appointment of Hughes as Secretary of State. As far as has appeared, no other Senator is advocating Hughes's selection for this post. While the general impression in the Senate is that Mr. Harding has virtually made up his mind to offer the place to Hughes, the hope is growing in the Republican Senate ranks that he will not do so.

It is realized that Elihu Root is the only Republican of prominence who has a chance of displacing Hughes. Senator Knox, whose appointment would have pleased party men generally, took himself out of consideration.

The same thing is true of Senator Lodge. He and other New England Republicans are anxious that ex-Senator Weeks shall be a member of the Cabinet. It is obvious that the President-elect would not be inclined to appoint two Massachusetts men to his council of advisers. Nothing has appeared to indicate that Mr. Lodge would care to leave the Senate, although he has been regarded as one of the few men likely to be in the President-elect's mind with reference to the Secretaryship of State. In the general understanding that Mr. Weeks will enter the Cabinet, those inclined to favor Mr. Lodge for the premiership have not brought his name to Mr. Harding's attention.

Senators who favored the appointment of Dr. David Jayne Hill of New York to the senior place in the Cabinet are said to have abandoned their efforts in his behalf. This leaves only Hughes and Root on the available list, with Hughes having the better chance. Sentiment in favor of Root's selection is growing in the Senate, and it is expected that Mr. Harding will soon be aware that his preference for Hughes is not pleasing to many Republicans, in the Senate and out.

Information which came to THE NEW YORK TIMES that Senator Penrose had protested to Mr. Harding against the appointment of Hughes and Hoover to the Cabinet was denied today by Mr. Penrose. He indicated that he believed it was Mr. Harding's business to choose his own Cabinet and he himself did not intend to interfere.

FOLLOW LINCOLN INAUGURAL

Congressional Committee Plans for Very Simple Ceremony.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. — A photograph of the inauguration of Lincoln was used as a guide today by the Joint Congressional Committee in adopting plans for the inauguration of President-elect Harding. Chairman Knox said that in simplicity the arrangements for March 4 would almost duplicate those in '61.

The President-elect's views were given to the committee by Elliott Woods, superintendent of the Capitol, who went to Marion several days ago to discuss the matter with Mr. Harding. The committee then decided that the small stand to be built at the top of the steps on the east portico would be made large enough to accommodate the President-elect, Chief Justice White, who will administer the oath, the Inaugural Committee and a few other officials.

All spectators except the official party and possibly working newspapermen, will stand during the ceremony, according to present plans, but parts of the portico and steps may be roped off for members of Congress and others.

PALMER ANSWERS UNTERMYER ATTACK

UNDER ALIEN ENEMY ACT

Also Says He Refused to Appoint Untermyer Special Assistant in Housing Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Attorney General Palmer replied in a statement tonight to the criticisms of him made by Samuel Untermyer at a dinner at the Hotel Commodore, New York, last night. The Attorney General says he courts fullest investigation into his department.

Statements are made by Mr. Palmer that Mr. Untermyer protested many times when requests of his "clients and friends" were denied by the Alien Property Custodian. Another statement is that Mr. Palmer "did not fall in with Mr. Untermyer's plan to the extent of designating him as Special Assistant Attorney General" in investigating the building trade in New York.

Mr. Palmer closes his statement by saying he does not know how far Mr. Untermyer is actuated in his criticisms "by the recent conviction of his friend and former associate, a member of the New York bar, for conspiracy to violate the Trading With the Enemy act," in a case in which Mr. Palmer asserts Mr. Untermyer asked him to defer action.

No explanation of this veiled reference was made by Mr. Palmer, and he could not be reached tonight to amplify it.

The statement of the Attorney General follows:

"I have just seen an account of the speech of Samuel Untermyer, criticising the administration of the Department of Justice during the last eight years and my administration of the office of Alien Property Custodian.

Palmer Courts Inquiry.

"I have been Attorney General for approximately twenty-three months, and before that I was Alien Property Custodian for a period of about sixteen months. I am perfectly willing to accept responsibility for the administration of these two offices during those periods and court the fullest investigation into the administration of each. In fact, they have both been the subject of numerous and almost constant investigations by the committees of an unfriendly Congress.

"While Alien Property Custodian it was my business to take over all the enemy-owned property in this country. This did not please Mr. Untermyer, who on many occasions protested against my course and whose requests on behalf of his clients and friends I was repeatedly compelled to deny.

"On one occasion, in the office of the Alien Property Custodian in Washington, Mr. Untermyer concluded an interview by a threat of just the sort of attacks which he has made upon me since. He declared that he had hoped 'for my sake' that I would act otherwise in the matter then pending; 'for,' he said, 'you ought to be more careful about opposing the wishes of men with bitter tongues and pens.'

"Mr. Untermyer's criticism of the Alien Property Custodian's office is chiefly a criticism of the act of Congress under which the custodian operated. He never approved of the taking of enemy property as a war measure, much less the sale of any of it to American citizens as authorized by law.

Denies Use of Patronage.

"His allegation of the use of patronage in that office for political purpose, confessedly based upon rumors, is wholly without warrant or justification in fact. This charge has been made before, and I filed with a committee of Congress a list of the names of the directors and attorneys appointed by me, serving the corporations whose enemy-owned stock I had taken over, and this list showed that 85 per cent. of them were Republicans. Many of them served entirely without compensation, and such of them as were paid received their pay from the enemy property which they managed. These properties were uniformly managed with signal success by the American directors so appointed. They were, of course, compelled to pay attorney's fees, but in no case was any charge made against enemy property except for actual legal service rendered, at the rate, and frequently far below the rate, then prevailing in the community where the property was situated.

"No property was sold except at public auction to the highest bidder, and unless the character of the purchaser, the amount of the purchase price and the expenses connected therewith first received the approval of an Advisory Sales Committee consisting of Judge George L. Ingraham, Cleveland H. Dodge, Otto T. Bannard, Ralph Stone and Benjamin H. Griswold.

"Not even Mr. Untermyer, I think, would have the temerity to charge that committee with improper conduct. Charges of this same nature were made before the Judiciary Committee of the Senate when my nomination as Attorney General was pending. They were met by the facts and the charges were utterly exploded so that my confirmation by a Senate whose majority was Republican was made practically without dissent.

Record as Alien Property Custodian.

"The fact is that during my administration as Alien Property Custodian I took over and managed with the powers of a common-law trustee, under conditions without precedent, the property of more than 40,000 enemy persons aggregating about $600,000,000 in value. This was done at a cost to the Government of about one-seventh of 1 per cent. of the principal—a record for economical administration never approached by any trust company in the country.

"I welcome—and I am very sure that Francis P. Garvan, my successor, welcomes—the most critical and rigid examination into the entire conduct of the office of Alien Property Custodian from beginning to end, though I express the hope, in the public interest, that if such investigation be made under the guidance of counsel of the sort Mr. Untermyer describes, that counsel should be one who was in sympathy with the loyal American purpose in the enactment and enforcement of the Trading With the Enemy act.

"As to anti-trust cases, everybody knows that during the war they were suspended. Arguments on appeals in those cases were continued in the Supreme Court, and in the lower courts all cases were held for further action after the war. Since I came to the office of Attorney General we have argued all the anti-trust cases pending in the Supreme Court, and we have continued the investigation and trial of the cases in the lower courts, as well as bringing a large number of new suits.

"When the investigation of the New York building trade situation was proposed I did not fall in with Mr. Untermyer's plan to the extent of designating him as Special Assistant Attorney General, but I did direct the department's representatives in New York to cooperate with him and appointed special assistants for that purpose. When a situation developed which seemed to warrant a larger organization, I appointed Mr. Rand and Mr. Kresel as special assistants, giving them an absolutely free hand to proceed in all these matters in any jurisdiction in the country and promising them all the organization that under the law and within the department's appropriation I could consistently give.

"I make no comment upon the charge that the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice before and during the war did little except to rely on the British secret service, because I had nothing to do with the conduct of this department during that period.

"How far Mr. Untermyer is actuated in his present attack by the recent conviction of his friend and former assistant, a member of the New York bar, for conspiracy to violate the trading with the enemy act in a case in which Mr. Untermyer very earnestly pressed me to withhold action at the beginning, I do not know."

BLOW AT DRUG RING IS SEEN IN ARRESTS

Four Prisoners Believed to Have Been Long Active in the Bowery District.

Through the arrest yesterday of three men and a boy on charges of trafficking in narcotics, Dr. Carleton Simon, Deputy Police Commissioner in charge of the Narcotic Division, believes that he has broken up a band which for three months has been selling drugs to addicts in the Bowery district.

Early in the day Policeman Wittenberg of the Fifth Street Station saw Anthony Buonarri, 29 years old, of 248 Elizabeth Street, in conversation with Frank Casselli, 36 years old, of 219 Christie Street, at Rivington and Christie Streets. He later told Magistrate Sweetser in the Essex Market Court that he saw Buonarri turn over to Casselli two packages of heroin. Casselli then gave Buonarri some money, he said, and he arrested both. The Magistrate held each in $500 bail for examination on Jan. 21. Wittenberg then reported to Commissioner Simon.

Detectives Kirley and Kuhn of the Narcotic Squad were sent to round up other members of the band, and at the same corner arrested Collogues Mattina, 33 years old, of 207 Forsythe Street, after he was alleged to have offered Detective Kuhn two packages of heroin for $2. Detectives Moffett and Sails later arrested Joseph Milno, 16, of Port Jefferson, L. I., who they charged sold them four packages of heroin for $4.

Justice Collins in the Children's Court announced that he would appeal to the Italian Consul to aid the police and the Federal authorities to prevent wholesale smuggling of drugs from Italy, and the use of children by Italians in the disposal of the drugs. He also said that a ring of Italians were selling narcotics here, brought from Italy.

PROTECTING CUBA'S HEALTH

Commission Sent to Investigate Diseases in Oriente.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, Jan. 19.—Following a conference at the Palace, President Menocal tonight dispatched a special commission to the extreme eastern end of the island to investigate and report upon a situation that is declared in news reports to be "alarming." The situation is said to involve the public health and to have resulted from an influx of immigrants who have spread contagious diseases.

Dr. Domingo Mendez Capote, Secretary of Sanitation and Acting Secretary of Public Works, heads the commission. He left on a special train, and will make personal investigations in other interior parts, besides the State of Oriente.

A committee of planters from Camaguey and Oriente has complained to the Secretary of Agriculture that Haitian and Jamaican laborers brought for the sugar areas are refusing to work, are spreading discontent and are likely to become public charges and endanger the public health.

The tour through the eastern provinces will include a special study of the water works system which, it is said, has become polluted in some districts. In Santiago it is said that health is endangered because of the failure of the water plan.

A quarantine has been established against Haiti due to smallpox.

Silk Shirts and Fancy Cravats Denied Prisoners by Warden.

Special to The New York Times.

OSSINING, Jan. 19.—Warden Lawes has issued an order that hereafter all prisoners shall wear the gray uniform prescribed by Sing Sing regulations. Some of the wealthier prisoners have been in the habit of wearing only the gray trousers of the uniform, displaying silk shirts, stiff collars and fancy cravats.

The object of the new order is to put all men on the same level, regardless of their private means. At the same time, it is believed it will make it more difficult for convicts who escape to pass themselves off as civilians. There are a few prisoners who are fond of wearing flowers. The new order does not forbid them.

gain her ability to pay, must insist that the total indemnity be not fixed after five years, but during those five years; otherwise, says the Tageblatt, German enterprise would be seriously handicapped, to the sorrow of the Entente.

Forecast of Briand's Declaration.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—The Cabinet tonight put the finishing touches on the Ministerial declaration to be made in the Chamber of Deputies tomorrow. It will declare that the financial question is entirely dominated, even conditioned, by the chief problem of reparations due from Germany. While striving to realize a vast plan of economy and endeavoring to adapt expenditure to revenue, the Government will devote its efforts to obtaining from Germany the execution of the treaty without violence, if the German Government shows itself disposed to fulfill its engagements, both as regards disarmament and payment for the destruction caused by Germany.

The declaration will add that the maintenance of alliances sealed on the battlefield are essential, both as regards Germany and to assure continuity of France's entire foreign policy, particularly in the East, where France will endeavor to maintain her acquired rights in conformity with age-long tradition.

As regards Russia, the declaration will say that the French Government, while permitting Frenchmen to trade freely with Russia, will not resume political relations with the Soviet Government as long as it abstains from giving guarantees that it is ready to respect the free expression of the will of the Russian people and international engagements of preceding Russian Governments.

Premiers' Conference in Paris Monday.

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The Foreign Office definitely announced today that Premier Lloyd George was going to Paris Saturday evening or Sunday for the conference of allied Premiers. It also stated that the conference had been fixed for Monday. The British Premier is frankly in accord with the new French Government on many questions, notably the reparations plan, the disarmament of Germany and the revision of the Sèvres Treaty.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—British official circles declare untrue the reports from Berlin that the British and French representatives have arrived at a new basis for negotiation of the reparations question. It is stated that the allied "lump sum" policy for reparations remains in force, but that a plan for five annual payments is being discussed in order to obtain a partial payment immediately.

The Allies will reserve the right to present Germany's total indemnity bill at any time, and it is declared that there is no likelihood of a compromise on other sections of the treaty, such as German retention of Upper Silesia, or a reduction in the armies of occupation as a reward to Germany, even if the annual payment plan is adopted.

ATTACKS COAL BILL AS PRICE FIXING

Vice President of Coal Association Tilts With Senators at Hearing.

DENIES EXCESSIVE PROFITS

Says His Statistics Show Margin of 71 Cents a Ton Average on 100,000,000 Tons.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Provisions of the Calder bill for Federal regulation of the coal industry were denounced as "revolutionary" in their application to existing relations of American government and industry," by J. D. A. Morrow, Vice President of the National Coal Association, today before the Senate Manufactures Committee. Another witness, Huston Thompson, Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, appearing late in the day, however, began an endorsement of the measure, which was cut short by adjournment until tomorrow, when he will resume.

Mr. Morrow's stand was far from being unchallenged by members of the committee. When he remarked that the committee "between three days" was passing upon a proposal for price fixing, and a measure that was "barely short of nationalization of coal mines," Senator Jones, Democrat, New Mexico, retorted that members of the committee had "spent months and years in study of the situation."

When Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, raised the question of high prices paid in New England for coal last year, suggesting that the Government and the industry had failed to cure the difficulty "by placing an embargo on export coal, as Great Britain did," Mr. Morrow countered with the assertion that New England was a manufacturing district and that "coal producers are willing to stand embargo when other producers using coal to make things for export are willing to stand it." Senator Walsh responded with the statement that coal and milk were commodities that the Government ought to prepare to take charge of first in emergency.

Chairman La Follette switched the examination to bear upon the association itself, and Mr. Morrow cited its annual expenses as about $300,000, covering some activities which he said in recent years were "abnormal," and his own salary at $18,000 per annum. All this, Senator La Follette observed, "had to come out of coal production costs," and Senator Reed promptly pointed to officers of the Mine Workers' Union, attending the hearing, and suggested the miners had "some organization costs to come out of coal, too." Mr. Morrow agreed to both suggestions.

Senator Reed drew from the witness numerous statements that coal resources of the United States were immense in extent, and that continuing shortage of supply was impossible. Mr. Morrow prefaced his argument on the bill with the statement that mine operators generally had not taken excess profits during the coal shortage last year.

"We have collected statistics upon 100,000,000 tons of production made prior to Oct. 1," he said, "which show the average selling price at the mine to have been $3.47 a ton, and the cost of producing $2.76. That left a margin of 71 cents, which does not represent profit, because the overhead costs, depletion charges and taxes have to come out of it."

Basic coal prices since 1914 have increased about 100 per cent., due to advances in supplies, increased depletion charges, and higher wages, the last being the most important, Mr. Morrow said.

"The base rate in the Pittsburgh district now for mine day labor is $7.50 a day," he added. "In the Southwest it is about $8."

Eight hours constituted a day in nearly all coal production, Mr. Morrow said, and the day workers would constitute 25 per cent. of the total of mine employes.

Present prices on coal at the mines "are below cost of production," said Mr. Morrow, reading a series of reports from districts, made on Jan. 13, ranging from $2.10 to $3.60 per ton.

"Those prices illustrate the fact that where you have a sufficiency of transportation and a normal supply you don't have to worry about prices at the mine," Mr. Morrow concluded.

THOMAS WARD FROZEN TO DEATH IN ALASKA

President of Copper Company Lost His Way on Dogsled Trip From His Camp.

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 19.—Thomas Ward, President and General Manager of the Ward Copper ompany of New York, was found frozen to death a few miles from Teller, Alaska, Jan. 12, according to word reaching Nome today.

According to the report, Mr. Ward left the company's mining camp in the inner Seward Peninsula with an Eskimo man and woman and two dog teams en route to Teller, a reindeer station on Grantley Harbor. After reaching the top of the divide above Teller the three became lost in the darkness. The Eskimos said they decided to go back to a cabin they had seen, but Ward proceeded alone.

For the next two days, the Eskimos said, they were stormbound in the cabin and on the third day battled their way to the station, only to learn that Ward had not arrived. A searching party started out the next day and found Ward's sled and dog team on Dewey Creek. There were evidences that Ward had spent the night there. The temperature during the night had been 20 degrees below zero and Ward was known to have only a robe to protect him from the cold.

Members of the searching party said Ward had evidently left his team on the morning of the 12th and started for Teller, ten miles distant. He probably became confused, they said, and headed in the wrong direction. The body was found on the Teller side of Grantley Harbor, about twenty miles distant from Teller.

100 DIE IN MEXICAN TORRENT

Poisoning From Chemicals in Water Adds to Pachucha Victims.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 19.—More than 100 persons were drowned and more than 200 others were injured in the disaster yesterday at Pachuca, where two dams above the city broke and torrents of water swept through the lower sections of that big mining centre. A thousand persons were rendered homeless.

Several mines were flooded, and it is believed that the death list will be added to considerably when the shafts are cleared.

The dams held back water used in the chemical treatment of ores, and many of the deaths were due to the victims being poisoned by swallowing this water.

EUROPE RELUCTANT TO DROP LEAGUE

birth, Europe is not going to bury it in order to make easier the fulfillment of the political promises of Mr. Harding."

Viviani Defends Form of League.

It would not be sound to present the Midi editorial as representing the opinion of the French Government. One does not have to depend as to this on newspaper editorials or the talk at the Quai d'Orsay, important as either may be. Yesterday Réné Viviani, a member of the French delegation to the Geneva Assembly, who is one of the two men who will be Premier of France if Briand falls, reported formally on the Assembly meeting. In his report he said:

"In several weeks we are going to see what official interpretation will be given to the pact on the other side of the Atlantic. We French are ready to take conciliatory steps in good conscience. It cannot be permitted that technicalities shall separate us from America. I refer to Article X. But I believe there is a more fundamental difference.

"Article X. is evidently dangerous for honest people who wish no bluff in their relations with other nations. It was because of Article X. that I opposed the admission of the Baltic States and Georgia to the League, because if these nations were attacked by the Bolsheviki we would not be in a position to give them aid. It may be in America, but they fear the duty of sending armies to Europe. In given conditions we can well afford to review Article X.

"But that is not the only point at issue. Even the existence of the covenant is threatened. Mr. Harding speaks of an association of nations. We speak of the League of Nations. Now if it were only a question of words it would not be important. But it is not merely a question of words.

Covenant's Link With Treaties.

"There are two conceptions of the League. In the first conception the pact has been put at the head of treaties, not only preceding the articles of the treaties, but serving as a moral preface. There is an appeal to international honor, then there is the covenant and then the articles of the treaties. The League is tied up to the treaties, so that if the League disappears many articles of the treaties disappear. What would become of the whole mandate system?

"There is another conception. It is that which Argentina manifested at Geneva, when she proposed nothing less than to destroy the pact. No one else agreed with her. This argument is that on one side there exists the treaty, whole in itself, and on the other hand the pact, which is something else. This is a conception which we cannot accept."

M. Viviani then went on to say that there was a wide field for changes in the League covenant and that changes should be made, but that the technical form of the League must stand. He argued that it formed the only practicable machinery of international co-operation now, and said:

"Be generous. What great work in the history of humanity has been achieved in one day? Do not despair of the League. It is absurd to say that the League has only to shake its finger to save the world from all ills. But wait. Let it grow. It will become, little by little, not the supergovernment we have heard about, not a superparliament, but a great moral arbiter."

MIND OF FARRELL AFFECTED BY TRIP

HIS CASE LIKE SHELLSHOCK

Officer He Attacked Repeats Details of Comrade's Sufferings in Canada.

Lieutenant Stephen A. Farrell was reported by navy surgeons to be too ill to appear yesterday before the court of inquiry at the Rockaway Air Station to challenge, if he wished, the testimony of Lieutenant Walter Hintop bearing upon the words and actions of Farrell when the balloon crew was lost in the Canadian wilderness.

The anxiety of the four days the three Lieutenants struggled against the arctic cold has temporarily affected Farrell's mind. Physicians described his condition as due to "exhaustion psychosis." Testimony to this effect was read into the record by Lieutenant Julius F. Neuberger, senior medical officer at the air station. He compared the case to shell shock.

Whether Farrell's affliction would have a permanent effect, Lieutenant Neuberger was unable to say, but hoped that the results would soon pass and that he might get the officer before the court this afternoon. But it is probable that Farrell may not be able to leave the sick bay for several days because of tonsilitis, with fever.

The medical officer told the court that his examination of the men when they returned disclosed that the four days in the wilderness had left its deepest imprint upon the mind and physique of Farrell, who, at 45 years, was the oldest of the three.

Lieutenant A. L. Kloor, the 23-year-old commander, stood the strain easily. Hinton lost twenty-one pounds and complains of severe pains. All three men had their noses slightly frozen.

According to the medical record, Farrell reported that he had several fainting spells in the wilds after he drank water from moose tracks. Strain also told upon the Lieutenant's heart. The examining physician found danger spots on the lungs of both Farrell and Hinton.

"In addition to these symptoms the patient showed the mental symptoms known to medicine as exhaustion psychosis," Lieutenant Neuberger testified. "I believe this condition to be due to severe exhaustion, prolonged anxiety, worry and extreme exposure.

"He also shows extreme restlessness and irritability, slight confusion of thought, and a degree of perplexity. He suffers from extreme excito-motor excitation, a prominent symptom of exhaustion psychosis, making the patient active and inclined to violence. This condition is similar to shell shock and represents extreme mental and physical symptoms."

Although the members of the court of inquiry have been inquiring daily about the Lieutenant's condition, their first request for formal presentation of facts came yesterday, after Hinton began his narrative of Farrell's remarks and acts in the wilds and touched upon the row with Farrell at Mattice.

Hinton Tells His Story.

Hinton did not repeat any of the phrases used by him in letters to his wife, but he retold every detail of his story virtually as he presented it in the letters, publication of which angered Farrell. There was no direct questioning on this phase of the testimony, and there was some discussion among members of the court about admitting it to the records in view of the absence of Farrell. It was decided that he could read these parts of the record and then tell his side of the story.

Hinton said that Farrell was tired by his struggles through the snow two hours after they abandoned the balloon on the afternoon of Tuesday, Dec. 14.

"On Thursday, Dec. 16, at 11 A. M., Farrell was very tired," said Hinton slowly. "We stopped for an hour's rest and built a fire. At 12:20 Farrell fell from exhaustion several times.

"It would be unfair for me to state the remarks that were passed while he was in this exhausted and fainting condition. But I called Kloor and discussed the advisability of taking the knife from Farrell and going on, as suggested by Farrell, with the only hope in mind that we could find assistance—as I had stated my conviction several times that a small stream we found led to a river and that there was a house just around the corner. Farrell gave me his money, $94, and said: 'You keep it. If any one gets through you will.'"

In telling of the row at Mattice, where Farrell struck Hinton after learning of the publication of letters written at Moose Factory, Hinton described in detail their arrival at the railroad. He said that he and Kloor, proceeding ahead, had found instructions for them from the Secretary of the Navy.

"I volunteered to convey these to Farrell, who was in a house near by," said Hinton. "I requested him to return with me to the car, as we had some very important telegrams which concerned him. He flew into a rage and made statements which I do not consider fair to repeat. Due to his overwrought nerves and condition I did not consider him responsible for what he said or did.

"I left the house and returned to the car. Farrell came over about fifteen minutes later and all differences were made right and there was no further controversy on the matter."

26 MEDALS AWARDED FOR ACTS OF HEROISM

Carnegie Commission Announces Honors and Pensions—9 Recognized Who Lost Their Lives.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—New York and New England awards predominated at the seventeenth annual meeting of the Carnegie Hero Commission, held here today, when twenty-six acts of heroism were recognized. One silver medal and twenty-five bronze medals were awarded. Nine of the heroes lost their lives, and to the dependents of four of these pensions aggregating $3,420 a year were granted; to the dependents of four of the others who lost their lives the sum of $3,250 was granted, to be applied as the commission may sanction. In addition to these money grants, in eleven cases awards aggregating $17,600 were appropriated for educational purposes, while in six other cases awards aggregating $5,500 were made for other worthy purposes. The cases in New York and New England were as follows:

Samuel Strauber, deceased, 1,582 Madison Avenue, New York City; bronze medal to the father. Strauber was 17 years old, and a garment cutter. He died attempting to save Helen Gottfried, aged 14, from drowning at Coney Island on July 2, 1920. Miss Gottfried was saved when two or three men took hold of her and got her to shore.

Wallace R. Brewster, deceased; bronze medal to the mother, Canastota, N. Y. He was aged 15, a student. He sustained fatal injuries in attempting to save John E. and Carl F. Robison, aged 8 and 11, respectively, from a runaway at Canastota on June 28, 1919. Brewster was stepped on by a horse and one of the wheels went over him. Neither of the boys was injured, but Brewster died of his injuries five days later.

Stanislaw Kristoff, deceased; bronze medal to the father, Box 338, Bridgehampton, L. I. Kristoff was a schoolboy, aged 13 years. He died attempting to save Charles Dambkowski, aged 8, from drowning at Sagaponack, N. Y., on Aug. 14, 1920.

Howard E. Shepard, Montour Falls, N. Y.; bronze medal. He was a student, aged 17, and saved Bertram F. Schwerl, aged 18, a student, from drowning at Bloomville, N. Y., on June 2, 1918.

Frederick F. Reynolds, 148 Main Street, Dansville, N. Y.; bronze medal. He was aged 22, a shoe cutter, when he saved Archie C. Mann, aged 22, a mechanic, from suffocation at Dansville on June 10, 1917, after two men had refused to go to the rescue.

John C. Giles, 209 Boiling Springs Avenue, East Rutherford, N. J.; bronze medal. He was a clerk, aged 35 years, when he saved Henry J. Dreher, aged 6 years, from being killed by a train at Rutherford on Oct. 19, 1918. The rescuer was badly bruised.

SAYS CAPTAIN SOLD TUG WITHOUT LEAVE

Col. Bradley Testifies Authority Rested With Himself and Washington Officials.

Colonel John J. Bradley, Assistant Chief of Army Transport, Hoboken, testified at the court-martial of Captain Ramon B. Harrison on Governors Island yesterday, charged with the sale of the tugboat Grover Cleveland for $2,500 when an offer of $10,000 was in hand, that Captain Harrison had no authority to sell the tug. All authority, Colonel Bradley testified, reposed in himself and officials at Washington.

At 4 o'clock on the afternoon of Sept. 29, after Captain Matthew P. Quigley, acting as the agent of the City of Newark, had been informed by Captain Harrison that the tug had been sold, according to the former's statement, Lieutenant Otto Runde Jr. conferred with Colonel Bradley about the $2,500 offer from Ernest Rudolph and told Colonel Bradley that it was the best offer the Government had received for the tug.

Colonel Bradley said that he certainly would have withheld approval of the sale of the tug to Rudolph had he known of a larger offer.

"My part in the conduct of the affairs of the office were not perfunctory," Colonel Bradley told the court. "I went over the details of every transaction, and I am sure Washington did not give approval to Runde. I would have received and transmitted to Washington any other offer had I known of one, and would have held up approval of the Rudolph offer."

William J. Livingstone, bookkeeper of the First National Bank of Hoboken, where Captain Harrison had an account, submitted a true copy of Captain Harrison's ledger account showing that on Sept. 24 the officer deposited $1,250 in cash, and $308.38 on Oct. 8. Major William A. Turnbull, Judge Advocate, made no attempt to show that Livingstone's testimony had any bearing upon the sale of the tug, and the introduction of the bank official into the case was vigorously objected to by Captain Harrison's counsel.

J. W. Millard, naval architect of this city, told the Court that he had appraised the Grover Cleveland for the city of Newark and that the tug was worth between $20,000 and $24,000.

ENRIGHT PROMOTES 28.

Six Lieutenants Advanced to Replace Last Four Days' Resignations.

Six lieutenants, seven sergeants and fifteen patrolmen were promoted by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright yesterday. Lieutenants Michael Flattery, James Walsh, Phillip W. Auer, Michael T. Ahearn, Cornelius Carmody and John E. McGrath were advanced to captains, and Sergeants William F. Sullivan, Charles Brummerhop, James F. McGrath, John Lenahan, William C. McKay, Patrick J. Noble and John W. Frazer were made lieutenants.

Captain Flattery was sent to command the Simpson Street Station in the Bronx, Captain Walsh to the Prospect Park Station, Captain Carmody to the Snyder Avenue Station, Brooklyn; Captain Auer to the Madison Street Station, Captain McGrath to the West Forty-seventh Street Station and Captain Ahearn to the Traffic Squad. They were promoted to take the places of six captains who retired from the force within the last four days. Commissioner Enright also assigned Lieutenant Archibald McNeill of the East 104th Street Station, who heads the eligible for promotion list, to command the Flushing Station in Brooklyn as an acting captain.

It was learned at Police Headquarters yesterday that Commissioner Enright contemplates renumbering all the city precincts consecutively after he has abolished precincts and inspection districts, which he feels can be combined with others.

COMPLAIN OF RUM TRAFFIC.

Families of Inebriates Write Letters to Magistrate Simms.

Since his remarks in Jefferson Market Court Sunday about the failure of the authorities to stop illegal liquor traffic in this city Magistrate Charles E. Simms has received a dozen or more letters giving information concerning the illegal sale of intoxicants. The writers volunteer their services in running down the offenders. The writers, for the most part, are the innocent victims of the traffic. The addresses of fifty saloons will be turned over to the Federal authorities by Magistrate Simms as the result of these letters.

Scores of similar letters are received every week at the offices of Federal Supervising Prohibition Agent Daniel J. Chapin.

Two agents on the staff of Supervising Agent Chapin were arrested yesterday afternoon by detectives of the East Twenty-second Street station on charges of extortion preferred by William Brady, a saloonkeeper at 410 Second Avenue. The men are Alfred Ketcham, 28, of Farmingdale, L. I., and Charles Walters, 45, of 422 East Eighty-second Street, Manhattan. They were locked up at Police Headquarters last night.

Williams Says Revenue System Does Not Face Breakdown.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Denial that the Federal tax gathering machinery is on the verge of a breakdown as a result of saddling the Internal Revenue Bureau of the Government with the enforcement of the Volstead act was made today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Williams.

He admitted that the enforcement of the Federal prohibition laws had imposed a severe burden on the Internal Revenue Bureau, but insisted that the machinery for gathering Federal taxes was never in better condition than now. However, he emphasized the importance of simplification of the present tax laws, of adding no increased administrative difficulties to the work of the bureau, and of sufficient Congressional appropriations to enable the Government to retain in its service its experienced and valuable men.

LENIN EXPERIMENT SEEN AS FAILURE

State Department Officials Convinced American Policy of Non-Recognition Is Vindicated.

RED PLEDGES WORTHLESS

Doubt British Government and Soviet Will Ever Reach Effective Agreement on Trade.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—All the information reaching State Department officials relative to the progress of events in Russia, it was learned today, has confirmed them in their opinion as to the correctness of the American Government's Russian policy of non-recognition of the Moscow régime and refused to have any official dealings with the Lenin régime.

They are not only convinced of the failure of the Communist experiment in Russia, but satisfied that the Moscow Soviet Government, the leaders of which have never abandoned their program of world revolution, is insincere in its professions of friendliness to outside powers. On the basis of latest reports received officials feel that the American Government has been vindicated in its policy of refusing to deal with a Government that seeks the overthrow of the American and other Governments by direct action and revolution.

Doubt is expressed here that the British Government and the Soviets will reach any effective agreement relative to plans for trading. Two weeks ago the State Department was informed that the negotiations between Leonid Krassin, the Bolshevist negotiator at London, and the British Government had reached an impasse and that Krassin was proceeding to Moscow. It is not known definitely whether the negotiations between London and Moscow have failed completely, but the departure of Krassin from London is understood here to mark a fresh rift between the Bolshevist authorities and those British officials who were seeking by negotiation to reach an agreement placating and circumscribing Soviet Russia.

Nicolai Lenin, the Bolshevist Premier, recently declared to the Congress of Soviets in Moscow that England would be made to submit to what Soviet Russia wanted and would be "forced to her knees," according to official advices received here, and the present activities of the Bolsheviki in Asia Minor are thought to influence the British Government to tie Russia's hands with a commercial treaty, in an effort to prevent the Soviet leaders from prosecuting their propaganda and military movement toward the East. It is believed the British authorities now realize that Moscow's promises never were and never will be given with any intent to observe them, and that the conclusion of such a treaty as Moscow demands would only tend to serve the interests of the Bolsheviki.

Moscow, on the other hand, is thought to have weighed the advantages from the Soviet political viewpoint of a continuance of the Bolshevist activities in the Near East as an existing force in the program for precipitation of world revolution, and to have set up counter-conditions which the British Foreign Office could not accept, so as to leave Soviet Russia entirely free to carry on its warlike movement in the East.

The best opinion here is that Soviet prestige has been enhanced, both in Russia and abroad, by the British overtures and later negotiations for which Earl Curzon, one of England's foremost experts on Near Eastern affairs, is considered mainly responsible. His policies in both Persia and Mesopotamia, aiming to make England's position paramount in the Near East, are believed to have failed for the moment, mainly on account of Bolshevist and American opposition.

MAJOR CHURCHILL TELLS OF MISSION IN EUROPE

He Is Co-ordinating the Work of American Military Attaches on the Continent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Jan. 18.—"My mission in Europe is to bring all American Military Attachés into closer touch with the Military Intelligence Office at home," said Major Marlborough Churchill, speaking to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent. He is now in Rome after having visited Holland, Scandinavia, Finland, Esthonia, Lithuania, Poland, Germany, Switzerland and Spain.

"I hope this visit of mine will perfect and co-ordinate the work which was started by the conferences held at The Hague in 1919 and in Rome and Coblenz in 1920. Our aim is to organize our Military Attachés all over Europe into a corps of officers, all working harmoniously to the same end. That end is the scientific gathering of military information. I am expected to start for America on June 1 after having visited Cairo, Greece, Turkey, Serbia, Rumania, Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia, France, England and Belgium."

Major Churchill has been received by Generals Diaz and Badoglio, with both of whom he had long, cordial conversations.

General Evan Johnson, the American Military Attaché at Rome, gave an allied military dinner of twenty-four covers in honor of Major Churchill. Among those present were General Badoglio and the chief staff officers of the Italian Army.

TO PETITION FOR BUSES.

Board of Estimate Appointed Committee by Mayor to See Governor.

Mayor Hylan yesterday appointed every member of the Board of Estimate as a committee to go to Albany and present to Governor Miller the resolution recently adopted by the board to petition the Governor and Legislature to enact legislation giving the city the right to operate buses.

"I note with satisfaction the attitude of the members of the Legislature from Brooklyn, irrespective of party," said the Mayor, "and congratulate them on the fact that they have at last given heed to aroused public sentiment on the treatment accorded to the people of the city by the traction interests and their sympathizers.

"If the legislators of the greater city would unite and demand legislation giving the Board of Estimate the right to purchase and operate up-to-date, commodious, sanitary automobile buses, we would have 5,000 buses in operation in this city in less than a year with a five-cent fare."

Secretary Joseph Haag of the Board of Estimate was instructed to write to the Governor asking for an appointment.

Gas Fumes From Auto Kill Owner.

While working on his automobile in the garage in the rear of his home at 264 Sixth Avenue, Astoria, Charles Mehler, 57, a cheese merchant, was killed by gas fumes. He was found unconscious last night and doctors from St. John's Hospital worked in vain on him with pulmotors for two hours, when they pronounced him dead.

MUTINY AND STORMS ENLIVENED LINER'S TRIP

Crew Fired Shots From Portholes, One Died and Gale Smashed Wireless.

The passengers and crew of the New Rochelle of the Baltic Steamship Company heaved sighs of relief when the vessel docked yesterday at Brooklyn, after a trip marked by hurricanes, accidents and mutiny among the crew. With all these troubles the steamer attempted to go to the aid of a vessel signaling for help by wireless.

The New Rochelle, bound to this port from Danzig, left Hamburg sixteen days ago. The first day out the vessel met a hurricane which battered the port lights and broke the deck railing. As the storm increased the wireless was put out of commission and for two days the steamer was without means of communication.

Regarding the trouble among the crew, passengers said that some of them had obtained liquor and firearms, which they had brought on board. Several shots were fired out of portholes, and one seaman who got on deck had a gun taken away from him. During the storm Joseph Robinson, a New Yorker, was fatally injured when he was thrown against the bulkhead. As he was about to be swept overboard, Axel Johnson, the boatswain, pulled him to safety. Robinson died a few hours later and was buried at sea.

Soon after the wireless had been repaired the steamer received a call for help from a Norwegian ship, the name of which could not be deciphered. The message stated that the Captain had broken two ribs and both his legs, several members of the crew had been seriously injured and the vessel had a list of 40 degrees. Although the New Rochelle was almost disabled, Captain McMurray started for the rescue. Some hours later the New Rochelle picked up a message from an oil tanker saying that she was going to the Norwegian ship.

The New Rochelle had thirteen stowaways on board. At the pier customs men under Inspector Hokenson made a search for weapons. It was said that they also searched for professional smugglers among the crew, who, according to information, had brought valuable jewelry with them.

ROYAL PAIR WON'T TAKE BRIDAL JOURNEY HERE

Prince Carol and Princess Helen Will Tour Europe—Wished to Visit California.

ATHENS, Jan. 18.—Crown Prince Carol of Rumania and Princess Helen, daughter of King Constantine, who are to be married soon, probably before the end of the month, would like to spend their honeymoon in California, but because of its distance from Greece, would probably be compelled to confine their tour to European countries, the Crown Prince said today. He was in the United States himself last Fall, on his way home from a world tour.

"It would be very pleasant to go to America again," said the Crown Prince, "but it is too far. We shall probably spend a little time in Tatoi, later go to the Summer palace at Sinai, Rumania, and then motor through Italy and Spain."

King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania may come to Athens for the wedding, but nothing definite has been decided as to this, according to Prince Carol. Many pressing problems at home might prevent Queen Marie from visiting the United States this year, as she had planned, the Crown Prince said.

FEAR GREAT INVASION OF UNDESIRABLES

State Department Agents Confirm Report of Vast System of Passport Forgeries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Reports of a widespread continental system of passport forgeries reaching from Paris to Warsaw, with ramifications through intervening European countries have been confirmed by State Department agents abroad, and while measures are being taken to detect and circumvent these frauds, officials are not aware how many thousands of immigrants have already entered this country on the basis of presentation of spurious passport papers.

Because of lack of legislation giving proper authority to American agents abroad, it is asserted that there is nothing to prevent the return to America, with fraudulent passports, of those persons deported on the Buford to Russia, from Finland, Poland, or any of the countries between the Baltic and France.

It has been discovered that undesirable Europeans who have not obtained passports to the United States have arrived in Canada and later crossed the border into this country clandestinely.

WRIT TO HALT CABLE OF THE WESTERN UNION

Temporary Order Granted Government Pending Hearing on an Injunction.

Federal Judge Augustus N. Hand granted a temporary restraining order to the Government yesterday preventing the Western Union Telegraph Company from linking its cable at Miami Beach, Fla., to the British cable from Barbadoes. The order will hold good until 2 P. M. tomorrow, when argument on the Federal application for an injunction will be heard.

The Government, through United States District Attorney Francis G. Caffey and Assistant United States District Attorney Earl B. Barnes, began a suit in equity on Tuesday, alleging that the link would work against the interest of American wire companies, because the British company had a monopoly of communication into Brazil.

51 TO GO WITH MARTENS.

Deported Bolshevist Agent to Sail Saturday for Sweden.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Ludwig C. A. K. Martens, Russian Soviet agent in this country, who recently was ordered deported, will be accompanied by fifty-one other Russians when he sails Saturday from New York.

With Martens will be his wife and two children and employes in this country of the Russian Soviet Government who have been recalled. They include Gregory Weinstein, Chancellor of the Soviet Bureau, who has been arrested on a deportation warrant; Boris Roustam Bek, military adviser of the bureau, and a number of other officials and employes.

PHOTOGRAPHER ENJOINED

Justice Callaghan in Supreme Court today after trial granted a permanent injunction restraining Edwin E. Mersereau from conducting a photographing studio at 375 5th Ave., Manhattan, under the name Mersereau, and competing with "Mersereau," a corporation which conducts a similar establishment at 480-2 Fulton St., this boro. Mersereau conducted the Fulton St. establishment prior to 1918, when he sold it for $5,000 to Louis Kadison. The sale included the right to use the trade name Mersereau, which the owner of it had made famous in portrait photography. Notwithstanding the conditions of the sale, Mersereau opened a place in Manhattan, using the name Wynn Mersereau and later using merely his last name. Kadison claimed that although Mersereau had been paid for the studio name, the trade developed and the equipment, he entered into an extensive advertising campaign which reached some of the customers whose patronage he had sold.

In order to conform to the above decision the studio of Mr. Mersereau at 375 Fifth Avenue, New York, will be conducted under his full legal name—Edwin E. Mersereau.

ASSERTS BLUE LAW PROGRAM IS LIMITED

WILL HELP GROCERS CLOSE

Organization Will Tell Albany Legislators Toilers Need One Day's Rest in Seven.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19. — The Rev. John Ferguson, State Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, came today to the Capitol, where he was commended to newspaper correspondents by a representative of the New York Anti-Saloon League as "a man with red blood and with no blue streak in him."

"I guess that's a pretty good description of what sort of a man I am and where I stand with regard to blue laws," said the Rev. Mr. Ferguson. "The Lord's Day Alliance, which I represent, is not, and never was, the advocate of blue laws of any kind. The Rev. Dr. Bowlby, our General Secretary, has been cruelly and shamefully misrepresented in recent interviews which have appeared in the newspapers. I wish I knew where all this blue law talk in the newspapers comes from."

Mr. Ferguson said that, as far as the Lord's Day Alliance had perfected its legislative program for the present session, it contemplated nothing more than the repeal of the Sunday baseball law and the law permitting moving picture exhibitions on Sunday.

"We do not intend to go beyond that," Mr. Ferguson said, "except to help the grocers in their movement to keep their stores closed all day Sunday and the news dealers to get a half holiday on the Lord's day. We do not contemplate any legislation against the Sunday newspaper. Personally, I think the Sunday editions could just as well be prepared in advance. It would be better if the Sunday papers were sold on Saturday afternoon instead of on Sunday forenoon."

Delicatessen dealers who keep open on Sunday are not to be attacked at the present session of the Legislature, Mr. Ferguson said.

"We are not going at this on religious, but on civic grounds," he added. "We maintain that the toilers are entitled to one day's rest in seven, and that preferably the first day of the week should be the day off."

So far no out-and-out blue law bills have been introduced, but many are sure to be put in before the session is much older. Mr. Ferguson is regarded here as merely the advance guard of a small army of legislative agents representing organizations dyed in even deeper blue than the Lord's Day Alliance, and who regard the up-State domination of the Legislature as a happy augury for their "cause."

FOR ONE-MAN LABOR BOARD.

Leaders Expected to Approve Reorganization of Industrial Commission.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Reorganization of the State Industrial Commission into a single-headed commission, in accordance with demands of Governor Miller, was recommended today by the Knight-Brady Legislative Committee, which has investigated the commission.

Under the proposed new plan, which legislative leaders are expected to approve, the single-headed commission will be appointed to take over enforcement of the labor law and administration of the department. An industrial board of three is to be appointed to handle the judicial and legislative work of the commission. The proposed new commissioner will take over the present administrative organization, with power to create and consolidate bureaus and abolish and consolidate such offices as "in his judgment may make for efficiency in the administration of the work." The Legal Bureau of the Department of Labor is to be abolished.

The committee declares that the present commission is inefficient "because of the combination of legislative, judicial and administrative functions."

The Legislative Committee contemplates reporting amendments to the Compensation law. The entire plan is to come up for a public hearing of the Senate and Assembly Committees on Labor and Industry Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 26.

HITS AT DAYLIGHT SAVING.

Assembly Committee Will Report Repeal Bill as Party Measure.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Repeal of the State daylight saving law was advanced one step today when the Assembly Committee on Agriculture reached an agreement to report the measure out at its next meeting as a committee bill. It was pointed out that such action would make it a party measure and would materially assist in its enactment, in view of the declaration of the Republican State platform and Governor Miller's advocacy of repealing the law.

PROPOSES MORE JUSTICES.

Bill Would Add Six to Supreme Court Bench Here.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Demand for six additional Justices of the Supreme Court for New York and Bronx Counties is contained in a measure introduced today by Senator William Duggan and Assemblyman Dipirro of New York. The bill proposes that the constitutional limit of one Justice for every 60,000 of population shall be attained. Claim is made that there is in those counties now only one Justice to every 80,000 persons.

The full quota of Justices is needed, Senator Duggan says, to properly cope with the flood of litigation.

QUAKE SHAKES LAKE GEORGE

Earth Tremors Rattle Crockery There and at Corinth.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Jan. 19.—What are believed by residents to have been earthquake shocks were felt today for three minutes at Corinth and Lake George.

The first shocks were felt at Corinth at 5 o'clock and two hours later they were felt at Lake George. Houses were shaken so that dishes rattled on their shelves.

The vibrations first were attributed to the cold, the temperature being 15 degrees below zero here today. Later the reports were received from places throughout this section and the cold theory was abandoned.

Passports Set a Record.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Figures made public by Acting Secretary of State Davis today show that during the calendar year 1920 the State Department issued 164,354 passports, an average of 13,796 a month. This volume of passport business was 001 per cent. greater than was handled in 1913. The fees totaled more than $500,000.

Ford's Recount Gain Now 1,872.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—Recount by the Senate committee of the ballots in the Michigan Senatorial contest at the close of today's work showed a net gain for Henry Ford of 1,872 votes, with 1,235 of the 2,232 precincts recanvassed. Senator Newberry's plurality was 7,569.

CADLE CONFIRMED PUBLIC WORKS HEAD

Senators Accept Governor's Appointee After Democrats Attack Him as Railroad Man.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 19.—Before the confirmation of his nomination in the Senate today by a vote of 39 to 9, Charles L. Cadle of Rochester, Governor Miller's appointee for State Superintendent of Public Works, was attacked by Senator James J. Walker of New York, leader of the Democratic minority.

Senator Walker said he was compelled to oppose confirmation because Mr. Cadle had been affiliated with the New York Central Railroad, chief competitor of the barge canal, which is operated by the Superintendent of Public Works, and would bring to the management of that waterway a fatal "railway point of view."

"It is a well-known and acknowledged fact that every obstacle it has been humanly possible to create has been placed in the way of progress in the construction and operation of the State's canals by the railroads," said Senator Walker. "Has the time now arrived when the prophecy of Commodore Vanderbilt that even in his time he would live to see grass grow in the bed of the Erie Canal to be fulfilled? This can only be accomplished by a railroad atmosphere brought into the management of the canals."

Mr. Walker pointed out that Mr. Cadle had been Chief Engineer of the New York State Railways Association, controlled by New York Central interests, and with the New York & Harlem Railroad, another New York Central subsidiary.

"What impression does the appointment of a railroad man as Superintendent of Public Works make in the minds of possible investors and people who had hoped to interest themselves in canal transportation enterprise?" asked Senator Walker. "While Governor Miller may be commended for his loyalty to corporate interests with which he had been associated, yet it appears to us as logical and as serviceable to the people to place a railroad man at the head of our $500,000,000 barge canal as it would be to place Von Hindenburg in charge of world disarmament."

Senator John B. Mullan of Monroe praised the high progressive qualifications of Mr. Cadle and pointed out that Mr. Cadle had never owned a share of stock in any of the companies that had employed him for engineering work.

"I pity the man who, appointed by Governor Miller, does not give wholehearted service to the State," said Senator Lusk, President pro tem. of the Senate. "I would hate to be in his place."

DIVORCE DECOY SUSPECTED.

Court Orders Investigation of Woman Witness as "Voluntary Corespondent."

A supposed "professional vampire," who appears to make a specialty of being a voluntary corespondent in divorce cases, is believed to figure in two such actions which are now before Supreme Court Justice Kelby in Brooklyn.

One of the suits came up yesterday, and the defendant's husband, denying that he had been guilty of misconduct, told of a "mysterious dark woman" who had tried to trap him at the Hotel Imperial, Manhattan. He asserted that the suit was the result of a "frame-up."

The similarity of the description of this woman and her ways with that of the corespondent named in another suit which the Court had before him for decision led Justice Kelby to order an inquiry to determine whether the same woman figured in both cases.

BOMB FOUND IN LEGHORN.

Attempt to Blow Up Military Headquarters Frustrated by Chance.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Jan. 19.—In Leghorn, where the National Socialist Congress is still debating with tremendous and turbulent vigor the future tactics of revolutionary propaganda, an attempt has been made to blow up the headquarters of the military command.

By lucky chance some civilians passing by late at night sighted two lengths of piping filled with nitroglycerine, to which a long fuse was attached, and thereby averted an explosion. Extra troops have been drafted into the town.

At Pola, where a recent police raid revealed the transformation of a Socialist club into an arsenal, searches in the houses of prominent local anarchists brought to light 600 pounds of nitroglycerine.

SPURN BETHMANN TRIBUTE.

Reichstag Communists Refuse to Stand in His Honor.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—The members of the Reichstag rose to their feet today as a manifestation of respect when the President of the chamber announced the recent death of Karl Legien, the labor leader, who was long a member of Parliament.

When the brief eulogy had been concluded the President proceeded to read the name of the former Chancellor, the late Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, whereupon the communists sat down with pronounced ostentation. There were cries of "Shame! shame!" hurled at the extreme left side of the house by the others, whereupon Deputy Malzahn of the communists interjected: "He was one of those responsible for the war."

Adolf Hoffmann seconded by shouting: "Three million dead!"

$40,000 BULL UNDER GUARD.

Prize Animal Has Armed Watchman at its New Quarters.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTGOMERY, Jan. 19.—Guarded by an armed watchman a pedigreed bull just purchased by Julius Schmid, wealthy New York importer for $40,000, arrived today in a special express car at his country place in Montgomery, Orange County. Before it started from its former owner's stable in Ellendale, Minn., the bull was insured at a cost of $4,000 against accident or death for his full value.

The bull is 2 years old and weighs 2,000 pounds. It cost the new owner $20 a pound. The bull was transported on fast trains in a heated express car. It will be closely guarded in its new quarters.

Fire in St. Regis Rouses 300.

A smoldering basement fire in the St. Regis Hotel, Fifty-fifth Street and Fifth Avenue, early yesterday, caused some excitement among guests, but did very little damage. The fire was in a storeroom and was discovered about 4:30 o'clock by Frank Killen, a timekeeper. Samuel Adams, night clerk, and Malcolm Grimes, telephone operator, reassured the 300 guests of the hotel, who had begun to be aroused by smoke which trickled into the various rooms.

Southern Railway Drops Trains.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Discontinuance temporarily of eight interstate passenger trains in the South before the end of the month was announced today by the Southern Railway. Other trains largely duplicate the service of those discontinued, the announcement said, adding that it was hoped that there would be an early return to normal passenger travel which would justify a restoration of the service.

OPPOSING MR. HUGHES.

The sudden flaring up in the Senate of a revolt against the appointment of Mr. HUGHES as Secretary of State is described as "an eleventh-hour" protest. It would be more accurately timed at eleven o'clock and fifty-nine minutes. For weeks the selection of Mr. HUGHES has been regarded as a certainty, both at Marion and in Washington. It was with this in mind that Senator PENROSE was supposed to have made his haughty statement that it made no difference who was Secretary of State—the Senate would control in all matters of foreign policy anyhow. Now it appears that several influential Republican Senators are objecting in the strongest way to the naming of Mr. HUGHES. Though they at first opposed Mr. ROOT as Secretary, they would now much prefer him to Mr. HUGHES.

Observe the two left-handed compliments implied in this. One is for Mr. ROOT. He would be more pliable than the unbending HUGHES. If his opinions didn't suit the Senate, they could be altered. This is, of course, a caricature of the real ELIHU ROOT, but is it not the exact picture of him which those Senators are drawing who say that they could get on with him much more easily than with Mr. HUGHES? The other dubious compliment is to the President-elect. What a low view the Senators must take of Mr. HARDING if they think that he will consent to retreat from a deliberate choice merely because they threaten to make trouble for him! At Marion it is stated that he feels that he cannot now "gracefully" rescind his decision. It is not a question of grace, but of dignity and firmness. Of course, having freely sought the advice of Senators, Mr. HARDING is bound to consider it if it does not come to him too late and in a way to involve a personal humiliation for himself.

The original Senatorial objection to Mr. ROOT was that he had committed himself to the League of Nations. In his single campaign speech last year he openly declared for the policy of the United States joining the League, after the American amendments to certain parts of the Covenant had been agreed to by the other Powers. But this is, in fact, very little different from the attitude of Mr. HUGHES. Perhaps the Senators have been looking into his record and have found that he is as truly a friend of the League as is Mr. ROOT. From first to last Mr. HUGHES criticised various sections of the Covenant, but always favored a general plan. On July 24, 1919, he wrote to Senator HALE:

> There is a plain need for a League of Nations. * * * There is merit enough in the proposed plan to make it desirable to secure it if proper safeguards can be obtained.

In his campaign speeches of 1920, while Mr. HUGHES made a strong technical attack upon Article X., he did not conceal his generally favorable disposition toward the League. Speaking in New Haven on Oct. 23, after Mr. ROOT had spoken in New York, Mr. HUGHES said:

> It is not likely to be difficult, as Mr. ROOT has said—and no one knows better than he—to secure the consent of other nations to the modifications and amendments of the Covenant which we desire. We are not antagonizing the aspiration for a society of free nations to promote peace.

With Mr. HUGHES and Mr. ROOT so nearly in agreement on this subject, it is cause for special wonder that the bitter-enders in the Senate should wish either, or prefer one over the other. It is certain that they are making the biggest mistake of their lives if they fancy that they can readily "manage" ELIHU ROOT. The managing would be the other way about. This is so well known that hidden motives are naturally looked for in the Senatorial breast. Perhaps the plot is, having used HUGHES to kill off ROOT, now to use ROOT to kill off HUGHES, and then make a determined drive on HARDING to persuade him to appoint some amiable and colorless futility as Secretary. This is the thing that the President-elect must resist at every hazard. He made a vow to the country to surround himself with the ablest men he can induce to sit in his Cabinet. Either ROOT or HUGHES in the Department of State would be regarded by the public as a carrying out of Mr. HARDING'S pledge. And, of course, Mr. ROOT'S long experience in international affairs, his reputation as a distinguished jurist, and his great abilities remove all questions as to his fitness for the place. But if the President-elect were now to be driven by the Senate opposition to take up with some mediocrity or nullity, it would show that he was ready to admit himself the captive of the Senate's bow and spear.

LARGE ENOUGH.

Well judged and sensible was the action of the House of Representatives yesterday in voting against any increase in its membership. The Reapportionment bill based upon the new census would have increased the membership from the present total of 435 to 483. An amendment against the increase was adopted by 198 to 77. A majority of two and one-half to one indicates with sufficient emphasis the conviction of the House that it has members enough.

No State would gain any substantial advantage through a mere numerical increase in its representation in the House. No benefit would accrue to the nation at large. The laws would not be better or more just. Nothing would be added, probably, to the sum total of the wisdom of the House of Representatives. In no way could an increase in the membership promote the orderly and expeditious transaction of business—doubtless the result would be quite otherwise.

Readjustment of representation may at times become necessary to remedy inequalities revealed by successive census reports of population. But we cannot go on enlarging the membership of the House every ten years. At that rate, before the middle of the century we might have a thousand Representatives. That is too many; the present number is large enough. The country will pray that the House of Representatives will not let itself be talked out of the decision it reached yesterday.

EXPORT TRADE FINANCE.

The weakness of the case for the revival of the War Finance Corporation despite the manifest need of promoting our export trade lies in the settled opinion that trade is primarily a matter of private concern, and that the entanglement with it of Government finance in any degree is undesirable. The Treasury expressed the official opinion to that effect. The failure of the corporation to function after it was revived in accordance with a political mandate attests rather the unsuitability of the corporation to the needs of the case than the lack of demand for similar accommodations by private agencies.

The strength of the case for the establishment of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation lies in the contrary conditions. It is the result of a meeting of 500 representatives of the banking, industrial and agricultural interests of the country in Chicago. The meeting was called by the American Bankers' Association, with the support of many civic organizations. While the start of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation is auspicious, there remains much to be done. The first thing is to provide that corporation itself with funds. No application for public funds is intended. The Treasury will not have to float any sort of Government paper, of which there is already too much in the banks. The difficulty to be overcome is not the lack of banking funds, for there are several billions of banking credit unused because it cannot be used in the foreign trade for lack of something resembling the rediscount system in domestic trade. The problem substantially is the turning of short credits into long credits by means of a revolving fund in the hands of judges of credit abroad and at home, with confidence in each other. Just as the Federal Reserve Banks are banks for member banks, so the corporation organized by President MCHUGH will use the funds paid into its treasury to carry credits for longer terms than are suitable for domestic banks, but which are essential in foreign trade. This business cannot be done in pounds sterling, for pounds are no longer sterling, and London has not the ample credit available here for approved applicants. This is the only centre where it is a matter of indifference whether applicants want accommodation in either goods or gold. The time will return sooner than most expect when London can supply either as freely as formerly. It is not possible to help a portion of world trade without helping the rest. If we help England's customers to pay their debts to England, we help England to pay its debts to us. If we help our own customers to buy here, that is a domestic benefit from foreign trade about which it ought not to be necessary to say more. Unfortunately, that is not universally appreciated. Too many imagine that foreign trade is important to Americans only in the small proportion that it bears to domestic trade. In fact, there is a relation between each dollar spent in foreign trade and each dollar spent in domestic trade. The exported portion of our production fixes both the profits and the prices made on the domestic business, with scant exception of neighborhood business.

Happily, the farmers see this, and appraise the tariff on imports of their products as about as valuable economically as the sawdust in a doll. One of the spokesmen for the farmers, GRAY SILVER of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said yesterday:

> Americans can take their choice of extending a one-billion-dollar credit to Central Europe or writing off a loss of three or four times that amount in impaired values and loss of buying power at home. Our farms produce a surplus of 8 to 10 per cent. over our domestic requirements. This must be marketed abroad or it is a total loss.

That is why American farmers should welcome the new corporation. Other Americans will find their benefit in the assistance of the farmers to pay their bills. There will be poor reports of domestic trade until there are better reports of the foreign trade.

AN ALMANACH DE GOTHA MATCH.

Is it some Tyrolean warbler with a feather in his hat and head and some unexpected magic crowns in his pocket who puts into a newspaper the marriage want advertisement reciting that a "charming Archduchess, "accomplished musician, with knowledge of several languages, brought "up in luxury and now tired of a "miserable existence without money, "would marry rich and refined American or English gentleman, about 38 "years old"? Money can't be so easy nor humorous irony so bubbling in this Winter of discontent. Archdukes and Archduchesses, so long expensive and sometimes grotesque fringes of the Hapsburg purple, are in the bread line. Europe, and especially Switzerland, is full of unemployed Kings, Queens, Princes, and a whole flagtag and bobtail of high-born unemployed. Archduchesses used to have the privilege of picking their partners at a dance, about their only privilege under strict family rule. The Archduchess ELIZABETH, FRANCIS JOSEPH'S favorite granddaughter, was even allowed to choose her own husband. She made about the worst choice she could, selecting the Prince of WINDISCH-GRAETZ, a typical good-for-nothing and patrician "beat," who made ducks and drakes of her money.

Warned by such examples, pining in second-class pensions, why shouldn't a genuine Archduchess look for a marriage of convenience? And money, the first ancient and modern convenience, is painfully lacking in the installations of most former Austrian swells. A Duchess of ROCHEFOUCAULD said that her family dated from 300 years before ADAM. The Hapsburg family tree is at least respectably ancient, and if anybody wants to swap gold for genealogy now is the time and the chance. Only rich and refined American and English gentlemen need apply. "Parvenus and individuals of other nationalities" are ruled out. It isn't necessary to suppose that the lady has an invincible prejudice, born of the unification of Italy and the war, against Italians. Italy, too, is richer in blood than money. The same is true of France and Spain. Death duties and the income tax have put a majority of the English patriciate on the list of ineligibles and detrimentals. Profiteers would not be "refined." An American is the lady's only hope. He is a member of the sovereign people. The accomplished advertiser won't derogate in marrying him.

Democracy recognizes eugenics. The importation of azure blood would be welcomed by sociologists. By economists, also, for it will do a little something to restore the balance of trade. American Princesses, Duchesses, Countesses and so on have been exported in quantities to suit. If NAPOLEON I. had not declared the marriage of his brother JEROME with a Baltimore lady null, there might have been an American Queen of Westphalia. Monarchs driven out of business are now so common that an American sovereign ought to be able to find plenty of desirable matches. Two or three years ago King TINO, as he hates to be called, emitted some polite badinage about going over to the United States and growing up with the country. At present that inveterate humorist has another job, possibly neither a good nor a permanent one, in Athens. Instead of winning a King, the United States lost, if not a Queen, at least a Princess, ANASTASIA, so called after the martyr saint of that name. Well, etymologically, a martyr is a witness; and our American Princess witnesses abroad that money will tell.

There are gains for all our losses, and here is an opportunity to begin an Almanach de Gotha immigration movement, limited, and make the current of international marriage set toward instead of away from the United States. The Archduchess is a patient Griselda in her way. She strives to please. No objection to immigration, and will change her religion if necessary. What royal bride could say more? Evidently she has no prejudices. She will not ask a rich and refined American to stop smoking, drinking or going to the "movies." "An interview might be arranged in Switzerland." It should be. Rich, refined American romantics within the age limit, please preserve and observe.

NO POLITICS IN ROAD BUILDING.

Colonel FREDERICK STUART GREENE'S voluntary retirement as Highway Commissioner of New York State and the announcement from Albany that HERBERT S. SISSON, the present head of the State Excise Department, which is about to be abolished, will be appointed to supervise the road-building activities of the Empire State, present a regrettable object-lesson of so-called political expediency. A few years ago the appointment of a man who had no previous practical knowledge of road building would have occasioned little surprise. In recent years, however, public opinion regarding the type of men qualified to assume the responsibility of providing the best possible roads for the increasing transportation needs of the country has undergone a decided change. The rapid development of motor transportation, the dependence of its success upon good roads to give the greatest benefit to the community from the more intensive highway usage, and the recognition of the weighty problems of modern road construction and maintenance created by the remarkable automobile growth in America, have taught every practical thinking person interested in the improvement of our highway transportation facilities that the prime requisite to obtain these essentials is the appointment and employment of men who are more deeply versed in the principles of road engineering than in political manipulation.

Governor MILLER, in his recent program of economy and cutting out political sinecures, has given such a satisfactory view of managing the financial and political affairs of a big State that, to say the least, it seems unfortunate to witness the placing of an official who, although credited with a good record in his present place, has no expert knowledge of the countless problems which, according to their solution, will make or mar the future highways of New York State.

In offering to resign the office to which he was appointed for five years, of which he has served about twenty months, Colonel GREENE has shown in an exceptional manner that he meant what he said when, in accepting the Highway Commissionership of New York State, he declared that it would be conducted solely in the interests of good roads and not as a medium for political preferment or favors. Colonel GREENE has the distinction of being the first Highway Commissioner of New York who has resolutely kept his word in this respect. He did excellent service overseas during the war as one of our leading engineers in road building in France. Despite the fact that his work has been hampered for more than a year owing to the high cost of, and difficulty in obtaining, materials and labor, he is closing his official career with an excellent record. Approximately 700 miles of new pavement was completed in 1920, some of which necessarily was reconstruction work. His department now has plans prepared and estimates made for building more than 600 miles of new highways.

Good highways affect the business interests and welfare of a greater number of citizens than at any previous time, and the building of highways which will stand up under the increasingly heavy traffic to which they are subjected demands the care and attention of thoroughly trained engineers who are free from political affiliations.

ADMIRAL SCHEER'S BRIEF.

Admiral SCHEER, who commanded the German High Seas Fleet at Jutland, might refer posterity to his book on the battle to convince it that the British Grand Fleet suffered disastrous defeat, but he is more concerned just now to persuade the friends of Germany in all countries that Admiral JELLICOE was an impostor in claiming any advantage for the British. "The Allies," says the German Admiral in an interview, "robbed "us of our navy, but the British "press cannot rob us of our glory." The navy of which the Allies "robbed" the Germans might have gone out in 1918 and met its fate fighting bravely, as Admiral CERVERA'S squadron did at Santiago, but the High Seas Fleet had no morale left and could not be coerced by high-spirited officers into preferring battle to humiliating surrender.

There was glory for the German fleet in the Battle of Jutland or Skagerrak, but it was not the glory of victory. Instead of traducing the British press Admiral SCHEER would better try to refute Chief Gunnery Officer VON HASE of the battle cruiser Derfflinger, whose narrative gives a vivid account of the damage done the battle cruiser squadron by the British fire. The Derfflinger was hit by twenty 15-inch shells, most of her big guns were put out of action and she dropped out of the fight at 7:37 P. M. The Lützow was abandoned and torpedoed by her crew during the night. The Seydlitz was struck by twenty-eight shells, and it was necessary to flood the magazine to save her; she was beached in a sinking condition, to be refloated later and put in dry dock. The Moltke and Von der Tann were heavily raked by shell fire, and it took six weeks to patch them up. "The losses sustained by our fleet," wrote the naval critic, Captain PERSIUS, in the Berliner Tageblatt, "were enormous, in "spite of the fact that luck was on "our side; and on June 1, 1916, it "was clear to every one of intelligence that this fight would be and "must be the only one to take place. "Those in authority have often admitted this openly." Apparently the German press must share the odium of robbing "us of our glory."

"We came out again on Aug. 19," says Admiral SCHEER in his interview, "for the purpose of attacking Sunderland, in the hope of infuriating "Great Britain and forcing a new "battle." It is true that the Germans were out on Aug. 19, but not to fight the Grand Fleet. The Admiral endeavors to show by an extract from The London Times, which he does not identify in any way, that JELLICOE with the Grand Fleet ran away from the enemy's submarines on Aug. 19, leaving him in boastful possession of the North Sea. The British Admiral, on the contrary, says in his book, "The Grand Fleet," that he proceeded to sea on the day before because "an unusually large number of submarines" had been reported in the North Sea, "a phenomenon which "had been observed shortly before "the Jutland battle," and that on Aug. 19 he endeavored to join battle with the High Seas Fleet, but found it elusive and unwilling, if ready to risk some of its submarines. Reports received from directional stations showed that at 4:52 P. M. the German fleet was returning to its base. The British light cruiser Nottingham was torpedoed in a skirmish. The conclusion is unavoidable that the Germans, while planning to do as much damage as possible with a far-flung screen of submarines, never intended to risk the High Seas Fleet in battle on Aug. 19, or at any other time after they were handled so roughly off Jutland.

AN IRISH "WORKERS' REPUBLIC."

But little attention has been paid in this country to the Irish Labor Party. It has been working with the British Labor Party to bring about the withdrawal of troops from Ireland, yet has all along been playing its own hand. What that is was plainly declared by Mr. JOHNSON, the representative of Irish Labor at the recent Labor Conference. He said: "I don't want to "deceive you. If the right of self-"determination were given us, we "would determine, if we could, for a "Workers' Republic in Ireland."

That means a Soviet Government, with the confiscation of all private property and the nationalization of all industry. What have Irishmen with a stake in their country to say to this? What will the Catholic hierarchy think about it? The latest news is that the impatient Irish Labor Party is calling upon the British Labor leaders to resort at once to "direct action" in order to force the Government to get out of Ireland. This is the Lenin program. It is the revolution against the Irish bourgeoisie. The whole thing looks more and more as if the Labor Party cared very little about the wrongs of Ireland, and was perfectly willing to make use of them in a way to delight the heart and further the projects of NICOLAI LENIN.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Statistics Variously Interpreted.

One of the city's humorists wrote the other day that only two classes of Americans were dissatisfied with prohibition as it is working out—the wets and the drys. That is true, as all good jokes must be, but the discontent of the wets seemingly has been decreased by the figures just given out from the Magistrates' Courts regarding arrests for drunkenness here in 1920—figures over which they are rejoicing as for a gleam of sunshine in their desolate lives—while the drys apparently find their gloom increased.

As a matter of fact there is not in these statistics much either of joy or of sorrow for the one or the other group, and will not be until much more is known than now as to what the figures mean. Taken as they stand, they prove anything anybody wants them to prove, and every deduction from them is unsafe.

Though the arrests were a little more numerous than in 1919, the difference is so small as to be negligible, and when the wets emphasize it as demonstrating the impracticability of enforcing prohibition, the drys can point to the fact—carefully ignored by the wets—that the 1920 arrests were much less than those of 1918 and only a third of those in 1917.

The number of arrests made for any crime or misdemeanor in a given year may vary, however, not in accord with the frequency of commission, but with the greater or less energy shown by the police in hunting offenders of that particular sort. On the other hand, the 5,813 arrests for drunkenness in 1920 may show, not that 156 more people drank to excess in that year than in 1919, but simply that what they drank so affected them as to compel attention from the police. If that be true, it only indicates that under prohibition intoxicants deteriorate in quality, however it may be as to quantity.

Where to Seek L..

Nobody proposes to repeal—nobody even criticises adversely—the existence of laws penalizing murder and theft merely because in the last year there has been an increase all over the country in the number of cases in which those two crimes were committed in combination. The increase is not ascribed to the existence of the law prohibiting the crimes, and such success as the police have had in apprehending such criminals—Commissioner ENRIGHT says the success has been unusually great—is not instanced as indicating that they are making a hopeless fight against public sentiment. Instead, they are exhorted to increased activity and blamed for not doing more than they have done.

The place, or a better place than the Magistrates' Courts, for finding the results of prohibition is in any shop, factory or office where workers for wages and salaries are employed in numbers large enough to be significant. There the report is always the same—always to the effect that prohibition has made an appreciable improvement in conditions, and at least once the report has gone the length of crediting it with producing "a new world."

That, obviously, was an exaggeration, but at least it had more basis in fact than does the conclusion from arrests for drunkenness, or from an increase in the number of patients in Bellevue treated for alcoholic insanity, that prohibition is a failure.

Nobody Calls It "Meddling."

There have been times, and not so long ago, when there would have been much shaking of heads, and even a few gloomy prognostications as to the fate of the Republic, if the wife of a President publicly had expressed an opinion on a controverted question of political policy and had tried to use such "influence" as she had to guide voters in their action on that subject. Even for the wife of a President-elect to have done the same thing would have educed grave criticism and feeling references to "the place of woman."

But all that is changed. Mrs. HARDING shows, and need show, no hesitation about writing a letter to the women who are attending the meeting of the Southern Tariff Association in Atlanta, or about revealing in her letter that she is with them in advocating and supporting the protection of American industries from foreign competition.

This she can safely do now, for while in other days she could and would have written only as the wife of the President-to-be, at present hers is the pen of a voter—of a citizen with as much power as well as with as much right as anybody else to have and to urge her views on the tariff or whatever seems to her interesting or important.

One notices that, more cautious than some protectionists, Mrs. HARDING refrains from an exact definition of what she wants in the way of duties. She announces only her belief in "a properly adjusted protection," and leaves whoever will to say how "high" or "low" that is. Not without acquisition of wisdom has she lived long in a political atmosphere.

English Books Wanted in Vienna.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Having noted that you frequently open the columns of your valuable paper to appeals for relief of the stricken people in Central Europe, I take the liberty of communicating to you part of the contents of a letter I recently received from a niece of mine in Vienna, Austria, with the request that you give it favorable consideration.

An excerpt of that letter reads:

"Then I wanted to ask you if you would not put my request before your friends to try and help me get some English good books for the libraries of the Vienna Volks-Hochschulen, as we cannot buy such at present, they being too expensive and we very poor. These institutions (the 'Volksheim' and the 'Volksbildungshaus' in Vienna), have very nice English sections for students of the English language. I thought that perhaps a good number of people might be found who would be willing and kind enough to send at least one volume by 'book post' and in that way we might obtain very valuable help. Such books should be addressed to: 'Volksheim,' care of Miss M Aschkenes, XVI. Kofferpark 7, Vienna Austria.'"

The lady who writes the letter, although poor herself, has devoted all her spare time for years past in settlement work among the poor, teaching English and doing general educational work. J. MANDL.

Oil on Beach Waters.

From my own observations during the past three seasons along the beaches of the Rockaways, I am satisfied that the entire blame for the deposits of oil tar cannot be placed on the discharge from ships. In putting the roads into good condition for Summer traffic they are sprinkled with this oil tar, and in many cases a heavy shower of rain comes before it has dried and washes a considerable percentage of it into the sewers and thence into the sea, very often discharging right off the bathing beaches. At Far Rockaway this has been specially noticeable where the roads are not attended to until the season is well advanced.

The ships do not contribute 10 per cent. to this nuisance along our beaches.

C. L. JOHNSON,

Woodmere, L. I., Jan. 17, 1921.

AN EVERYDAY TRAGEDY.

He is no corner idler!
In his face blunt honesty is shown,
And his tense hand
Is not the hand that some stretch forth for alms,
But sinewy, rough.
When he will speak, surprise is in his tone—
His skill in crafts, have now quite useless grown!
About him flows the tide of hurrying life.
Fine glittering cars keep darting to and fro.
Rivals compete in keen commercial strife.
He has the comfort of a few loose coins,
And these his fingers in weak faith have sought,
For new-born prudence foresight grave enjoins.
Nothing the vendors offer has he bought.
As in the old days, when each fad or toy
He carelessly would purchase—for the boy!
He stands erect! No failure he'll avow!
Last year his hands, his skill, so many sought!
What evil necromancy this new change has wrought?
When men are strong and willing, why this blight—
This atrophy of business overnight?
It makes him feel, almost, that this wide earth
No more has room for him; his pride to flay,
Robbing his life of zest and joy and mirth,
Now his firm footing has been swept away!
That bounding organ? Why, it is his heart,
Fluttering—he is ashamed to own—in fear!
What if he must continue, chilled, to hear
That dooming phrase—he, never known to shirk!
To his demand will men still say, "No work"?

RELIEF IN RUSSIA.

Reply of League of Free Nations to Secretary Davis's Charges.

The account in THE TIMES yesterday of the reply of the League of Free Nations Association to the charges of the State Department that we had made false statements with reference to their Russian policy was so summarized as to eliminate most of our specific answers. In view of this and of your editorial comment we would very much appreciate your printing the more salient portions of our letter to the Acting Secretary of State.

JAMES G. McDONALD.
Chairman of the Executive Committee League of Free Nations Association.
New York, Jan. 18, 1921.

[EXTRACTS FROM THE LETTER ADDRESSED TO NORMAN H. DAVIS, ACTING SECRETARY]

"The first statement in our questionnaire was that 'our recent policy, although never clearly stated, has been to refuse to permit relief to be sent to that portion of Russia which is under the control of the Soviet Government.' This you say is 'unqualifiedly false.' We draw your attention to the following statement, dated Sept. 20, 1920, by Wilbur K. Thomas, Secretary of the American Friends Relief Committee, reporting a conference of representatives of various relief organizations with a representative of the State Department:

"'Whether or not we shall be able to send American representatives and American supplies or whether we must continue to use the English committee as our channel will depend upon the action of the Department of State.

"'We have been in negotiation with the department for some time and shortly after the lifting of the blockade we received word that the department would have no objection to our sending a relief mission with supplies. This statement, however, was canceled a day later. At a recent conference between the Under Secretary of State and representatives of several relief organizations it was stated that the present attitude of the department is not to approve of any American relief for Russia.'

"From other channels we have information to the same effect, although it is true that since the last of October the American Friends Relief Committee has sent in two workers and is now arranging for regular shipments of supplies to Russia via Hamburg. * * *

"Your letter adds that 'the only relief work which the Soviet will tolerate is the direct gift of supplies to the Soviet Government, to be distributed as their own largesse. * * * It is the opinion of almost all of those experienced in such work that it would be impossible to raise funds from private subscription on this basis.'

"The facts are that since Oct. 29 the American Friends Service Committee has distributed almost $200,000 worth of supplies in Moscow and Petrograd, some of which has been received from the American Red Cross. They report that while technically responsible to the Soviet Commissariat of Supplies, they have complete and actual charge of the handling and distribution of all relief. * * *

"Paragraph 8 of our questionnaire contains a statement that 'Secretary Colby's note of Aug. 10 proposed officially to restore Russian territorial integrity.' You answer that this statement is 'false.' May we not call your attention to the text of Secretary Colby's note of Aug. 10, and more especially to the following:

"'To summarize the position of this Government, I would say therefore in response to your Excellency's inquiry that it (the United States Government) would regard with satisfaction a declaration by the allied and associated powers that the territorial integrity and true boundaries of Russia shall be respected. These boundaries should properly include the whole of the former Russian Empire, with the exception of Finland proper, ethnic Poland and such territory as may by agreement form a part of the Armenian State.

"'The policy herein outlined will command the support of this Government.'"

ASSAIL CURB ON PAPER.

Milwaukee Leader's Fight in Supreme court Aided by The Call.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The appeal of The Milwaukee Leader from the refusal of lower courts to order its mail privileges restored was argued today before the Supreme Court. Publishers of The New York Call, appearing as "friends of the court" to assist the plaintiff, received permission to file briefs, but time for oral argument was refused to them.

Seymour Stedman, for The Leader, contended that there had been "tyrannous and intolerable abuse of an administrative power" by the Postmaster General, while counsel for The Call said that "a new and dangerous course" had been mapped out in the "unauthorized creation of a censorship which menaces the freedom of the press of America."

For the Government, Solicitor William L. Lamar contended that the court merely had to determine whether articles appearing in The Leader were so false as to bring the paper under the Espionage act.

TARIFF DEBATE NEXT WEEK.

Penrose Has Emergency Bill Made Senate's Unfinished Business.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Emergency Tariff bill, on motion of Senator Penrose, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, was made the unfinished business of the Senate this afternoon, Senator Penrose informing the Senate that he would take advantage of every opportunity to press the measure for the earliest possible consideration of the Senate. Senator Penrose added that the Emergency Tariff bill would not be permitted to interfere with the consideration of the appropriation bills, the first of which, the District of Columbia bill, was passed late this afternoon by the Senate.

FOR WOMAN IN CABINET.

Mrs. Upton Says the Country Needs "Mothering" Now.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 19.—A dispatch to The Sun from Washington quoted Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton of Ohio as saying:

"A woman in the Cabinet of the President of the United States can be of just as much service to the country as a man. There are many women who are as capable as men to head the Executive Departments of the Government."

"The country has been 'fathered' to death," said Mrs. Upton, who is Vice Chairman of the National Republican Executive Committee. "It has been fathered' since the days of the Pilgrim Fathers. It needs a little bit of 'mothering' right now."

While Mrs. Upton said that she thought it possible that Mr. Harding would appoint a woman to head the proposed new Department of Social Welfare, she stated that she had not received any offer of the place.

SELF DENIAL DAY OBSERVED BY CITY

WOMEN CANVASS STREETS

Clubs and Hotels Join in Giving Profits to Aid Europe's Starving Children.

Incomplete returns from the "Day of Self-Denial" campaign conducted by the European Relief Council in New York City yesterday showed that $25,000 had been received in checks up to the close of the afternoon. It was said at the relief headquarters, however, that 500 checks still were uncounted, and no estimate could be given as to how much these would add to the total.

Every resident of the city had been asked through widely circulated appeals to deprive himself or herself of one meal in the course of the day and to send to the relief council the amount thus saved. The New York Women's Emergency Committee, under Mrs. Willard Straight, carried on a street campaign, aided by clubwomen and the Red Cross, making use of the ten army recruiting huts in various parts of Manhattan. Borough President Curran spoke to a shivering crowd before the Sub-Treasury Building on Wall Street at noon, urging them to contribute.

"I know you are cold," he said, "but remember you are not half as cold as those little children in Central Europe, who must meet the rigors of Winter in rags. So think of them, and give as you feel able."

Ration luncheons and dinners were served at clubs and hotels, costing about 50 cents to serve and bringing in from $1 to $1.50, the profits going to the European Council. At the Women's University Club last evening the members received two pieces of toast, a portion of rice and a cup of cocoa, and a total of $350 was raised there by that means and by selling cocoa at 17½ cents a pound. Similar meals were served at the Cosmopolitan, Women's City and Colony Clubs, and at India House and the Engineering Club.

Many banknotes were collected by the street workers before the Public Library, Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street, where Miss Fannie Hurst, Miss Carroll McComus and others revived the days of Liberty Loan drives by using their talents to draw money from passersby. One man walked up and down dropping five-dollar bills at intervals to the sum of $100, and many $20 contributions found their way into the baskets of the canvassers.

The day's proceeds will go to make up New York's quota of $33,000,000. The real collections had not been figured up to last night.

Pair of Old American Mahogany Tables Bring Top Price, $600.

Fine old mahogany dining room tables, a pair used in one family since Revolutionary days, brought the highest price at the Mrs. William D. Bowie sale at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, going to L. J. O'Reilly for $600. These were American, of the Sheraton period, each with rectangular tops and drop leaves, with turned pedestals, spreading square legs and paw feet of brass.

Among other pieces of furniture Bernet, agent, paid $270 for an early American inlaid card table of mahogany with a circular hinged top supported on a hinged leg, legs square and tapering, the table were inlaid with American eagles displaying shields. An early American mahogany bureau, the columnar pilasters carved with acanthus and palm leaves, carved legs and paw feet, went to H. Howe for $190; an early American mahogany sideboard, front and four tapering inlaid square legs, was bought by Seaman, agent, for $220.

An early American applewood slant-top desk with bracket feet and early American molded glass knobs went to Mrs. E. A. Greenbaum for $130; an early American mahogany tallboy, the front of the centre top drawer carved with a sunken shell, was bought by E. E. Parish for $250; an early American walnut tallboy, the centre lower drawer carved with a fluted semi-circular shell, was bought by H. Howe for $185; Mrs. R. D. Carter paid $140 for an early American mahogany bookcase chest of drawers with a vase-shaped finial, and to Mrs. C. Purdy went an early American spinet of mahogany, inlaid with rosewood, satinwood and ebony.

The returns for the afternoon were $7,388, making a total to date of $13,377. The sale will be concluded today.

PRESS CONGRESS IN HAWAII.

American Delegates Will Leave in September and Visit Philippines.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 19.—Following the announcement recently that the 1921 session of the Press Congress of the World would be held in Honolulu on Oct. 4 to 14, Dean Walter Williams, President of the congress, has announced that the delegates will leave the United States about the middle of September.

The delegates will also take an excursion from Hawaii to the Philippines Islands following the sessions of the congress, according to Dean Williams.

Acceptance of Honolulu's invitation for the congress meeting was decided on by the Executive Committee following a change in the Government of New South Wales, Australia, Dean Williams said. The 1921 session was to have been held in Sydney.

The congress delegates will be the guests of the Hawaiian Government while in that territory, and the Philippine Government will be their host on the excursion to the Philippines.

HONOLULU, Dec. 23 (Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The world's press conference, in all likelihood, will meet in Honolulu in October, 1921, according to announcement of the Honolulu committee which has been carrying on negotiations with Walter Williams, Dean of the School of Journalism, University of Missouri, President of the Press Congress.

The Honolulu committee has guaranteed the necessary expenses, has made arrangements for reduced hotel rates for delegates, and has taken steps to have put in force preferential steamship rates for the members who will attend the meeting.

SAYS LABOR MUST CHOOSE.

Kansas Judge Declares Toilers Must Obey Union or Government Law.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Jan. 19.—Workmen of the United States may be called upon soon to "choose between the law of organized labor or that of State or Government," W. L. Huggins of Topeka, residing Judge of the Kansas Court of Industrial relations, told the convention of the Northwestern Lumbermen's Association today.

"There is more Bolshevism in this country than we are willing to admit," Judge Huggins asserted, "but I believe that the great majority of American men are loyal and patriotic, and, as I told them from the bench down in the mining districts the time may come when you will be called upon to choose whether you will obey the law or organized labor or whether you will obey the law of the State and Government under which you live."

E. CLARENCE JONES WED MRS. BLOSSOM

SAIL FOR EUROPE TODAY

William Crary Brownell, Author, Marries Miss Gertrude Hall, Writer, in Church of the Ascension.

Announcement was made yesterday of the marriage of E. Clarence Jones, banker, of this city, and Mrs. Margaret Seely Blossom of 130 West Fifty-seventh Street, the widow of Henry Martyn Blossom, which took place on Monday afternoon at the residence of the Rev. Orman M. West, in Jersey City. Mr. and Mrs. Jones will sail for Europe on the Imperator today.

Mr. Jones, who has an apartment at 161 West Fifty-seventh Street, motored to Jersey City on Monday with his bride-to-be and a few close friends, who served as witnesses, but who refused to divulge any information about the ceremony until yesterday.

Mrs. Jones is a daughter of the late Samuel W. Seely of Brooklyn. She was married in 1909 to the late Mr. Blossom of St. Louis, author and playwright, who died of pneumonia in this city in March, 1919. He wrote the play "Checkers," and, in collaboration with Victor Herbert, "The Red Mill," "The Prima Donna," "Mlle. Modiste" and "The Only Girl."

Mr. Jones, who is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Perry Jones, was born in this city in 1866. He was graduated from the College of the City of New York, and in 1889 formed the firm of E. C. Jones & Co. He was divorced from his first wife about twenty years ago. In 1909 he organized the American Embassy Association, of which he is President.

Brownell—Hall.

William Crary Brownell, author and critic, and Miss Gertrude Hall, also an author, were married at noon yesterday in the Church of the Ascension by the Rev. Dr. eProy Stickney Grant in the presence of a few intimate friends. Neither Miss Hall, who wore blue, nor Mr. Brownell had attendants.

It is Mr. Brownell's second marriage. His first wife, who was Miss Virginia Swinburne of Newport, died some years ago. For thirty years Mr. Brownell has been a literary adviser of Scribner's and is the author of many books, including "French Traits," "French Art," "Classic and Contemporary Painting and Sculpture," "Victorian Prose Masters," "American Prose Masters" and other books. He was graduated from Amherst in 1871 and is 69 years of age.

Mrs. Brownell was born in Boston in 1863, was educated in private schools in Florence, Italy, and has written several volumes of verse, including "Far from Today Allegretto," "April's Sewing," also "Foam of the Sea" and "The Hundred and Other Stories." ## INHERITS GATES WEALTH.

First $300,000 of Big Estate Goes to 18-Year-Old Girl.

Special to the New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Miss Dellora Angell, who inherited half of the John W. Gates estate upon the death of the financier's widow, her aunt, in 1918, took a step nearer to control of her wealth today, when the Kane County Probate Court dismissed her father as guardian, giving her possession of $300,000 of the amount finally due her. She was 18 years old on Dec. 23.

Mr. Angell was named by the Court as business manager of his daughter's income from the main property until she reaches the age of 21. Then she will have full control of the income, but will not receive any of the estate until she is 31 years old. Then she will get one-quarter. At 35 she will receive another quarter and at 40 the remaining half.

She may now have her own way as far as picking a husband is concerned. While she was in Lake Forest there were rumors of an engagement to Randolph Gibson Owsley, who later entered Annapolis; but these were denied at the time.

"I will not marry until I am 18," Miss Angell said, "and when I do it will not be anybody's business but my own."

At the time Mrs. Gates died the estate was estimated at $25,000,000.

BACK FUND DENIED SCHOOLS

Education Board Loses Suit to Pay Bills Out of Old Balance.

The Board of Education lost its suit yesterday to compel Controller Craig to pay claims against the board for 1918 in excess of the appropriation for that year out of the unused general and special school funds from 1912 to 1918, under a resolution adopted by the Board of Estimate last May. Justice Cohalan denied the mandamus application by the board and also a petition by the State Department of Education.

In upholding the contention of Controller Craig that the unused balances for each year should be applied on the reduction of the taxes for that year, Justice Cohalan said:

"If such were not the case we would have the Board of Estimate being required to carry these unused balances on the Controller's books in perpetuity and at a loss to the taxpayers of the city. An accumulation of unused balances is repugnant to our system of taxation, and if allowed would open the door for many abuses an dgive opportunity by indiscretion to make expenditures rejected and refused in the usual budgets and appropriations."

HAD A $50 LIBERTY BOND

War Medal and Gifts From City and Foreign Nations Among His Possessions.

The estate of the late Mayor John Purroy Mitchel, who was killed by a fall from an airplane on July 6, 1918, while he was a major in the Aviation Corps, was appraised yesterday at $77,191 gross, but deductions and debts reduced the total estate to $54,112. The chief deduction was $18,334 for debts, of which $1,025 was to his mother, Mrs. Mary P. Mitchel, on a mortgage and $4,000 on a note. He owed $7,000 to Charles D. Purroy on a mortgage and $8,841 to Shonnard, Mills & Co., stock brokers. He owed Martin W. Littleton $480 as his attorney in the suit of Bullock vs. Mitchel.

Under Major Mitchel's will his wife, Olive C. Mitchel, received wearing apparel, jewelry and personal effects valued at $2,624 and the residuary estate of $42,925. His mother received $10,000. The appraisal does not include $10,000 Government insurance and a policy under which his wife is to get $400 a month and his mother $200 a month for twenty years.

The largest item in the estate was $27,767 in cash deposited in various banks. His interest in ten realty holdings in Bronx and Westchester counties was valued at $15,627. He had $5,000 insurance payable to his estate and stock worth $15,325. The largest item was 400 shares of Magna Copper, worth $13,600. He owned 100 shares of Interborough-Consolidated worth $875, and 100 shares of Nipissing worth $850. The only other stocks were 300 shares of Tramps Consolidated of no value. He had one $50 Liberty bond of the third issue.

The list of personal effects owned by the late Mayor contained many interesting items. The jewelry included the following: Gold watch, 32 brilliants, $100; two black pearl studs, $100; two white pearl studs, 6 grains each, $150; heart-shaped diamond stickpin, $200; stickpin, half-carat diamond and two sapphires, $120; stickpin, three brilliants, $100; stickpin, pearl set in brilliants, $100; gold cigarette case, $30, and mother of pearl shirt set, $75.

Gold medal from the French and British War Commission, $100; metal plaque from the Chinese Commercial Commission, with lacquered back and carved metal frame, $50; two silver vases presented by the Special Mission of Japan, $100; sterling silver loving cup, "Citizens Testimonial" Dec. 13, 1913, $225; gold and enamel medal, "Third Order of the Rising Sun," garnet in center, $125; ivory gavel, gold band, $25; sterling silver trowel, "Storehouse, Blackwells Island," $20; silver trowel, Equitable Building, $25, and medal medallion, Commercial Tercentenary, 1914, $10.

LESLIE WILL CONTEST LOST BY MRS. CATT

Referee Upholds Executors in the Settlement of Claim and in Awarding Attorneys' Fees.

Former Justice Edward Hatch of the Appellate Division, who was appointed two years ago to hear objections filed in the Surrogates' Court by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, residuary legatee under the will of Mrs. Frank Leslie, in which she protested against the management of the estate by William Nelson Cromwell and Louis H. Cramer, the executors, filed his report yesterday sustaining the executors.

Mrs. Catt objected to payments of $75,000 each to Sullivan & Cromwell and Edgar T. Brackett for legal services, and demanded that the executors be charged $60,000 because they settled a threatened contest by Maynard D. Follin as an heir-at-law, for $100,000, when they could have made the settlement for $40,000. Concerning this claim the referee said the $40,000 offer was rejected by Follin and that Mrs. Catt herself settled for $100,000.

The report also shows that when Mrs. Carrie H. Wrenn of Brooklyn, a niece of Mrs. Leslie, threatened to contest the will after she got the income from a trust fund of $50,000, Mrs. Catt settled for $150,000 and then objected to the payment being made by the executors for a long period. The referee found that the executors acted properly in all respects and that the attorneys' fees paid were earned.

The referee reports that the estate amounted to $1,977,810, of which $1,800,422 has been distributed. The executors still hold $177,387, out of which the expense of the accounting and Mrs. Catt's objections must be paid.

TO SAVE SOLDIERS' BOOTHS.

Women Volunteers Working for $5,000 to Keep Up Information Huts

Sixty women volunteer workers, who man the information booths conducted in the city by New York Community Service, have responded with pledges totaling $440 to the Save Soldiers' Booths Fund of $5,000, which the organization is trying to raise to continue the information service.

The appeal is for $5,000 by Feb. 1 to carry on the work until June 1, when other arrangements will be made to run them, and unless the drive is successful, the project must be abandoned.

Aside from residents of the city and strangers receiving approximately 30,000 answers monthly to questions vital to their welfare, the booths perform a service for men in uniform no other agency deals with. The booths stand at Greeley Square, Forty-second Street beside the Public Library and Times Square.

The booths were started about three years ago for war service to men in uniform, and have been continued because of the heavy patronage by civilians as well as soldiers and sailors.

Among the questions are: Suitable living quarters, employment, business, bonus, compensation, &c. by service and ex-service men and thousands of other topics. The information service maintains a rooming bureau constantly busy supplying suitable living quarters to men, women and girls, strangers to the city, and disabled veterans taking vocational training here.

Checks should be sent to Information Bureau, New York Community Service, 15 East Fortieth Street, New York City.

YALE SIGNS JONES TO LONG CONTRACT

Football Coach Reappointed for Period of Years and Will Devote Whole Time.

RETIRES FROM BUSINESS

Leaves Seattle Shipbuilding Position —Ells Working for Permanent Gridiron Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 19.—Tad Jones will take charge of Yale football next month under a contract for several years. He will devote his whole time to Yale gridiron interests, retiring from the Ames Shipbuilding Company of Seattle, with which he has been connected for three years.

His engagement is intended to put Yale football on a permanent substantial basis. Yale plans in this respect were tonight officially announced as follows:

"The Yale University Athletic Association announces that Tad Jones has accepted the position as head coach of the Yale football team for next season. The Alumni Advisory Committee on Football and Captain Malcolm P. Aldrich of Fall River joined in recommending Mr. Jones, and the Board of Control offered him a contract for a period of years, which he has accepted. Mr. Jones will wind up his business in Seattle and come East early in February to start the organization of next Fall's work. He will have personal charge of the Spring practices and will be in New Haven continuously through the year, so that a consistent and permanent football policy can be established."

Tad Jones prepared for Yale at Phillips Exeter Academy and was graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School in the class of 1908. He played football three years while in the Sheffield Scientific School as quarterback on the varsity, that being before the freshmen rule went into effect. Following his graduation he coached the Yale backfield in the Fall of 1908, after which he coached at Syracuse, Pawling chool and Phillips Exeter. He came to Yale as head coach in the Fall of 1916 when Captain Black's team defeated both Princeton and Harvard. His work at Yale was interrupted by the war, but he came back here as head coach for a single season last Fall.

The three men swimmers, all of whom are now in Australia preparing to meet all-comers, are Langer, Duke Kahanamoku and Pua Kealoha, the latter two Hawaiian sprinters and winners for America at the Olympic games.

RIVERSIDE SCORES HIS EIGHTH VICTORY

Wins Heraldo de Cuba Stake at Havana by Two Lengths—Exhorter Is Second.

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 19.—Riverside, under Pickens's good ride, scored his eighth consecutive victory at Oriental Park today when he led home a good field in the Heraldo de Cuba Handicap, the feature event of the program. The son of Von Tromp—Rosegal has raced over the Havana track since 1919 and has yet to suffer defeat. He has met and beaten all sorts of fields, and his victory today was, perhaps, his best performance. Riverside assumed the lead at the start and, making all the pace, won by two lengths. In winning Exhorter made a game effort, but was no match for the winner. Bally, which performed so impressively the other day, was never close and was beaten many lengths.

IMPOST HAMPERS TIPPITY WITCHET

Favorite, Under Heavy Burden, Loses Race to Captain Mac at New Orleans.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 19.—Tippity Witchet, the sturdy little son of Broomstick, which has been one of the best performers during the Winter season, attempted to carry an impost of 130 pounds in the Lafayette Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth at the Fair Grounds this afternoon and found that the weight was too much for him. He staggered home under the burden two lengths back of C. W. Clark's Captain Mac, to the disappointment of a large following that had made the Broomstick gelding a favorite.

Captain Mac won in hand, but he was saved from a closer finish by the fact that Tippity Witchet went extremely wide at the turn into the stretch and lost considerable ground. This mishap and the heavy impost cost the favorite whatever chance he might have had up to that time. However, he was able to save second easily from Captain Herschler, which was much the best of the balance of the field.

CROWDS SEE POULTRY SHOW

Throngs View With Awe Hens That Lay Dollar-a-Dozen Eggs.

With eggs vaulting annually into the dollar-per-dozen class, many persons who gave little attention to the poultry business in the past are now making anxious inquiries. Some want to reduce the family expenses, while others look upon the business with the same awe that they regard the mint. Officials of the Poultry Show, now going on at Madison Square Garden, report that they are called upon to answer more questions than ever before. It indicates a back to the farm movement, they declare.

The attendance at the show yesterday afternoon was said to be the largest in the history of the exhibit. It was necessary to use an extra ticket window, something that had not occurred heretofore in all the years the Poultry Shows at the Garden. The judging began yesterday morning and blue ribbons were flying proudly from numerous pens last night.

Horemans Ready to Accept Hoppe's Terms for a Match

Edouard Horemans, champion billiardist of Europe, announced last night that he would meet the terms demanded by Willie Hoppe's manager that a match between the two might be consummated. The difference between the two has been the division of the gate, Hoppe having insisted upon the winner taking all while Horemans has held out for a percentage to the loser, but so anxious is he to bring about the match that he has waived that condition. He said: "I will play Hoppe two matches, one of 2,000 points at 18.1 balkline and one of 3,000 points at 18.2 balkline billiards, and will agree to Hoppe's manager's terms that the winner take all the gate. I want long games that will afford a real test."

EARLE HIGH GUNNER IN PINEHURST SHOOT

South Carolina Star Breaks 437 Targets—Lewis, N. Y. A. C., Finishes Second.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 19. — Paul Earle, the South Carolina trap shooting champion, won the high average contest in the mid-Winter tournament at Pinehurst today with a total of 437 breaks out of 450 targets thrown during the three days of the event. Tracey Lewis, the New York Athletic Club champion, took second honors, at 435, and was followed by Allen Heil, the Pennsylvania champion, at 434. Heil led the field in today's shooting at 147.

Earle had a hard uphill fight on his hands from the start. He finished on Monday at 143, three targets from the top, pulled himself up to second place on Tuesday at 291, by breaking 148 out of 150, and finished two targets ahead of the field this afternoon with 146 for the day and a 437 total.

The South Carolina champion took part in an interesting shoot-off today with H. A. Morson, champion of North Carolina, who tied with Earle yesterday at 148 for high gunner of the day. Both dropped two targets in the first twenty-five of the shoot-off and Earle finally won the high-gun honors by breaking the second twenty-five straight while Morson dropped three.

John H. Noel, the Tennessee champion, waived his right to a shoot-off of the tie between Tracey Lewis and himself, who tied as high guns on Monday, and Lewis was awarded the trophy.

Frank M. Troeh, leading trapshooter of the world, who put himself out of the race by missing twelve targets on the opening day, pulled himself up into a tie for seventh place, at 427, by breaking seventy-four of the final seventy-five.

Twelve contestants broke 425 or more out of 450 targets at sixteen yards. The scores by days:

CRANE WINS AND LOSES.

Defeats Flynn in Snooker Tourney, but Bows to Baerstein.

Two games were played last night in the amateur snooker pool championship, which is being contested for at Doyle's Broadway billiard room. The tournament is an annual event held under the auspices of the American Amateur Billiard Association. In the first event Ray Crane was the victor, over Leo Flynn by a score of 59 to 47. Crane got off to a good start by virtue of his good playing plus the bad luck which Flynn had early in the match, as the latter gave fourteen points in scratches before the fifth inning.

In the second match Max Baerstein defeated Crane by the one-sided score of 80 to 30. The winner played in excellent form. He was careful about his shots and did not take many chances until his lead was safe.

HOREMANS SETS NEW 18.1 HIGH RUN MARK

Belgian Makes Cluster of 207, Establishing Record in Difficult Balkline Game.

Edouard Horemans, the Belgian cue expert, played two more remarkable games of 18.1 balkline billiards yesterday at Maurice Daly's Academy. In the afternoon game he far eclipsed the new high-run mark of 143 which he made on Tuesday and which was three points better than Frank Ives made in 1897. In the opening inning of the afternoon game he clicked off a total of 207 points, to the amazement of the large and enthusiastic gallery, made up for the greater part of clever billiardists.

During that run, which is a new American record at 18.1 balkline in a match, a tournament or an exhibition, the Belgian tallied no fewer than 40 points by means of massé shots, while his draw shots were too numerous to count. At the conclusion of the game he expressed his disappointment at not having run out the entire 300 points of the block.

Thomas Gallagher was his opponent, but he had little opportunity to do much shooting. The score for the afternoon game was 300 to 23, while in the evening game the score was 300 to 29. Horemans's averages were 42 6-7 in the earlier game and 25 in the latter. The total score of the match, which consisted of four blocks of 300 points each, was 1,200 for the Belgian and 146 for Gallagher.

The scores by innings:

CARPENTIER FIGHT IS OFF, SAYS BRADY

"My own personal opinion is—and existing conditions support this belief—that the bout may be held in London. That is not a positive statement, just an opinion founded on conditions as they are right now. You cannot hold an enterprise of this magnitude in the United States at the present time, with the existing $15 maximum price in operation and the possibility of objection in different localities best suited for such a bout. Mexico is out of the question, and so is Cuba. And you might as well dismiss Canada, too, for there can be no guarantee of success for such a bout across the northern border."

Despite Mr. Brady's emphatic declaration of the withdrawal of Promoter Cochran and himself from the $500,000 bout, Tex Rickard professed ignorance of any rift in the original plans, even when acquainted with the details of Mr. Brady's declaration. He stated, however, that in the event that the withdrawal of Messrs. Brady and Cochran was authentic he was prepared to proceed alone.

"My understanding of the situation," said Mr. Rickard last night, "is that everything has proceeded satisfactorily from the time the contract was signed. The deposits have been made in accordance with the provisions of the contract, to the best of my knowledge. I know my bond, and that of Mr. Brady, was in the care of Attorney Vidaver, together with a bond of $50,000 for Dempsey. Carpentier's deposit was tied up in France, but a receipt of the deposit was received here, and I understood it was accepted as satisfactory.

"The decision of Mr. Brady, therefore, came as a complete surprise. I am sure there must be something wrong. At any rate, there has been no change on my part from the original agreement, and I am prepared to go through with the bout as it was at first planned. My information is that the bout has been definitely set for July 2, probably in Canada. I have received a very promising offer from there, but I am not prepared as yet to disclose the exact source of the offer. In the event that Promoters Brady and Cochran withdraw from the match, however, I would proceed independently, guaranteeing the boxers the $500,000.

Says Rickard Is Mistaken.

Attorney Vidaver, when communicated with, declared that he had never seen a bond for Dempsey, as was stated by Mr. Rickard. "The bonds of Mr. Brady and Mr. Rickard were entrusted to me," said the lawyer; "but I have never seen a bond or deposit for Dempsey. If Mr. Rickard makes such a statement, he is mistaken."

The situation, with its new and various developments, presents a complicated condition, out of which but one fact stands out clearly. The bout, as originally planned for a $500,000 purse, is positively off. The alleged contract violations on the part of the boxers, through their failure to make deposits, as was stipulated, by Nov. 20 of last year, together with the withdrawal of Promoters Brady and Cochran, make it impossible for the bout to be held under the original contract. Even if Promoter Rickard is determined to proceed independently, as he says he is, a new contract for the bout must be drawn up and signed, as a result of the dissolution of the triumvirate through the withdrawal of Brady and Cochran.

With the elimination of the original contract for the bout, the way will be made clear again to open negotiations for a match between the pair, and under more reasonable financial conditions. This latter is the compelling objection to the present arrangement, it is believed by boxing men, for the promoters faced almost certain failure with the $500,000 project. It is recalled also that Promoter Rickard several weeks ago made the significant remark that when Dempsey and Carpentier clashed they would box on a percentage basis. This remark was made at a time when there was concerted objection to the commercialization of boxing as reflected in the tremendous $500,000 purse, and after Promoter Rickard had repeatedly reiterated that the boxers would work on a strict guarantee basis.

Another criticism concerns the delay in the holding of the match. It is the general opinion in boxing circles that too much time was wasted between the signing of articles and the time of entering the ring. It was pointed out yesterday that if the men had boxed before the nation-wide limitation on admission tickets had been adopted there was a possibility of success, despite the tremendous money expenditure involved. When a $15 maximum price was established throughout the country, however, all hopes for profit from the bout were dissipated.

The opinion was advanced that Carpentier and Dempsey should have clashed about the time Dempsey met Brennan. With the unlimited admission prices then prevailing, it was argued the battle might have been a financial success. The argument against this, however, was a determination on the part of Promoter Rickard to conduct the bout in an outdoor arena.

Denials Are Made.

The fact that the violations of the contract were of such a nature as to cause the withdrawal of Messrs. Brady and Cochran seems to have come as a surprise to the principals in the proposed bout and their managers. Denials from various sources were made yesterday of a cancellation of the $500,000 contest.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—Forfeits of both Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier for $50,000 have been posted to insure their meeting for the heavyweight boxing championship of the world, according to Jack Kearns, manager of Champion Dempsey, denying reports from New York last night that the fight had been canceled because the principals had failed to post their forfeit money.

Kearns positively denied the New York reports the fight had been called off in an interview given Harry Smith, sporting editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, and published today.

"It is an absolute falsehood," Kearns is quoted as saying. "I am positive the deposits have been made and in the hands of Robert Edgren, who was named as the man with full power to act. My money was posted three days after the Carpentier coin was put in the bank, and I have my receipt in my New York offices. I know also that the Frenchman left his coin in this country."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 19.—Robert Edgren, stakeholder in the Dempsey-Carpentier bout, said here today he had been "informed right along" that all money had been posted, as required by the contract.

"Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, told me it had been," said Mr. Edgren, "and I was informed Carpentier's forfeit was deposited in France and was to be forwarded, as agreed, to the Central Union Trust Company of New York.

"I recently heard reports that all deposits had not been made, however, and I wrote to the trust company to find out. I have not received an answer."

Carpentier Thinks Bout Is On.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Georges Carpentier declared today there was nothing in the report from New York that his match with Jack Dempsey had been abandoned because of the non-deposit of forfeits, the Exchange Telegraph announces. Carpentier made this statement at Leeds, where he has gone to take part in a charity boxing tourney. He said his own forfeit money had been deposited last November and that, as far as he was concerned, the match was not off.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Georges Carpentier's forfeit as a guarantee for the contract he signed with Jack Dempsey for a bout to decide the heavyweight championship of the world is being held by the Morgan-Harjes Bank of this city. It was deposited with this institution on Nov. 22 last, and is the equivalent of $50,000.

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 19.—There is not a "chance on earth" of a permit being granted for the Dempsey-Carpentier fight in Ontario, J. P. Fitzgerald, Secretary of the Ontario Athletic Commission, declared here today.

"We are not running championship bouts around here," he said. "We are doing a little to help our own boys and for our own amusement."

Even if the fight was limited to ten rounds, Fitzgerald said, "my belief is that a permit would not be granted by the commission."

COCHRAN MAKES NEW OFFER.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—THE NEW YORK TIMES announcement that the Dempsey-Carpentier fight for $500,000 is definitely off produced the usual crop of statements and surmises. Charles B. Cochran, who cannot be seen personally, as he is ill, issued a statement as joint promoter with William A. Brady and Tex Rickard.

In it he said he had heard nothing beyond the fact that the French Government would not allow Carpentier's money to leave France. Descamps, Carpentier's manager, made every endeavor to send his $50,000. Cochran said that he thought Dempsey's deposit of $50,000 was up but he was not sure. His own deposit of one-third of $100,000 is in the hands of the appointed trust company.

Cochran added that in the event of the rumors being true he is prepared to give a purse of $100,000 for the men to box in England in June.

No Surprise in England.

The London Globe's boxing expert, Cymary, says THE NEW YORK TIMES announcement does not come as a surprise to those who have kept in touch with affairs.

"The source of today's story may be regarded as authoritative," he continues, "as the newspaper in question is very reliable on boxing matters. The failure of the match is entirely owing to the huge purse offered and it rings the death knell of inflated rewards for boxers. Had the contest been for, say, £20,000 it would have materialized long ago, but an amount like £100,000 at once raises all sorts of questions in the world of high finance. To begin with the promoters can hope to attract a large enough crowd to recoup themselves only in three places in the world, New York, London or Paris."

"Boxing is largely a matter of politics in the United States, and a contest involving all this money would give reformers a fine platform from which to attack all those at present in power. London is equally out of the question. Both contestants being foreigners, it would mean that probably £80,000 or £90,000 of money, paid by British boxing enthusiasts, if they did pay it, would go straight out of the country. I feel certain that, much as the British public would like to see the contest, the authorities will not allow it to take place here. France can be ruled out at once. It may be possible to raise the necessary gate money to pay the boxers, but the French Government tax would take about half that sum, so the promoters would find themselves about £50,000 out of pocket."

PROMOTER SUES DEMPSEY.

Asks Share of $500,000 Movie Profits of Fighter and His Manager.

BATAVIA, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Two suits for damages aggregating $200,000 against Jack Dempsey, world champion pugilist, and Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, were filed in the Genesee County Clerk's office here today by Frank P. Spellman, a former showman. Spellman, alleging that he introduced Dempsey into motion pictures, asks $100,000 as his share of profits in pictures in which Dempsey has appeared and $100,000 for personal services.

Both actions are scheduled for trial here at the term of the Supreme Court which opens on Jan. 31.

In the suit for personal services, Spellman alleges that $100,000 is due him under a verbal contract with Kearns. He alleges that he made eight trips across the Continent for Dempsey, that he "squelched" an alleged attempt to blackmail Dempsey, that he assisted in disproving draft dodging charges brought against Dempsey and that he made various trips to New York to engage training quarters and to avert other threatened litigation.

JAY GOULD TAKES LEAD OVER SOUTAR

Captures Three of Four Sets in First Day's Play for Open Court Tennis Title.

Resumes Play and Wins Last Game From Challenger With Spectacular Shot.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Jay Gould, defending his title as open court tennis champion of America, was successful in standing off Jock Soutar, professional champion and challenger, in three of the four sets played today at the Racquet Club, but Soutar pressed close in two of them and won the third set. The games for Gould were 6—5, 6—2, 5—6 and 6—4.

After narrowly missing taking the first set by his smashing, care-free style of play, Soutar endeavored to speed up the play still more in the second set and smashed one racquet after another. Gould ran out the second set in easy fashion, but Soutar began to pull back and finally won the third set by a game. Still playing with his back to the wall, Soutar faced a score of 2—5 against him, and, with only the point to be lost for Gould to win the set, Soutar set himself manfully to the task.

Soutar Amazes Crowd.

Gets that took the spectators' breath away bounded off his racquet. Passes smashed low in the corners and aces to winning openings till the fighting pro had run the games up to 4—5, still in favor of Gould. The set meant two sets all for the day or 1—3 against Soutar, and stern was the battle for that next game. Leading at 40—15, Gould looked a sure winner, but Soutar brought it to 3—4 with a placement to the winning gallery and a deuce with a dedans shot, another clean point, while the gallery yelled for joy at the excitement and fury of the play. But the wild cheering was suddenly hushed.

Gould flopped flat on his back after a difficult get, in which his ankle had given under him. The gallery rose to its feet. Soutar and attendants rushed to the side of the prostrate champion, who could only point to his ankle. Gould tried to rise, but settled back again, writhing in pain. His ankle was pulled vigorously and rubbed. He was finally able to get to his feet and was cheered as he limped through the rest of this thrilling game.

Gould Shows His Skill.

Gould's old-time cunning and shot mastery stood him in good stead here, for Soutar, trying to rush the play and force the victory in this crisis, was too anxious and missed. Gould finally scoring the game on a shot off the tambour, ungettable for its right angle bound, after the game had gone to deuce six times. Dripping with perspiration, the two shook hands at the finish of the first day's play. "Some match," puffed Gould.

CONQUER DEKES AT SQUASH.

METROPOLITAN LEAGUE SQUASH TENNIS STANDING, CLASS B.

| Club. | Won. | Lost. | P.C. |

| D. K. E. | 2 | 5 | .286 |
| Princeton | 2 | 7 | .222 |
| Army and Navy | 1 | 7 | .125 |

Play was continued yesterday among the three pairs who failed to compete on Tuesday in the Class B squash tennis team match between the Army and Navy Club and the D. K. E. Club, the former having won three of the four matches played on the first day and in consequence required but one more to win the team match.

Clifford Ayres won that needed match in competition with E. L. Ward of the Dekes, the score being 15—11, 4—15, 15—8, and, in addition, Thornton Delahanty of the Army and Navy Club won his match by default, while E. C. Huntington, Deke, defeated G. I. Dean of the Army and Navy Club by the score of 15—6, 15—3.

As a result, the Army and Navy Club is the winner of the team match by the score of 5 to 2, and, though the victory does not advance the standing of the soldiers and sailors in the tournament, still it does break the ice, as the club had not scored a single victory heretofore since the Class B contest has been in progress.

MEADOW LARKS' TRIO WINS.

Down Highlanders by 24 to 19 in Free-Scoring Polo Match.

Rarely if ever has a more open game of indoor polo been played than that which was contested last night at Durland's Academy, when the local trio, the Meadow Larks, defeated the Highlanders by the score of 24 goals to 19.

The officers and the civilians were handicapped at ten goals for each team. H. M. Winn of the Meadow Larks was the high handicap man of the two teams and his playing showed that he is able to carry that burden without trouble. He scored fifteen of the twenty-four goals to the credit of his trio. Major J. K. Brown was taxed at five goals, but Major R. E. Anderson, a two-goal man, drove the ball home for eight tallies and, mounted on one of George C. Sherman's best ponies, played a fine game.

FRANKLYN SWAMPS CUTLER.

Basketball Five Outplays Rivals and Wins by 20-5 Score.

Franklyn School's basketball team defeated the Cutler School five yesterday by the score of 20 to 5. The game was played on the Franklyn courts and was decidedly one-sided. Demuth proved to be by all odds the best player in the game, and he did most of the scoring. At the end of the first half the score was 11 to 0 in Franklyn's favor.

Bout Made Anne Morgan An Enthusiastic Fight Fan

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 19.—Boxing has a firm friend in Miss Anne Morgan, daughter of the late J. P. Morgan, who, as Chairman of the American Committee on Devastated France, recently promoted the Leonard-Mitchell bout in Madison Square Garden. Miss Morgan was converted into an enthusiast when she witnessed the great battle between the lightweights and she says that she will see more bouts in the future. Miss Morgan, who is in Cincinnati, said: "It does not matter to me that Richie Mitchell could not win; that the great champion arose and shook himself together and at last beat Mitchell down. To me the whole glory and ecstasy of that fight came in that one splendid moment when Mitchell arose superior to everything, did the impossible and dropped the champion with that wonderful rally."

GOLF TITLE EVENT SET FOR JUNE 2-4

Westchester Association Announces Date for Amateur Championship Tournament.

The day when golf clubs of the Metropolitan district tripped over each other in their efforts to gather the privilege of staging championship tournaments of various calibre is apparently passed. Take, for instance, the three championships which the Westchester County Golf Association will hold during the coming season. While there is little doubt that several of the Westchester clubs will welcome the amateur, open and junior championships, there has been no strong advance bids for these events.

The executive Committee of the Westchester association met yesterday with the purpose of naming courses for the three championships, the Victory Cup tournament and the Westchester-New Jersey team matches. The meeting canvassed the situation and agreed on the most suitable courses for these events, but the selections can not be announced yet. Invitations were extended, but the detail of getting formal approval by the several clubs' tournament committees had been omitted, and until such can be obtained announcements of where the events will be held will not be made.

In addition to the events referred to above, a series of amateur-professional matches will be inaugurated in the Spring. These will be played on different courses in a process of elimination. Instead of best ball matches such as were played by a number of the Long Island clubs last Summer, play will be at Scotch foursomes.

Suitable dates for holding the three championships were discussed at the meeting, but a definite time was named in only one case. The amateur championship will be played June 2-4. This choice follows the order of events last year, the tournament being held at the same time that the New Jersey State championship is held. The open championship will be held some time in August, although the exact time was not named.

Incidentally, this open championship promises to develop into a lively, spirited contest. Since Tom Kerrigan, the Siwanoy professional, won the inaugural tournament at Gedney Farms last Summer, several well-known professionals have changed their base of operations from other sections to Westchester County. These include Jim Barnes, at the Pelham Country Club; George McLean, at Grassy Sprain, and C. S. Butchart, at Biltmore, all of them new clubs in the district. Willie MacFarlane has changed from his berth at a private course at Port Washington to Oak Ridge. Provided all of this new talent enters the list, Kerrigan will have a tough time ahead in retaining his laurels.

Yesterday's meeting also chose officers for the ensuing year. Following are the selections: Lee W. Maxwell, Sleepy Hollow, President; M. K. Water, Ardsley, Vice President; John G. Anderson, Siwanoy, Secretary, and R. P. Walden, Apawamis, Treasurer. C. V. Benton, Hudson River Country Club, was chosen Chairman of the Tournament Committee and D. E. Sawyer, Metropolitan amateur champion, was made the team captain.

Philadelphia Body Changes Methods of Play for Title Tourneys.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Virtually every club in the local district was represented at the annual meeting of the Golf Association of Philadelphia at the Bellevue-Stratford tonight. Perhaps the most important thing done was to change the method of play for the championship. It will no longer be an eighteen-hole tournament with a field of sixteen qualifying. Instead the old plan will be resumed, thirty-two to qualify at thirty-six holes with a final round of thirty-six holes, four days being required.

The amateur championship was awarded to the Whitemarsh Valley Country Club. The open championship will be played either at Pine Valley or Torresdale.

The qualifying round of the interclub championship and the Joseph Henry Patterson Memorial Cup event will be held at the Philadelphia Cricket Club on Memorial Day. An effort to separate the two events was defeated. The junior championship will be staged at the Philmont Country Club.

Robert W. Lesley, who was in the chair, was named to succeed himself as President of the association. The other officers elected were:

Howard W. Perrin, Pine Valley Golf Club, Vice President; Francis B. Warner, Philadelphia Cricket Club, Secretary-Treasurer, and the following members of the Executive Committee: Harrison Townsend, Aronimink Golf Club; George F. Brown, Huntingdon Valley Country Club; Garfield Scott, Philadelphia Country Club; Henry Strouse, Philmont Country Club; Frederick S. Sherman, Country Club of Atlantic City; L. F. Deming, Whitemarsh Valley Country Club.

HARVARD SKATERS WIN CLOSE GAME

Defeat Massachusetts Aggies 2 to 0 by Use of Fresh Mtn in Third Period.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 19.—The Harvard varsity hockey team had its work out tonight in order to beat the team that came down from the Massachusetts Agricultural College at Amherst by a 2 to 0 score. The visiting team was very fast and handled itself well. Several Boston boys were in the outfit and they played Harvard at evens for two of the three periods. Holmes was called on to do yeoman work at goal for hte Crimson, McCarthy of the visiting team repeatedly making shots from all angles.

Harvard had to cover McCarthy and could not score until the third period, when Owen made a long rush and got in a corner drive, Captain Bigelow taking chances with a very long drive which passed Goal Keeper Newell because one of his own players was directly in line with Bigelow. Harvard was outskated but in the third period had the advantage of using fresh men, several of the regulars having been resubstituted after a good rest.

The lineup:

| HARVARD (2). | | MASS. ST. COL. (0). |
|---|---|---|
| Holmes | G. | Newell |

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 19.—The Army beat Lehigh handily at basketball today by a score of 33 to 14. ## Ohio Bill Provides Prison Term for Bribed Players

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 19.—Professional baseball players accepting bribes to throw games in Ohio would, if convicted, be imprisoned from one to five years and fined $10,000, under a bill submitted to the State Legislature today. Any person offering or giving such a bribe would be subjected to the same punishment. The bill was prompted, its sponsor admits, by the exposé in connection with the world's series games of 1919.

LAFAYETTE STAR TO PLAY WITH YANKEES

Bradshaw, Catcher on 1920 Nine, Will Join New York Americans in March or June.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Jan. 19.—Jim Bradshaw, the star catcher of last season's championship Lafayette College baseball team, announced today that he had made a verbal agreement to join the New York American League Club, either at the Southern training camp, March 1, or in June at the close of the college semester. He will not sign a contract until he reports.

Bradshaw, who is a member of the Lafayette College sophomore class, made a great reputation last Spring. His work behind the bat attracted the attention of many minor and major league scouts.

In twenty games Bradshaw hit .318 and fielded .986. He made many extra base hits, clouting out two home runs in one game. He is built on the lines of Ralph Perkins of the Athletics, weighing 160 pounds, and being five feet ten inches in height. No matter when Bradshow reports to the Yankees, he will return to Lafayette to finish his four-year course.

TEMPTING PLAYERS AN EVIL.

Offers of Big Salaries to Players a Menace, Says Mack.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19.—Tempting baseball players by offers of big salaries is the greatest menace the game offers, in the opinion of Connie Mack, Manager and part owner of the Philadelphia Americans.

"First division teams," Mack said today, "think that whenever a star is developed all they have to do is advertise that they will pay thousands of dollars for him and then double the salary he is getting from his present club. To my mind, that is the biggest menace baseball faces right now. Some of these first division clubs don't seem to realize it, and I think it will take some kind of a ruling by Judge Landis to get it through their heads.

"Baseball is in better condition than it ever was, in my opinion, but this tampering with the imagination of players of other clubs is a big evil."

TOKIO NINE TO PLAY HERE.

Japanese Baseball Team Will Be Seen in Action in New York.

The Waseda University baseball team of Tokio, Japan, which will tour the United States next Spring and Summer, will play several games in this city, it was learned yesterday.

The Japanese team will start its tour in Chicago on May 21 and will encounter the University of Chicago in a series. Following this the little brown men will go to Boston on May 25 and will journey to New York on May 30.

White Sox to Try Out 20 Pitchers.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Manager Kid Gleason of the Chicago Americans will take twenty pitchers into training for the 1921 staff, it was announced today.

CORNELL QUINTET IS EASY VICTOR

Develops Team Play and Defeats West Virginia by 47 to 19.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 19.—After a spasm of individual playing in the first half Cornell regained consistent team play in the second period against the University of West Virginia quintet in the State Drill Hall here tonight and won with ease, 47 to 19. The Red and White five had only two points lead on the visitors when half time was blown. The Cornell players evidently thought that each man deserved a field day, and consequently went out after individual honors, with the result that West Virginia's better teamwork brought the score 15 to 13 in Cornell's favor when Referee Metzdorf of Rochester called time for the first half.

Between periods the Cornell team regained a semblance of playing together, evidently due to Coach Howard Ortner's conversational powers, and in the second period displayed a fine brand of court work, completely outplaying West Virginia's efforts at every stage of the half and running up 32 points to the visitors' six. The flashy Barkalew at forward showed the way in field goals tonight, getting four baskets from play in the first and three field goals in the second period before being relieved when Coach Ortner sent in the subs.

| CORNELL (47). | | WEST VA. (19). |
|---|---|---|
| Molinet | L. F. | G. Hill |
| Barkalew | R. F. | Martin |
| Rippe | C. | Kleger |
| Sidman | L. G. | Rowe |
| Cornish | R. G. | Hawkins |

Goals from field—Cornell: Molinet (2), Barkalew (7), Rippe (4), Sidman (5), Karnow (3). West Virginia: Martin (4), G. Hill, Hawkins (3). Foul goals—Sidman, 4 out of 10; Molinet, 1 out of 2; Martin, 3 out of 6.

Substitutions—Cornell: Pope for Cornish, Myer for Pope, Haviland for Rippe, Cornish for Myer, Myer for Sidman, Shepard for Cornish, Crabtree for Shepard.

HIGH SCORE BY CRIMSON.

Harvard Basketball Team Defeats Tufts Quintet, 53-22.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 19.—Harvard's basketball team rolled up its highest total of the year tonight at Hemingway Gymnasium, where it beat Tufts College, 53 to 22. The Crimson was much better together than in any previous game.

Repricing of Woolens.

No action was taken yesterday by the American Woolen Company in the repricing of men's wear suitings and, while the new prices may come later this week, it was thought most probable that the announcement would be put off until Monday. Some changes, however, were named on stock dress goods, including some tricotine numbers, serge, poplin and polo cloth. On tricotines a wide variance was shown in the readjustment. One number, 12080, was brought down $1.22 from $3.62½, another was requoted from stock at only 2½ cents lower from $3.55, the Spring price. A serge, 0936, was reduced to $2.12½ from $3.15. The new list of stock goods prices is guaranteed against lower Fall opening prices, a guarantee which, it is said, will be extended on the new prices named on surplus suitings.

Gray Goods Sales Smaller.

There was a noticeable slowing up in the buying of gray goods in this market yesterday, although prices were generally steady at recent levels. Printcloth sales included nearby shipments of 39-inch 72-76s at 11 cents and similar deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s at 8⅝ cents. February-April lots of Eastern 38½-inch 60-48s were sold at 8 cents. Buying of fine-yarn cloths and specialties took a sudden slump, but in the sheetings for other trading was reported in nearby 5-yard goods at 7½ cents and in 5.50s at 6¾ cents.

Cash Offer Gets Good Response.

From the standpoint of the number of salesmen present, the offer of the American Wholesale Corporation of Baltimore to buy $5,000,000 worth of spot merchandise got a very healthy response yesterday. About 1,500 salesmen visited the special buying offices in the Greenleaf Building. Executives expressed themselves as well satisfied with results on the opening day. Offerings on crepe, taffeta and tricolette dresses were particularly numerous, although prices were said to be fairly well maintained. The quantity of cloaks, suits and wraps produced by the cash offer was not large, a condition ascribed to healthy conditions in those industries and the entrance of many manufacturers of such lines into the production of dresses. Silk prices were found to be stiffened up, and other materials did not appear plentiful. Waists were freely offered.

Clothiers' Meeting Postponed.

The scheduled meeting of the executive board of the National Association of Clothiers was yesterday postponed to await the arrival of Ludwig Stein, now abroad, who is expected next month. A quorum was not present yesterday. The threatened dissolution of the organization is not regarded in the local market as interfering with a reorganization of that body. Steps will be taken, it is felt, to remove the causes of friction between the various markets so as to effect a resumption of association activity on a national scale. It is pointed out that most of the conditions which led to the resignation of the Chicago and New York market organizations were created by the temporary unsettlement of business and are by no means of a permanent nature.

Buying Furs at Pre-Holiday Prices.

As an angle of consumer reasoning, a store representative told yesterday of ready sales being made of fur garments now, which were very dull at the same prices before the holidays. The buying psychology involved, he said, was that the opinion was widespread before Christmas that prices would be much lower after that time. No comparison of value or quality has been made, he said, or else the customer would realize that prices are the same as they were in November and December, when the sale of fur garments was put on very small margins by the big store operators.

"Distress" Prices Disappearing.

The rapidity with which recently repriced lines of standard cotton goods have been advanced or withdrawn from sale bears out the contention advanced at the time by men "in the know" that the new prices first named were of a distinctly "distress" nature for the greater part, and were made as low as they were chiefly to start things moving and to keep mill organizations intact. Particularly was this said to be the case with mills so located that about all the employment to be had in their locality was supplied by them. One of the unusual things about the prices in question, it was asserted yesterday, was the number of jobbing buyers who failed to take advantage of them in the belief that they were merely camouflage to cover still further reductions to come, and who are now paying for their doubts.

French Leaning to Milan Straw.

Among the more recent shipments of French hats for Spring that have reached this city are several models which make use of Milan straw. They are trimmed with novel effects in plaited wood fibre, embroidered mesh veils, bands of ribbon and appliqué flowers. An unusual Continental model in brown Milan straw is trimmed with strips of wood fibre, in wood green and brown, which are pleated to form a ruching around the edge of the crown. A huge cockade of the fibre, pierced by a pin of celophane and tortoise shell, is poised on the extreme edge of the brim. A large poke shape model in black Milan is faced with fibre straw in a brilliant shade of emerald green.

Drug Prices Show Fluctuations.

A flurry in menthol was one of the features of the local drug market this week, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today. The price moved up under the stimulating effect of a rise in sterling exchange. There was a sharp recovery in metallic mercury. Revisions of prices in the essential oils market continue downward. Prices of dyes are weak, and there is little tangible evidence of a revival of interest on the part of color users. The increasing strength of the alkalis is one of the most encouraging signs in the heavy chemical market. Stocks are low, and consumers are beginning to make inquiries in larger volume.

To Organize Contract Bureau.

Steps were taken yesterday at a meeting held in the rooms of the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York, 70 Worth Street, leading to the permanent organization of a national bureau of commercial contracts. The chief purpose of this organization, which was originally brought into being at a general meeting of textile interests held in this city some time ago, will be to combat unfair cancellations on the part of jobbing and retail buyers through the medium of a standard form of contract. In this contract, it is understood, provision will be made for the submission to arbitration of disputes which may arise between sellers and buyers. The chief work of yesterday's meeting, which was presided over by Colonel John B. Wood, was the appointing of committees to attend to details concerning by-laws, membership and the drawing up of a program of activities of the bureau. No action was taken on the definite form of contract to be used.

VARIED FUR OFFERINGS.

Skunk and Red Fox Pelts Led at Yesterday's Auction Sale.

Offerings of staple furs, as represented chiefly by red fox and skunk, vied with such fancy pelts as chinchilla and Persian lamb for the attention of buyers at the fur auction yesterday. Honors were about even. The attendance, which had been rather small on Tuesday, picked up again, and a gathering of buyers estimated at 300 was present when the morning session began.

Badger opened the sale and brought prices ranging from 5 cents for the poorest pelts to $1.25 each for the best ones. The best red fox skins brought prices that were said by buyers to be about 20 per cent. higher than they had expected, and in certain quarters the impression prevailed that some of them were being bid in. The best red fox pelts in the collection brought $25.50. Bidding for Persian lamb was the most active of the morning session, particularly when the finer skins were being sold. "Top" for this fur was $6.90. Chinchilla and leopard skins were also sold yesterday morning, the best of the former bringing $45 each.

The afternoon was given over to the selling of skunk, which is regarded as one of the most important "bread and butter" articles in which the fur trade deals. More than 106,000 of these skins were sold. Bidding started rather slowly and lagged perceptibly when the poorer collections were under the hammer. Some of the choicer lots, however, brought out quite active buying. The range of prices for skunk was from 2 cents for the poorest to $4.80 for the best. Total sales for the day were unofficially estimated at $370,000, which brought the grand total for the first half of the sale to $1,110,000.

In yesterday's TIMES, through a typographical error, the word "not" was omitted from a sentence referring to the collection of silver fox sold on Tuesday. The error made it appear that the offering of these skins was up to the usual standard, when the reverse was true. Because of this the prices brought by silver fox were lower than would otherwise have been the case.

These were the high and low prices got for the furs sold yesterday, together with the percentage declines the average prices received for them showed when compared with the April, 1920, averages:

| | Low Price. | High Price. | Decline. Per Cent. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Badger | $0.05 | $1.25 | 40 |
| Red fox | .20 | 25.50 | *50 |
| Persian lamb | 3.00 | 6.90 | †— |
| Chinchilla | 4.50 | 45.00 | 40 |
| Leopard | 1.00 | 4.00 | 30 |
| Skunk | .02 | 4.80 | 50 |

*Northern, Eastern and Central foxes. Foreign red fox dropped 55 per cent. †No comparison made.

The morning session today will open with the selling of sundries, after which will come leopard cat, mouse cat, marmot, hair seal, ponies, Japanese marten, stone marten, baum marten, fox tails, Japanese mink and mink.

ACTIVITY REPORTED IN NOTIONS TRADE

Reports of Food Conditions Made to Jobbers at Their Meeting Yesterday.

Notion manufacturers present at the annual meeting of the Jobbers' Association of Notion Buyers, held yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in connection with the convention of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, told of a distinct improvement in business during the last two weeks. This has been manifest in a large number of orders, small in size, but aggregating a healthy total that in many instances has wiped out surpluses which were expected to last up to the Spring. The depletion of staple stocks was frequently referred to, as indicated by urgent requests for prompt shipment of small lots. The only action taken by the meeting was in the matter of having certain notion manufacturers grant uniform discount terms. The wholesale view of conditions in notions seemed to be that prospects are much brighter than they were, with every chance of further improvement if the situation is capably handled and buying conducted on careful lines. Not much confidence was placed in the reports of manufacturers being sold up to April, and it was the common opinion that there would be plenty of goods available, with reductions likely on lines which have seen small or no revisions.

In his opening remarks Otto R. Rick, President of the organization, dealt with price protection and urged it as a proper means of stabilizing the present unsettled conditions. A. L. Clarke, President of A. L. Clarke & Co., on the subject of tariff conditions in notions, advised a scientific instead of a political application of rates with due regard for the unsettlement in Europe. The people there, he said, should first be instructed to end their political and national differences before credit and other aid is extended to them. He suggested that the European countries might find a depreciated currency to their advantage in trade, a contingency to be guarded against in tariff preparation here. The speaker emphasized the necessity, however, of selling the home surplus abroad, and deemed this of first importance in considering the adjustment of tariff rates.

In speaking of conditions as viewed by the wholesaler, the remarks of Vertner M. Smith of the Carter Dry Goods Co., of Louisville, were in an optimistic vein. Good prospects exist, he pointed out, for better prices, better merchandise and more prompt deliveries, but it would be necessary for the jobbers to hustle to get business. One thing he emphasized was the necessity of keeping cool when a few signs of returned prosperity became evident. He felt there would continue to be plenty of merchandise, and said factories would be glad to hear how sold up they were by certain sales agents who professed to have contracts up to April. In lines where there have been no reductions or only slight ones, the speaker looked for further readjustments.

Following his summary of the situation, various manufacturers were heard from concerning conditions in their respective lines. Archibald G. Smith of the Smith & Sons Corporation of Buffalo described the large number of orders which have recently been placed for hair pins. Instead of demands for the usual 1,000 gross lots, he said orders were being placed for 50 gross lots, but often by telegraph. The daily production of hair pins in this country, the speaker said, amounted to some sixty or seventy millions and there was but one price advance made since the war. He told of visiting one notions department and hearing six customers who asked for various staple articles such as spool cotton, braid, &c., turned away because they were not in stock. H. M. Fry, of the Narrow Fabric Co., of Reading, Pa., told a similar story of renewed activity, with orders during the past two weeks which have cleaned up a surplus which was expected to last until April. Norman Cook of the American Mills Co., manufacturers of elastic fabrics, found a similar situation and added that the demand from now on in his products would be for better qualities and that more shuttles would be devoted to such grades.

Quite a discussion developed on the subject of uniform discounts and the jobbers described their difficulties in selling on the different credit bases made necessary by the terms of sale used by various manufacturers. It was the contention of the manufacturers that, due to the purchases which they must make for cash in many instances and for other reasons, different discount rates could not be offered. The counter suggestion made was that the manufacturers add the discount to their cost. The matter will be taken up by a committee of the jobbers. The Resolutions Committee recommended that the organization request manufacturers of pearl buttons, hose supporters and dress shields to establish selling terms of 2 per cent. 10 days, 60 days extra, and to request manufacturers of spool cotton to establish continued stock protection.

MEDAL HERO IN BANKRUPTCY

Broker Now, Who, Actor Says, Failed to Turn Over Investment Stock.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed today against R. Gordon Mills, decorated for valorous conduct in a French escadrille, and sole owner of the stock brokerage firm of Gordon Mills & Co. He was expelled from the Chicago Stock Exchange two days ago because of inability to meet creditors' claims, and at that time announced he had turned over all assets to a committee of creditors.

Jack Norworth, actor, filed the petition, asserting that Mills was given $1,000 with which to buy securities, that the stocks were purchased but that Norworth never received them.

G. M. Levy and T. Scudder In Law Firm.

MINEOLA, L. I., Jan. 19.—George M. Levy of Freeport and Townsend Scudder, former Justice of the Supreme Court, will form a law partnership with offices at 2 Rector Street, Manhattan, it was announced today. Justice Scudder was defeated for re-election to the Supreme Court last Fall, after serving fourteen years. Mr. Levy defended and obtained the acquittal of Mrs. Florence Carman on a charge of murdering Mrs. Lulu Bailey.

Ready-to-Wear Advances Asked.

On reorders of women's ready-to-wear, local manufacturers are frequently asking advances and the market has stiffened up considerably. A skirt manufacturer, for instance, was asking yesterday 50 cents more a garment on reorders, while a suit wholesaler jumped his price $2.50 from $37.50 when the buyer went after additional supplies. As a general rule, the large operators are refusing to pay the advances asked and are combing the market for goods to sell at their first price. This is either the policy followed, or else the reorder is cut down appreciably.

JAIL FOR LANDLORD WHO REFUSED HEAT

BINS BULGED WITH COAL

Inspector Refutes Plea of No Fuel—Defendant Lays Plight to Failure to Bribe Official.

For the first time since it became a misdemeanor to refuse to keep apartment houses reasonably warm a jail sentence was imposed yesterday upon a landlord who forced his tenants to sit shivering in overcoats, sweaters and blankets while his cellar bins bulged with coal and his furnace fire was banked.

Harris Lichtman of 1,337 Franklin Avenue, the Bronx, is going to spend five days in the Tombs for his violation of Section 225 of the Sanitary Code. Magistrate Cobb in the Municipal Term Court having decided his offense against the tenants of the thirty-one family apartment at 1,565 Fulton Avenue, the Bronx, was too flagrant to be expiated with a fine which he could pay easily.

The complainant against Lichtman was Isador Simowitz, an inspector for the Health Department. He said he visited the apartment house at various times between Dec. 22 and Jan. 4 and found temperatures in the rooms ranging from 51 to 57 degrees above zero. The lawful minimum is 68 degrees. Simowitz was corroborated by a number of the tenants, who crowded the court room and made no secret of their indignation. The testimony showed that Lichtman was the agent for the building, which is owned by his wife, and that when officials became active on complaint of the tenants he tried to shift responsibility to her shoulders.

Chief Inspector Thomas F. McCarthy of the Bronx squad took the stand after Lichtman had tried to exculpate himself on the ground that it was so hard to get coal. McCarthy said he himself had got coal when Lichtman professed to be unable to do so.

PRISON BODY BLAMES HYLAN

Association Says Conditions Were Reported to the Mayor.

Responsibility for conditions on Blackwell's Island, where the hospital was likened by John S. Kennedy of the State Prison Commission to a pest house, was placed squarely up to the City Administration by the Prison Association of New York yesterday. Unsatisfactory conditions were said to exist in other institutions of the Department of Correction, but whether the matter would be taken up by one of the present investigation bodies was a question which officials of the association would not discuss.

E. R. Cass, Secretary of the association, recalled that because of the need for betterment in conditions, James A. Hamilton, Commissioner of Correction, appointed a supervising Warden to report on necessary changes. Later this report was submitted to Mayor Hylan and the Board of Estimate. The Mayor said it was a shame that the city's time had been taken up with such a report, and added that one who would write eighty-four pages on the subject should be on the stone pile. So the Warden's report died.

"The Prison Association is thoroughly in accord with the State Prison Commission in its recent criticism of the Workhouse on Blackwell's Island," said a statement made public by the association. "The deplorable conditions have been brought to the attention of the Commissioner of Corsection by the association in inspection reports and communications at various times since last September. To characterize this antiquated instiution as one of the worst in the State is putting it mildly. Intelligent, helpful and sane treatment of persons committed to that institution is impossible with the present equipment and system."

Detention Home Proposed.

An appropriation of "at least $500,000" to erect a house of detention and court for girls and women was proposed in a resolution passed by the New York Probation and Protective Association and the Girls' Protective League in annual meeting at the Russell Sage Foundation Building yesterday. The great need of a house of detention was stressed by Magistrate McGeehan, who said there was only the prison or private homes to which to send incorrigible girls.

Brooklyn Hold-Up Victim Dies.

Abraham Meghman of 635 Pennsylvania Avenue, Brooklyn, died at St. Mary's Hospital yesterday from wounds received last Monday night, when Meshman and his father, Samuel Meshman, were held up in their grocery store, at 435 Hageman Avenue. Samuel Meshman will recover.

The Sort of Spring Suit You'll Wear—

HAVE you ordered it yet? Or only planned it? Already spring suits—the kind you'll be wearing—are very much in evidence. At Palm Beach, on the Riviera—in this number of Vogue. And the new materials are the most evident things about them.

Perhaps you planned for a blue serge. But a blue serge with yellow stripes woven into the material? Or did you decide on a black and white check? But had you thought of using stripes of brown wool embroidery on it? Like the suit of checked Rodier fabric shown in the sketch? And you certainly hadn't considered a cashmere in the shawl patterns of your grandmother. How could you unless you'd seen this new number of Vogue?

Spring Fabrics and Original Designs Number of

VOGUE

Dated February 1st

Your spring frocks are going to be simple, you know that. As simple as the three Vionnet models shown in this number. But the simpler your lines, the more sophisticated your materials, says Paris. And you can see in this number what a brilliant spring the Rodier fabrics, both cotton and wool, have set up on their looms. Vogue shows some new materials in the pattern pages of this number, together with original designs—sixty-three of them in all, and every one of them brings a new phase of the spring mode within your reach for your own costumes.

Then there's a page of sports clothes for snow-drifts and one for orange groves. And eight distinguished mid-season models from Paris. And the New York shops show two pages of imported models which feature the high straight Florentine neckline combined with simplicity and crêpe marocain. Plan, shop and order, but—buy the new Vogue first!

BLAME CORK FIRES ON MILITARY ALONE

WITNESSES' NAMES SECRET

But Report Says 70 Were Examined, Including Men from an American Ship.

CONTRADICTS GREENWOOD

Challenges Government to Issue Strickland Report—New Official Inquiry Likely.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—What is alleged to be the sworn testimony of some seventy eye witnesses depicting the burning of public buildings and stores in Cork on Dec. 11-12 last as unprovoked and unjustifiable and the prevailing condition of Ireland under British military rule as one of "lawless terrorism," was issued today by the Irish Labor Party and Trades Union Congress through the medium of the London headquarters of the British Labor Party.

The document is in the form of a report, printed and published in Dublin. It was merely circulated in London by the British Labor Party without any actual endorsement.

The report, which is described by its authors as the result of an impartial inquiry instituted immediately after the conflagration, gives contradiction to statements made by Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, in the House of Commons that the Sinn Fein were the incendiaries responsible, accuses the Crown forces of being solely guilty and challenges the Government to publish the findings of the military inquiry instituted by Major General Strickland, in command of the troops, which the report says the Government is afraid to publish.

The third assistant engineer, a fireman and the boatswain of the American steamer West Canon are among those from whose evidence extensive excerpts are used.

With reference to these statements the report says it was necessary to conceal the identity of the witnesses, otherwise they would not have volunteered their evidence.

Recalling Sir Hamar Greenwood's assertion on Dec. 13 that "it is obviously to the interest of the Government to find the perpetrators of this outrage," the report declares: "If so, then this investigation is to the interest of the Government, for it certainly succeeded in finding the perpetrators of this outrage."

Contradicting Sir Hamar Greenwood's statement that the fire started in the Patrick Street stores and spread to the other buildings, among them the City Hall, which is a considerable distance away on the opposite side of the River Lee, the report says: "It is a pity the Chief Secretary does not know a little more about the topography of the country he is supposed to rule; he could then lie more."

A map of Cork City is attached to the report, with a reproduction of one published in a London afternoon paper the day after the fire, which, the report charges, was "faked" in order to substantiate the official report on the burning issued by the Irish Office.

Disputing the suggestion that the burning partook of the nature of a reprisal for the ambushing of a party of Crown forces at Dillon's Cross, it declared that long before this attack occurred, namely, 8 o'clock in the evening, it was known there was going to be trouble in the city, shooting and quarreling among the Black and Tans having been going on throughout the evening.

"There is evidence that 300 gallons of petrol were taken out of Victoria Barracks that night," the report asserts.

A summary of the voluminous testimony follows, purporting to prove that the burnings and ensuing arson and other outlawry were carried out entirely by the Cork Crown forces. The report emphasizes that "it was while military had sole and complete charge of the streets and while no civilian might be abroad without a permit that the city was burned and looted. This alone," it adds, "is enough to decide the authorship of the fires."

The report continues: "So far from firing on or arresting looters and incendiaries, the officers and solders on duty in the curfew lorries encouraged the work of plunder and destruction."

New Inquiry Into Cork Fires.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 19.—I learn tonight that in all probability there will be a fresh inquiry into the origin of the recent disastrous Cork fires. General Strickland conducted the original inquiry and his report has been in the hands of the Government for some time. Its publication is awaited with intense interest in Ireland, where speculation has been busy concerning the reasons for the continued delay in issuing it. It is understood the General's report definitely fixed the responsibility for incendiarism, but the findings have given dissatisfaction to a section of the Crown forces—which denies it was exclusively implicated—and if published would undoubtedly constitute a grave potential source of friction.

My information is that this possibility has been exhaustively considered and that the fresh inquiry contemplated will differ in composition from the original one, which was entirely military in character. The new court is expected to be presided over by a judge.

Anti-Government Press Bitter.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—In the editorial comment of the anti-Government newspapers this morning there is a scathing comment on the Government in connection with the report of the recent fires in Cork.

"We most strongly urge upon the Government," says The London Times, "that it should have been impossible for any document of this description, whether founded on truth or falsehood, or both, to have anticipated the official report. . . . Owing to the Cabinet's foolish hesitation, we are not in a position to deny any of it."

The Daily News says:

"No more damning incident has marked the Government's catastrophic Irish policy."

Petition Asks Break With English.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Wilson was requested in a petition presented to the White House today by a committee from the American Veterans' Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, "officially and formally and in the name of the people of the United States to disassociate yourself and us and the people of our country from the English people who were our associates in the recent war."

Chinese Tariff for Famine Relief.

PEKING, Jan. 18.—Surtax duties on imports, which will secure a loan of 4,000,000 taels from American, British, French and Japanese banks, negotiated this week, will be made operative on March 1 and will remain in effect for a period of one year. The surtax will amount to 10 per cent., and the loan will be applied to the relief of famine sufferers.

Filipinos Want Independence In Any Form Whatever

MANILA, Jan. 19.—The people of the Philippines want independence in whatever form they can get it, according to Manuel W. Quezon, President of the Philippines Senate. In an address before that body today he said:

"Let the Americans in the Philippines and those in the United States know that the people of the Philippines covet their freedom, liberty and political emancipation so much that they will not hesitate to receive from the Congress of the United States complete and absolute independence without protection.

"If the United States, dictated by its own interests, decides to extend protection to the Philippines, well and good. We would accept that as a solution of our problem. If not, let us have absolute independence without protection. We want independence in whatever form we can get it."

ORDERS LORD MAYOR TO SHIP PROMPTLY

Labor Department Then Issues Rules Recognizing Jurisdiction of State Department.

TO SURRENDER O'CALLAGHAN

His Counsel Told to Turn Him Over to the Immigration Inspector at Norfolk.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Counsel for Donal O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, who arrived in this country recently without a passport, was directed today by Secretary Wilson to deliver the Lord Mayor "promptly" to the Immigration Inspector at Norfolk.

Following this order, jurisdiction of the State Department in cases of aliens arriving in this country without passports was recognized by the Department of Labor in a formal statement sent by Secretary Wilson to the chief of the Immigration Bureau.

It was announced, however, that the decision of Secretary Wilson that the Lord Mayor of Cork should be allowed to re-ship on a foreign vessel, by reason of the ruling that he occupied the status of a "seaman," had not been rescinded. The Labor Secretary's letter to the Immigration Bureau said that the decision that O'Callaghan be permitted to reship should be "consummated at the earliest possible moment."

Lord Mayor O'Callaghan was paroled in the custody of his counsel, Judge Lawless of Norfolk, soon after he arrived at Norfolk from Cork as a stowaway, and without a passport. He is now in New York, but whether he will appeal to the courts has not yet been announced.

The announcement of Secretary Wilson as to the jurisdiction of the State Department in all cases similar to those of the Lord Mayor is understood to be in the nature of a general agreement between the two departments through which it is hoped to avoid in the future controversies similar to the one which arose in O'Callaghan's case owing to the failure of Secretary Wilson to honor the order of Acting Secretary Davis that O'Callaghan be deported immediately.

President Wilson is understood to have been displeased when he learned of the failure of the Department of Labor to carry out the instructions of the State Department for the deportation of the Lord Mayor of Cork. It was reported today that if the Labor Department had not retired from its position in the O'Callaghan case, based on its construction of the Presidential proclamation, which, for the purposes of the passport control law, made all executive departments the agents of the State Department, the President would have issued a second proclamation which would be susceptible of no interpretation except that which the State Department and its law officers had given to the original proclamation.

Counsel Talks of Court Fight.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 19.—The case of Lord Mayor O'Callaghan of Cork, who recently arrived in this country without a passport, will be fought in the Supreme Court, if necessary, to prevent his being "railroaded to an English port, then to be thrown into an English jail," Judge Joseph T. Lawless, his counsel, said in a statement here tonight. When O'Callaghan returns to his home in Ireland, Lawless added, it will be on a vessel of his own choosing.

"If an order is issued that O'Callaghan must go on a British vessel," he added, "we shall at once proceed in the usual legal manner to protect his rights. You can just bet that the Lord Mayor is not going to be sandbagged or blackjacked into a British prison."

Harry Boland, secretary to Eamons de Valera, "president of the Irish Republic," said yesterday that the next move of Donal O'Callaghan, Lord Mayor of Cork, would be determined by his counsel in this country, and in no way by Boland's office.

O'Callaghan was registered at the Hotel Wolcott here last night and, although he had not returned to the hotel at a late hour, the management said he had not announced that he was about to check out. The Lord Mayor intends in no way to attempt to circumvent American governmental desires while he is enjoying liberty on parole, Boland said.

HEAR 'IRISH CONSUL' ASSAIL BRITISH RULE

Members of Unofficial Commission Told Trade Is Hampered, But Is Growing.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Provisional Irish Republic, through its consular service, is building up a large and successful direct shipping service between Ireland and other countries, especially with the United States, the unofficial commission of 100 investigating the Irish question was told today by J. L. Fawsitt, who said he was the Irish Consul General at New York.

A fortnightly service between New York and Cork, Mr. Fawsitt said, was in operation and another service would open soon between Boston and an Irish port.

No passenger vessels are allowed to land in Ireland direct from America, the witness declared, adding that this was "England's effort to stifle American passenger service that would compete with the British monopoly."

Extensive data and figures intended to show the result of British economic repression in Ireland were presented by Fawsitt, who branching into a general discussion of the Irish question summed up the matter as a "clash between two forms of civilization, the centralized, capital-controlled Government represented by Great Britain on one hand and a co-operative community system represented by the Irish Republic on the other."

Figures from British sources were said by Fawsitt to show that Ireland paid £37,000,000 taxes to Great Britain and received only £22,000,000 in expenditures in return.

"The Irish Republican Government," he added, "could administer the affairs of Ireland with the present taxes paid England and remit from £20,000,000 to £30,000,000."

D'ANNUNZIO TWICE SAVED FROM SUICIDE

Mother's Spirit Dissuaded Him as in Airplane Over Austria He Got Poison Ready.

SHELL NEXT CHANGED PLAN

Knocked Him Unconscious in Fiume Palace, He Says—May Live In Italy After All.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Jan. 19.—Gabriele d'Annunzio bade final farewell to Fiume last night and sped by motor car to Ophina, just north of Trieste, for a destination unknown.

According to one account, the warrior-poet ultimately convinced himself that exile from Italy would break his heart, and so, changing his plans, has elected to go to Marina di Pisa, a favorite spot of his by the shore of the Mediterranean.

A woman friend of d'Annunzio, recounting in the Rome Journal Epoca her visit to him in these last days, says he told her he was on the lookout for a desert.

He always disbelieved that Italy would take any serious military measures against him. When the fratricidal fighting began in earnest he quickly lost all hope and made up his mind to commit suicide. Ever since his gallant aerial raid during the war he has been accustomed to carry a phial of potent poison in his pocket, which he alluded to invariably as "my pharmic liberator."

This poison was concocted for him in Venice from a medieval receipts just before he undertook his memorable raid over Vienna. On that occasion d'Annunzio's engine stopped and was restarted thrice over, but, feeling certain that descent in enemy territory was inevitable, he got the phial ready, determined the Austrians should not capture him alive.

"At that very moment he told me," says the writer in the Epoca, "that a wondrous apparition of his mother, who had died two years before, stood facing him in visible, tangible form, bidding him banish all fears."

D'Annunzio had his deadly phial ready once more during the bombardment of Fiume. His friends had to keep perpetual watch lest he should lock himself up alone in his chamber to present only his corpse to the expected invaders. Then, just after he had been standing at a window of his palace with his telescope fixed on the movements of the battleship Andrea Doria, a big shell struck that part of the palace and d'Annunzio was felled to the floor insensible by flying lumps of masonry.

On regaining consciousness the first object he beheld was the lifeless body of his young grenadier companion lying covered with a white sheet at his side. Thereupon all thoughts of self-destruction vanished and with bleeding face and hands he seated himself at his table and wrote in bold handwriting "D'Annunzio dies not, but is alive and implacable."

It is added by the writer that she found the sorrows of d'Annunzio's last days in Fiume had been greatly assuaged by a charming young French lady who acted as superintendent over his establishment at the Barbarigo Palace, and by a brilliant girl pianist, Louisela Baccara, whom he now reluctantly leaves behind him to superintend his affairs as guest of the family of the Mayor of Fiume.

ATTACKS CONTINUED IN MANY DISTRICTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, Jan. 19.—Ambushes have occurred at the following places:

Dublin, one cadet wounded; Longford, two auxiliaries wounded; Charleville district, County Cork, one soldier wounded, two casualties to attackers; Borrisolieght, County Tipperary, three soldiers wounded; Buttevant, County Cork, no casualties, police car damaged.

In the Hummerhill district of Dublin last night a patrol of auxiliaries out after curfew observed a party of men, according to the official account, haying in a suspicious manner in Mountjoy Place. When challenged the suspects ran away. Three of the police patrol who followed them were fired on. Firing in reply the patrol ran up Laneway and arrested one man. Another man who took shelter in a house was arrested. Further shots were fired on the patrol from the direction of Mountjoy Square and a further arrest was effected.

An officer and one man of a machine gun corps appear to have made a plucky fight when going on patrol between Charleville and Ballyvonare this morning. They were motoring and near Shinnary Bridge were attacked by a large body of civilians. After an exchange of shots the attackers departed. A soldier was wounded and it is believed at least two casualties were inflicted on the ambushers.

A sentry belonging to a company of auxiliaries occupying Longord County Infirmary was attacked last night. A relief party turned out and were fired on from adjacent fields, two being wounded.

Between Mallon and Buttevant today a mixed party of police and military, traveling in two motor tenders, found their progress obstructed near the latter place by a trench cut across the road. As the cars pulled up a volley of shots was fired at them, but there were no casualties, and the occupants beat off the attack.

DUBLIN, Jan. 19.—Two men have been shot dead at the internment camp for Sinn Feiners in Ballykinler, County Down, it was officially announced today.

BELFAST, Jan. 19.—Reports received here of the shooting of two Sinn Feiners at the Ballykinler internment camp state that one of the victims had been signaling to some person outside the camp and that, although he was warned four times by a sentry to discontinue his signals, he persisted in them, upon which the soldier fired. Another Sinn Fein prisoner got into the line of fire, the reports add, and both men were killed.

$57,500 CABLED FOR RELIEF.

American Quakers to Be Sent to Report on Needs in Ireland.

The American Committee for Relief in Ireland, of which ex-Supreme Court Justice Morgan J. O'Brien is Chairman, announced yesterday that $57,500 had been cabled to Ireland for the purchase of food, clothing and other necessaries to relieve the more pressing cases of suffering among the Irish people.

"The committee was moved in haste in transmitting funds by receipt of urgent appeals direct from Ireland and by the disclosures of destruction and privation contained in the report of the British Labor Commission on Ireland, published in full in the United States for the first time today," the announcement by the committee stated.

"The American committee will also send at once a unit, composed of American Quakers, to Ireland for the purpose of reporting on the exact needs of the situation and to render such assistance to the Irish White Cross as may be in their power.

"For the time being, at least, sums transmitted to Ireland for immediate relief of hunger and homelessness will be disbursed by James Douglas, a prominent Irish Quaker, working in co-operation with the Irish White Cross, of which Lawrence O'Neil, Lord Mayor of Dublin, is Provisional Chairman. The latter organization has just been formed and a permanent system of relief and reconstruction is being established by a provisional executive committee."

President Reaches Decision on Armenia; Is Said to Blame Allies for Country's Plight

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Wilson has reached a decision concerning the action he will take as a consequence of his acceptance of the invitation of the League of Nations to mediate between the Republic of Armenia and the Turkish Nationalists under the leadership of Mustapha Kemal Pasha. An announcement will be made at the White House this week, it was indicated today.

It is learned also that no definite plans have been made for the sailing of Henry Morgenthau, formerly Ambassador to Turkey, who was selected by President Wilson to serve as his personal representative in the mediation between Armenia and the Turkish Nationalists.

It was originally intended to send Mr. Morgenthau to the Near East, but it was later intimated that he might not go at all, especially after the announcement by Premier Lloyd George in England, in the form of a telegram to Paul Hymans, President of the Council of the League, advising that the best course for President Wilson to pursue might be to establish contact with the American and allied representativese in Constantinople.

After the invitation was accepted by the President to mediate the dispute which, because of the invasion of Armenia by the Turks, threatened the extermination of the Armenians, the Soviet Government at Moscow intervened, induced the Turks and the Armenians to make peace, and is reputed to have set up in Armenia a Soviet Government based on the Moscow model.

It is understood that President Wilson is somewhat surprised over the apparent lessened interest on the part of the allied powers in Armenia, following the successful mediation of the Bolsheviki, which is believed here not to have been for the best interests either of the Armenians or the allied nations. Their failure to respond to the President's requests for advice and assurances also occasioned disappointment, and the feeling has grown that the allied powers have become indifferent concerning any efforts that President Wilson might institute to save Armenia.

It has even been intimated that the Allies would be willing to sacrifice Armenia further in order to come to an acceptable arrangement with the Turkish Nationalists, who are more powerful than the Constantinople Government and who have been moving in the direction of an alliance with Bolshevist Russia.

It is understood that whatever form President Wilson's action takes, it will either openly or by implication place upon the allied powers responsibility for the present condition and the fate of Armenia.

PROPERTY ALLIES GOT FROM GERMANY

Berlin Official List of Everything So Far Delivered To or Held by Them.

VALUED AT $5,000,000,000

Copyright, 1921, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—I have obtained an advance copy of the German report on the carrying out of the terms of the Treaty of Versailles, which shows everything delivered to or held by the Entente, from cats and dogs to ocean liners, the total value of which is $5,000,000,000. A summary follows, the values of the various items mentioned being in German gold marks:

The Allies have received mine materials valued at 200,000 marks; railroad yards in surrendered territory, 250,000,000; rolling stock, 1,500,000,000; railroad parts, 3,000,000; farm machinery, 30,000,000; mercantile fleet, 7,000,000,000; reconstruction machinery and live stock, 2,000,000; coal, 640,000,000; ammonia, 3,000,000; drugs and dyestuffs, 250,000,000; total value more than 10,000,000,000 marks.

The value of the Sarre Valley mine field is estimated at 1,000,000,000; German national property in the territory which was given up, 4,500,000,000; five bridges in Alsace-Lorraine, 8,000,000; cables held by the Allies, 85,000,000, and the goods left on the war fronts, 2,500,000,000, a total of more than 8,000,000,000 marks.

Railroad Stock Restored.

The railway report shows that Poland received 1,260 locomotives and 21,000 cars. "We have delivered to the Allies," says the report, "a total of 5,076 locomotives valued at 380,000,000 marks, 8,900 passenger coaches, 3,300 baggage cars and 135,000 freight cars, the total value of which is 1,500,000,000 gold marks."

Ships numbering 908, with a total tonnage of 4,267,000 tons and valued at 6,000,900,000 marks have been delivered to the Allies. The Germans have ninety-three ships ready for delivery, with a tonnage of 358,000 and valued at 411,000,000 marks. Also there are eighty-two ships in Flensburg and Holland valued at 188,000,000 marks, with a tonnage of 150,000 tons.

Germany has sent to France and Belgium 40,000 horses, 184,000 cows, 136,000 sheep, 20,000 goats and 35,000 chickens. The live stock report declares "our obligations have been fulfilled and the balance will be delivered soon. Our best cattle have been given up."

"In accordance with the treaty terms," continues the report, "we have delivered one-half the entire amount of drugs and dyestuffs found in Germany at the conclusion of the armistice and are fulfilling the provision which restricts us to deliver one-quarter of the output until 1925, the total being 9,350 tons of dyestuffs and thirty-nine tons of drugs."

Government property in surrendered territory, such as barracks at military and naval stations and railroad, post office, telegraph and Custom House systems and their appurtenances, have been turned over, the value of the property at Memel being 33,000,000 marks, at Danzig 350,000,000, in Poland 1,850,000,000, in Czechoslovakia 10,000,000 and in Denmark 42,000,000—a total of 2,000,000,000 marks.

Estimating the value of the cables at 85,000,000 marks, the report claims that it has been proved that German cables last fifty years instead of the usual forty. The German cable office in New York is listed at 296,000 marks.

Most of the property left behind was in Belgium and is estimated as having a value of 1,500,000,000 marks, which includes war materials. The value of property left in France is estimated at only 175,000,000 marks.

It is shown that Germany is supporting ten allied commissions: the missing prisoners, docks, Schleswig, Silesian, disarmament, reparations, frontiers, Rhine, Danube and coal commissions, at a cost of 400,000,000 paper marks. However, the Docks Commission sets a record for economy, costing only thirty American dollars. There are also the subcommissions.

ZETKIN TELLS HOW SHE INVADED FRANCE

German Communist Deputy Went Without Mishap by Rail and Auto to Tours.

GOOD FRENCH ACCENT AIDED

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—The resumption of the sessions of the Reichstag has brought back to Berlin Frau Clara Zetkin, whose audacious trip to Tours created such a sensation in France. She has received many congratulations on her pluck, not only from her partisans, the Communists, but also from the reactionary Nationalists; for any trick played upon the French authorities will always be applauded by junkerdom.

It was with difficulty that THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent persuaded the lively little gray-haired woman to give an account of her recent visit, which she thought much less interesting than her trip last year to Russia, where her friend Lenin convinced her "by facts of the supremacy of Bolshevism."

"You must not think we played any tricks on the French Government," she said. "I am like most Communists; I hate lies. I had no other papers than my German passport, which described me as Clara Zetkinia, a member of the Reichstag, adding a few complimentary remarks regarding my personal appearance. Where I crossed the border I must not reveal, nor how it happened that the frontier guard never noticed that my passport was not properly visèd, because our Communist comrades may have to rely upon the same methods to cross France, and I must not spoil their game.

"Well, I passed through the devastated district, and I must say I was shocked. I never expected to see such business, which makes me wonder no longer at French hatred against the Germans. Beyond the devastated districts the train became extremely crowded, and the passengers often addressed me, but they never suspected my nationality, because I speak French very well, having lived in Paris for more than eight years.

"My heart beat quickly whenever we stopped at any station, for I feared the control officers might ask unpleasant questions. The danger became pressing when we reached the Gare du Nord in Paris, where policemen in plain clothes stop any suspicious looking arrival."

But Frau Zetkin passed this ordeal successfully.

Continuing her story, she said:

"I hastened to my old friends, who could not believe their eyes when they saw their unexpected visitor. I stayed thirty-six hours with my friends in Paris, who would not let me continue my journey to Tours by railway, but rented an automobile at an enormous price. Before nightfall myself and a Parisian friend were en route for Tours, traveling in the dark, because the nearer we got to Tours the more vigilant became the police, and my Parisian friend said I should never have been able to reach the Tours railway station undetected. Nevertheless, we took three meals in hotels on the way, and, as my Parisian friend never failed to speak in a very nasty way about Germany, and even more nastily about Lenin, nothing happened.

"It was 7 o'clock in the evening when I and my Parisian companion entered the congress, and the members were speechless when my name was announced. After a short consultation with the Chairman all the doors were locked and guards were placed before them, whereupon trusted delegates rushed to the three telephone booths in the hall and began conversations with my Tom, Dick or Harry in Paris; for these telephones connected the congress directly with the French capital, and if any secret agent present had notified Millerand he would never have permitted me to leave France again.

"Thundering applause greeted me when I began my address, which it was arranged should last only half an hour. Meanwhile our car took in fuel and provisions for several days.

"When I finished the audience fairly stormed the stage, wishing to congratulate me and shake hands with me. The committee formed a circle around me, conducting me through a back door, where the car was waiting. Away we sped through the old-fashioned streets of Tours into the unlighted country, and never stopped till we reached Rheims.

"That city is one tremendous heap of ruins, with here and there some mean, low, narrow shanty rebuilt on the site of former palaces once surrounding the fine Cathedral, which, despite all assertions to the contrary, is rather well preserved. The country around Rheims has recovered quickly from the wounds of the war and is again the land where the champagne flows, which perhaps accounts for the fact that nobody discovered the German Communists, although she stayed fully twenty-four hours.

"In reaching home by way of Luxemburg I used the same methods, which I must not reveal for the reasons I told."

FRANCE TO PROPOSE HELP FOR AUSTRIA

Will Ask Britain and Italy at Allied Conference to Join in Plan.

LONDON FAVORS ASSISTANCE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 19.—At the allied conference, which will open in Paris next Monday, the French Government will ask Great Britain and Italy to join with France in giving immediate financial aid to Austria for the humanitarian purposes of keeping that unfortunate country from starving, and for the political purpose of keeping it from falling into German hands. It is understood that the British Government is favorably inclined.

Two projects have been prepared. One provides for a loan of $250,000,000, to be handled by the Austro-Hungarian Bank under allied direction, and the other is for the sale of certain Austrian art treasures for 200,000,000 francs gold.

Baron Eichoff, the Austrian Minister in Paris, in an interview published today, paints a sorry picture of the plight of his country and explains the growth of the agitation for annexation to Germany.

"Events in Austria," he said, "announce the imminence of a catastrophe. The treaty of St. Germain has placed the responsibility for the war on the new Austria, that is, a region with one-eighth of the population of the former monarchy, containing the immense capital and a mountainous and unfertile region, crossed by only a few branches of the old railroad system, costly in upkeep and separated at every point from the arteries of communication of Central Europe.

"The crops of this Austria scarcely suffice for one-sixth of her population. The country is almost without coal.

Says Austria Has Done Her Best.

"The new Austria has bravely accepted her heavy task. She has done her best to establish her independent existence on a sound economic and social basis. Unhealthy propaganda which has come from Bulgaria and Bavaria has been powerless to upset the good sense of the Austrians. As much as they possibly could the Austrian people have been working with zeal. It cannot be too much insisted on that the Austrian population has done its best in every branch in which Austria is independent of foreign imports.

"Certainly the great powers, especially France, have not remained insensible to the sufferings of Austria. They have given her help which, coming at critical moments, has prevented her from dying without enabling her to reorganize her life. This help, more humanitarian than economic, cannot prevent the fatal march toward collapse. The State cannot exist on alms. In order that the new Austria should live something more must be done than give her charity.

"The Austrian section of the Commission on Reparations has established a program of reconstitution. It asks an advance from the Allies equivalent to $250,000,000 in five annuities. Austria is now awaiting a prompt decision by the allied Governments, which for her will be a sentence of life or death.

"We have reached the limits of endurance. We have no means of payment. As a result of the economic distress the crown has reached a level which makes it impossible for us to buy food or raw material outside. A decision must be taken.

"The Austrian Government is trying with great tenacity to avoid a catastrophe, but if we do not receive credit, if we continue to fail in our payments, no Government can remain in power. A political catastrophe would cause the following events: On the one hand the country forming the present Austria would swing toward Germany to find means of subsistence, even if small; on the other hand we must fear complete anarchy, which in Vienna and the industrial regions of lower Austria might produce terror and fighting for the control of the other parts of Austria the good sense of the population would be more easilly held in hand.

"Thus the Allies themselves face grave alternatives. Do they wish to assure the order and security of Central Europe, or do they prefer to let come a state which not only will lead to the dismemberment of a country to which, by the treaty of Saint Germain, the powers guaranteed independent existence? The cost of extending aid now would be much cheaper than the burdens which would fall upon the Allies from the dismemberment of Austria or the loss of her independence."

Vienna Workers Hesitate on Threat.

VIENNA, Jan. 19.—Although tomorrow is the day set by leaders of the workingmen for putting in effect a program of force against the profiteers unless the government announces the adoption of means to deal with them, there seemed to be a probability today that the crisis over this question might be averted, for the time at least.

The fears of serious trouble were allayed by the action of Herr Werner, Chief of the Technical Trades Unions, in calling a meeting of these organizations, at which he will advise a postponement of direct action. He said he had been led to this course by the fact that the price conference with the Government had not been concluded and that therefore Government officials had not yet had an opportunity to state their position.

Coupled with the ultimatum of the workers on the profiteering question has been their insistent demand for a plebiscite on the question of fusion with Germany. This sentiment is prevailing from various quarters, and it was dealt with in a speech last night by Finance Minister Grim, who declared that union with Germany would be brought about of necessity, perhaps by means of a revolution, unless foreign credits to Austria were soon forthcoming. The Minister was speaking on future expenditures in sight, footing up 15,000,000,000 crowns, with only 2,000,000,000 crowns in prospect with which to meet the payments.

The tendency of the present crisis to give impetus to the fusion movement was evidenced when the students of Vienna turned the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the German Empire into a fusion demonstration and adopted resolutions which they presented formally to Chancellor Mayr, demanding a plebiscite.

Innsbruck, the Innsbruck, the Tyrolean capital, the Great German Party introduced a resolution declaring that a national catastrophe was imminent and that the peace which guaranteed Austria's independence was actually her death sentence, ending by demanding that the Austrian Government hold a plebiscite by Feb. 27 on the question of joining with Germany. The Christian Socialists are expected to support this resolution, while the Social Democrats will present a motion to the same effect in different language.

In supplementing his announcement that he would advocate a postponement of direct action against the profiteers Herr Werner said that while he was willing to advocate a respite he did not mean to submit to any prolonged delay, but would proceed to protect the interests of the country with all the forces at his disposal.

QUITS VIENNA BANK TASK.

Henry Whitman of Boston Disagrees With Other Liquidators.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Jan. 18.—Henry Whitman of Boston, one of the liquidators of the Austro-Hungarian Bank, who has laboriously tried to effect a fair settlement of the entangled affairs of the bank, has expressed a determination to leave the position forthwith, and only with difficulty has been prevailed upon to postpone his departure until March 1.

Constant disagreements with other liquidators, Italian and Humanian, are supposed to be responsible for Whitman's decision.

8-Hour Day for Housewives Urged by Workers' Wives

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A letter under a Brooklyn date, signed "Wives and Mothers of Industrial Workers," reached members of Congress today asking for a law to require childless married women under 60 to do housework three days a week for mothers with children, and also suggesting an eight-hour day for housewives.

"Congress should realize," the letter said, "that legislation should be less and less in favor of industrial workers and more and more to alleviate and improve the condition of the overworked, underpaid, dish-washing housewife."

It added that 60 per cent. of the members of Congress received more pay than they were worth.

British Prosecutor Charges Banker Got Americans to Agree to Put Up £500,000.

THEIR FUNDS RECOVERED

Then They Exposed Condition of the Bank—Real Balance Sheets Found In Locked Cupboard.

Copyright, 1921, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Remarkable charges of how an attempt was made by the management of Farrow's Bank, which suspended payment last month, to sell the bankrupt concern for £500,000 to Norton, Read & Co. of New York, were made today in the Guildhall Police Court before the Lord Mayor of London by Sir Richard Muir, Crown Prosecutor. Thomas Farrow, Chairman and Managing Director of the bank; William Walter Crotch, Director, and Frederick Duncan Harthead of the audit department were the defendants charged with issuing on June 30 last a false balance sheet, but Muir stated that other charges would shortly be added.

From his opening statement it appears that the Crown will try to show that the bank's being hopelessly insolvent came out through an attempt made to sell its control to the American firm, and it was their revelations to the Board of Trade and Treasury which led to the suspension.

Farrow's Bank was started in 1907 and made a specialty of opening many branches and catering to small customers. It gave interest on certain of its current accounts even and professed to be making a steady and gratifying profit. Yet Sir Richard asserted it had lost steadily ever year since 1908, its aggregate deficiency up to last year being £1,107,000.

Negotiations with Norton, Read & Co., who have a London branch at 76 Pall Mall, said Muir, began last year, Read, the London manager, taking up the matter with Farrow, while Crotch, who was in America, called on Norton in New York. Farrow, Muir continued, showed Read the May balance sheet for 1919 and asserted the Institution was one of the finest in England, but said he and Crotch got little help from their fellow Directors and needed first class financial assistance. He admitted there might be some depreciation to write off, but suggested it would be on only £100,000 and certainly not more than £200,000.

Finally an agreement, said Muir, was reached in which Norton, Read & Co. would get control, Read becoming Managing Director, and the American firm was to take up £300,000 worth of shares and make itself responsible for a further large number, putting up £500,000 altogether, of which £400,000 was to go to the bank's reserves and £100,000 to Farrow and the retiring Directors as compensation. Crotch drafted the agreement, Read signed it, and Farrow made a speech full of optimism at the annual meeting of the bank at the end of last June.

Then Read wanted to take up the position of Managing Director at once. Farrow, however, counsel explained, refused to permit this until Read had taken up £300,000 worth of shares. This he agreed to do, and on Oct. 4 Norton, Read and Richie, another partner, attended a meeting of the board to be elected Directors. Farrow, however, held up the election until Read had agreed to pay, and in fact did pay. Then difficulty arose with regard to Read's becoming Director at all until more money had been paid. This difficulty was also adjusted, and on Oct. 18, Read was elected Managing Director and the other two partners Directors.

Read and Riche began at once an investigation of the bank, but, said counsel, Hart, as the head of the audit department, strange to say, refused them the Government access to the private ledgers, but produced them in the end. A preliminary investigation showed the position of the bank was not quite satisfactory, but the investigation completed by Nov. 8 made it clear the financial position was entirely different from what had been represented in the balance sheets. Read discovered that though his agreement with the company was not completed until August, in the accounts of the bank for the year ending June 30 there was a debt of about £600,000 against Norton, Read & Co.

Counsel then related how skilled accountants were called in on Nov. 8 and reported the bank was hopelessly insolvent and the balance sheets wholly misleading.

Crotch, said counsel, admitted the truth and Read recovered the securities which he had deposited to cover £150,000 for which he was personally liable. He then, for his firm, consulted counsel, and as a result canceled the agreement with the bank on the ground that Farrow and his two colleagues had been personally guilty of publishing false balance sheets. Then the matter was raised before the Board of Trade and Treasury.

"What," asked counsel, "was the object of Farrow and Crotch in inducing Read to come into the concern? They thought that as soon as the crash came Read would be in the same boat as themselves, and that, having become enmeshed in this fraudulent business, in order to save his honor and his credit, he would find it necessary to save exposure and would agree to shoulder the financial burden."

Among the irregularities to which Sir Richard Muir drew attention were large sums the Directors apparently owed the bank, Crotch standing indebted for between £180,000 and £200,000. The reserve fund, he said, was absolutely fictitious and did not exist even in the books of the bank.

In Hart's room at the bank, counsel added, there was a locked cupboard. This was broken open and paper were found which showed how the fraudulent balance sheets had been prepared. For each year a document had been prepared showing the true position of affairs and the deficiency, and from this Hart, said counsel, had cooked up a balance sheet to show a profit.

The case has been adjourned. Depositors of Farrow's are likely to get a fragment of only 10 shillings in the pound, with the possibility of an extra shilling in the future.

DEAD CZAR'S GEMS BROUGHT TO AMERICA

COUNT SZECHENYI ARRIVES

Danish Nobleman's Collection of Antiques and Paintings Come In on Frederick VIII.

Three liners arrived yesterday from Europe with more than 4,000 storm-tossed passengers.

The Holland-America liner Rotterdam, which brought 2,741 passengers from Rotterdam, Boulogne and Plymouth, had five gales and five births, four boys and one girl, during the voyage. The mothers and babies were doing well when the ship docked in Hoboken.

Milton B. Rosenbach, an English jeweler, brought some former Russian Crown jewels, which he said had been purchased from the Soviet Government. The diamonds, emeralds and rubies totaled 5,000 karats, he said.

As it was too late to send the jewels to the Appraiser's Stores the package was locked up in the purser's safe on board the Rotterdam and will be examined today. Hitherto the United States Government has not permitted any jewels or gold from the Soviet Government to be disposed of in this country, as it was considered that the articles were stolen property.

Among the first cabin passengers was Count Laszlo Széchényi of Budapest, who came to America to see his wife, formerly Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, and their children. He was met at the pier by Reginald Vanderbilt. The Count left this country in 1914 and had not seen his family since then. When asked about conditions in Hungary, Count Széchényi said:

"I believe the report that Hungary will become a kingdom again is correct. Who the King will be, I do not know. It may be the former Emperor Charles or some other member of the Hapsburg family. We have been too busy in Hungary in getting rid of the Bolsheviki to decide who shall be King. The constitution is being prepared, I understand, and will be the same as that of Great Britain."

"Do you believe Austria will join with Germany?" he was asked.

"I fear that is true. There is nothing else left for the Austrian people. The exchange cripples them and the conditions under which the people live are terrible."

Jules Kurzman of Fifth Avenue, another passeger on the liner, said he had left Paris the day after the new fashions were introduced. The style will be Moroccan. Women will wear lace hats formed in the shape of turbans and capes of Moorish design. Financial and business conditions in France were not at all good, Mr. Kurzman said.

The Marquis N. degli Ablizzi, a Lieutenant in the Italian cavalry, arrived to marry Miss Mary Kifer of Sioux City, Iowa, who served as a nurse with the American Red Cross in Armenia. She met him at the pier.

The Scandinavian-American liner Frederik VIII., from Copenhagen, was coated with ice when she made fast at her Hoboken pier. Among her first cabin passengers was H. Ferlov of Copenhagen, who brought a collection of antiques and objects of art, said to be worth $2,000,000 and to be a part of the estate of a Danish nobleman. The collection included paintings, old silver cups, embroideries, tapestries, furniture and many articles said to be 600 years old. The most valuable painting was "The King's Adoration," by Teniers, 1638. Mr. Ferlov kept the pictures in his cabin, wrapped in blankets.

The collection will be sent to the Public Stores today for examination by the Government experts, and if they prove to be more than 100 years old the articles will be admitted free.

The White Star liner Megantic arrived from Liverpool and will start on her first West Indies cruise on Saturday with 350 American tourists. Among the first cabin passengers was Miss Ann Gray, niece of Miss Mary Anderson, as a soprano and harpist. She said she had appeared at several concerts in London. Sir Davie Paul, founder of the Scottish Life Assurance Company of Edinburgh, was also a passenger.

Sir William Smith, owner of a line of freighters trading from Cardiff to America, said the shipping business was bad in England due to the cutting of rates by vessels operated by the United States Shipping Board.

"We are ready to make an agreement at any time with American steamship owners on a payable basis, but we cannot compete with vessels which take freight to Rotterdam at $4.50 a ton."

PROPOSAL JARS HARVARD.

City Plan of Big "H" on Smokestack Assailed as Inappropriate.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 19.—The plan of the City of Cambridge to erect a huge crimson letter "H" high upon one of the tallest chimneys of the power house has brought forth torrents of protests from Harvard men. Today The Harvard Crimson adds its attack on the plan, complaining that such a display "would scarcely give the casual observer an impression of Harvard dignity and learned calm."

The Crimson continues:

"It is incredible that any one should think that the spirit of Harvard can be expressed by the mere raising of a crossbar between two useful but ungainly monuments of brick. Yet, incredible as the idea is, it seems to have caught the fancy of some individuals. The proposition smacks too much of small-town Chamber of Commerce advertising to make it even conceivable as a method of creating harmony from the discord caused by the present stacks.

"It were better to have Harvard study by candle light huddled over a wood fire than to have it so colossally misrepresented by the attempt to cover up the source of its heat and light."

FUSILLADE ON MINING CAMP.

Federal Troops Sent to Scene of Attack Near Sprigg, W. Va.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Jan. 19.—The mining camp of the Burnwell Coal & Coke Company in Kentucky, opposite Sprigg, W. Va., seven miles from Williamson, was attacked by persons hidden in the surrounding mountains. Colonel Herman Hall immediately upon receipt of the news sent a patrol of Federal troops to the scene.

Reports by telephone to Colonel Hall indicated that no one had been hit during the shooting. A detachment of West Virginia State police is on duty at Sprigg but as the firing was over the Kentucky border it was necessary to send Federal soldiers.

The Burnwell mine was idle for a time after the strike was called in the Mingo field but resumed operations several weeks ago.

Endorse Lee Highway Project.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 19.—President Wilson and President-elect Harding, in messages read today to the Lee Highway convention here, endorsed the project as an appropriate memorial to the Southern leader, born in Virginia 114 years ago today. A definite route for the highway from New York to New Orleans, with an extension to California, is to be selected.

SEEKS TO RESTRAIN CORT.

Justice Ford Reserves Decision on Ada May Weeks's Application.

Supreme Court Justice Ford reserved decision yesterday on an application by Ada May Weeks, formerly of the "Jim Jam Jems" company, to restrain John Cort, her former manager, from interfering with her in her efforts to obtain employment. She is suing him for $25,000 damages for compelling her to break her contract and for writing a letter to the Producing Managers' Association warning the members not to engage her. She alleges that she got $200 and $300 as leading ingenue in "Listen, Lester," and that her work was so satisfactory that she was engaged at $400 a week for "Jim Jam Jems" while it was in New York.

Miss Weeks alleges that before the play reached New York and while it was being produced here Cort used insulting language to her before other members of the cast and stagehands, and finally when her salary was cut in half she notified Cort that she considered that the contract had been broken by him because of the treatment she received.

Isolde Menges, Violinist, Heard.

Isolde Menges, an English violinist of picturesque personality, was cordially greeted by a matinee audience yesterday in Aeolian Hall, where she had appeared in other seasons. She plays with force and fire, with almost 'cello quality on the lower strings, while higher passages become too often shrill and harsh. In spite of good phrasing of her music, she was less happy in sustained works of Handel and Bach than in modern pieces, such as Debussy's "La Plus Que Lente" and arrangements by Kreisler. One of these, from a "Rigaudon" of Francoeur, she played with splendid velocity, and the house would have liked to hear twice over Tod Boyd's double-stopped "Samoan Lullaby."

"Tosca" Sung for the Fifth Time.

"Tosca" was sung for the fifth time this season at the Metropolitan last evening, with Miss Farrar and Mr. Scotti in their familiar rôles and Mr. Gigli as Sardou's Roman patriot hero. Mr. Moranzoni conducted and there was a large house.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Love Birds," with Pat Rooney and Marion Bent as its stars, will open in New York in about two weeks.

The complete cast of "Dulcy," in which Lynn Fontanne will have the leading role, will include Gregory Kelly, John Westley, Gilbert Douglas, Wallis Clark, George Allison, Elliot Nugent, Howard Lindsay, Harry Lillford, Constance Pelissier and Norma Lee. Rehearsals will begin Monday.

The customary Friday matinee of "Mixed Marriage" at the Time Square Theatre will be omitted this week because of the Chesterton lecture at that playhouse.

"Humanettes," a device invented by Bert Levy, the cartoonist, will be a feature of the next Ziegfeld "Follies."

Wilde's "The Importance of Being Ernest" will be revived at the Bramhall Playhouse tonight.

"The Rose Girl," by Anselm Goetzl and William Cary Duncan, will open in Atlantic City tonight. It will come to the new Ambassador Theatre next month.

A. E. W. Mason's "Green Stockings," with a short play, will make up the third matinee bill of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, to be given at the Lyceum a week from tomorrow.

Matinees Wednesday & Sat., 2:30.

Dear You:

Three great American boys, Lts. Hinton, Farrell and Kloor, from suffering to happiness, from the wilds of the frozen North to "Dear Me" at the Republic Theatre. Their first entertainment in the home-land will be to see Grace La Rue and Hale Hamilton in "Dear Me" tonight, staged by Winchell Smith, the man who directed "Turn to the Right," "Three Wise Fools," "Lightnin'," "The 1st Year."

Of It The Herald said "delightful;" The Commercial, "a sure-fire hit—Miss La Rue a revelation;" The Sun, "the cleverest comedy of the season—Mr. Hamilton introduced best comedy seen in town;" The Times, "applause unquestionably the voice of the multitude;" The Tribune, "John Golden placed his third play on the laps of the gods—clean and American;" The Telegram, "clever, artistically staged—excellently cast;" The Brooklyn Eagle, "a big success."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

General Advance in Stocks—Call Money Goes to 7 Per Cent. —Liberty Bonds Higher.

The two characteristic movements of the month, advancing prices for Liberty bonds and an upward swing in foreign exchange, continued on yesterday's financial markets. They were accompanied on this occasion by a fairly rapid advance in stocks, which converged particularly on the industrial shares, but affected the entire market. To some extent this recovery, which caused a number of net advances running from 2 to 5 points, may have been helped by belated repurchases for the December "bear account," but Wall Street believed that it recognized the hand of concerted speculation for the rise.

The motive for the movement was the very familiar belief of professional speculators that, if a stock market will not go down when it has had such chance to do so as it has had in the last few days, then it ought to go up. This reasoning is not infallible, because it overlooks the fact that the market's natural attitude may be to stand still and do nothing. But in Wall Street calculations, that is the one condition which is never considered normal. Call money rose again to 7 per cent. on the Stock Exchange shortly before the close, but otherwise money rates were unchanged.

Yesterday's further rise in Liberty bonds was fully equal to that of Tuesday and Monday. It affected nearly every issue, including the Victory 4¾s, several of them gaining ⅜ to ½ for the day, making the month's recovery since the last days of December as much as 3 or 3½ per cent. It should not be overlooked, in these days of simultaneous world-wide movements in finance, that some of the British Government bonds also have recovered 2 to 3 points thus far in January and the French 3 per cents. 3⅝ points. All this embodies pretty clearly the view of the markets regarding the international money situation, and foreign exchange rates renewed their testimony yesterday to the same effect by a further general recovery, in which exchange on Paris reached the highest rate since the middle of October, when the muddle over the French Government's arrangements to meet the Anglo-French loan was beginning to upset the market.

In a measure, yesterday's rise on the Stock Exchange was ascribed in the talk of Wall Street to a more cheerful view of the business situation. Current news has given some ground for this, especially when last month's gloomy prognostications have thus far failed so notably of fulfillment. The cotton market has recovered since the year end. Reduction in retail prices since the Christmas holidays has visibly stimulated many halting trades; to such extent that in the textile industry a Baltimore house has this week advertised for "$5,000,000 worth of desirable merchandise for spot cash," because of the inroads on its stock by the January sales. But the news is by no means all of that character. Yesterday's sharp decline in the grain markets brought them below the December closing, and, as against resumption of work at many idle textile mills, the iron and steel trade indicates an uncertain outlook.

Prices, it is true, have hardly varied this month, but The Iron Age reports today for steel that "in all lines consumers expect lower prices," believing that "readjustment is only in its early stages," and that in iron an offer of considerable size "nearly $6 below the prices made at the last recorded sale failed to develop an order." This must be taken in connection with the present week's statements of the orders placed for steel for construction purposes, which in December were with one exception (those of October) the smallest of any month since April, 1919. Last month's 47,000 ton total compared with 171,000 last February, with 153,000 in December of 1919 and with 209,700 in July of 1918, the maximum of wartime. In view of the undisputed demand for more housing facilities, these are striking facts. The reasons heretofore assigned for last year's great decrease in building were first, the very high rate on mortgages, and second, the very high price of building material. The interest rate should presently come down, if the present money market can be trusted, but the cost of construction remains.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 19, 1921.

Money on call on the Stock Exchange went up to 7 per cent. just before the close. The opening was at 6 per cent., at which rate loans were renewed. Ruling rate was 6 per cent. In the outside market demand funds were loaning at 6 per cent. Time money was quoted as being freely bid for at 6 per cent., with lenders asking 6½ per cent. The supply at the latter rate is not considered large. Offerings of prime bankers' acceptances were small at previously prevailing quotations. Commercial paper, first names, also ruled unchanged.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

General Advance in Rates on All Principal Markets—Sterling 5/8 Cent Higher.

Exchange rates on practically all important foreign markets advanced yesterday after an early slight reaction, and closed near the best. Buying of francs was especially active; the rate went to the highest of the month. German exchange recovered, and a notable advance occurred in Scandinavian exchange, the day's rise in the Norwegian rate being ½ cent per crown. Austrian exchange was higher, but Polish exchange continued its recent decline. The Argentine rate advanced about ⅛ cent per dollar, Brazil was unchanged. Montreal exchange rose to 87.7 cents, as against 87.6 Tuesday, 87.4 Monday and 87.8 Saturday.

CRITICISES FRENCH FOREIGN BANK PLAN

DENIES THEY FORM BARRIER

Foreign Agencies in New York Keep Close Touch With Market and So Help Trade, He Says.

Reports from abroad, published in THE TIMES yesterday, to the effect that the Finance Committee of the French Chamber was studying a new measure for additional taxes on foreign banks operating in France, which forbids such banks to receive deposits or to take part in any operation relative to foreign issues, other than those concerning their own nationals, without government authority given by decree, attracted considerable attention among bankers whose institutions have branches in Paris and other French cities.

It is believed that the scheme is designed, partly at least, to retaliate against the New York State banking laws, which withhold from agencies of foreign banks the right to receive deposits. Speaking on this subject, Albert Breton, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, said:

"It should be remembered that the New York State banking law provides that upon compliance with certain formalities and upon the issuance of a license by the Superintendent of Banks, a foreign banking corporation may transact here the business of buying, selling and paying or collecting bills of exchange, of issuing letters of credit, or receiving for transmission money by draft, check, cable or otherwise, or making sterling or other loans, and may maintain in the State an agency for carrying on such business.

"There are certain things which a foreign banking corporation may do in New York State without even going through the formality of taking out a license. Thus, a foreign banking corporation which does not maintain an office in the State is not prohibited from making loans secured by mortgages on real property, nor from accepting assignments of mortgages covering real property situated in the State, nor from making loans through correspondents. It may be said that the agencies of foreign banks are not authorized to do a local discounting business, but they may, of course, buy and negotiate promissory notes and other evidences of debt. This latter power is inherent. It is identified with the business of banking and a convenient, necessary method of carrying out one of a bank's fundamental and essential purposes, namely, the lending of money.

"It may well be pointed out that foreign banks which are engaged in financing trade between the United States and other countries are enabled through the maintenance of an agency in New York State to have a much closer relationship to our market than they could otherwise hope to secure, and thus perform a most important function in financing the world's foreign trade.

"The fact that many foreign banks, including French, have had their agencies here for years shows conclusively that our present banking laws do not constitute barriers to foreign banks. And many of our leading financiers consider that the more foreign banks we have here the more important will New York become as an international financial centre."

TO CONTEST RYAN WILL.

Widow, Cut Off With $100, Will Dispute Bequest to Actress.

Thomas Fortune Ryan may file a claim of $40,000 against the estate of his youngest son, Joseph J. Ryan, who in his will left most of his $130,000 estate to Miss Dorothy Lucille Whiteford, an actress of 172 West Seventy-ninth Street. Word to that effect was taken to a representative of Miss Whiteford some time ago when the contents of the will became known to members of Mr. Ryan's family.

It was also conveyed unmistakably that if the will is probated it will be contested by Mr. Ryan's widow, Mrs. Nannie Morse Ryan, who is now in Italy with her two children, and who received only $100 by its terms. Mr. Ryan, the father, is expected to ask that his claim be allowed on the ground that in the last three years before his son died he had advanced him $40,000 in addition to his allowance of $6,000 a year.

John J. Robinson, attorney for Miss Whiteford, admitted yesterday that Miss Whiteford would fight for every cent that is legally hers by the terms of the instrument.

Washington Discussion to Be Resumed, Ambassadors as Delegates.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A meeting of the International Communications Conference will be held in the near future to take up questions, principally that of the disposition of the former German cables, which were left unsolved when the delegates to the conference left Washington a little before Christmas.

Acting Secretary Davis, as Chairman of the conference, will call together the diplomatic representatives of the powers who were named by their respective Governments to act in place of the delegates to the conference after the latter had returned home.

SHOE MEN ARE HOPEFUL.

Optimistic View of Industry Taken by Delegates to Convention.

The general outlook of the industry was discussed yesterday at the annual convention of the Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association in the Hotel Astor, and for the most part the members of the organization expressed optimism. This feeling was voiced by J. Frank McElwain, the retiring President, who said that definite factors are now looming up which "justify more faith and confidence in ourselves, in our industry and in our Government and its ability to help set us on the right road." It was the consensus of those at the convention that lower prices have made possible more attractive merchandise, and that gradually confidence was being restored. The firmer tone in the leather market, it was said, is based upon a feeling that hides and skins have touched bottom. There will continue to be fluctuations in the price of shoes based upon the possibilities of purchase and the needs of the trade, and that the industry had now entered upon the long swing upward.

$100,000,000 BANK SEEKS W. P. G. HARDING

Foreign Trade Financing Corporation Has Offered Him Its Presidency.

ANNOUNCED BY McHUGH

Hoover Urges Long-Term Credits Abroad at Merchants' Association Luncheon.

W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, has been invited to become President of the $100,000,000 Foreign Trade Financing Corporation, whose chief business will be making of long-time loans to finance foreign trade, it was announced yesterday by John McHugh, Vice President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank and Chairman of the Organization Committee of the corporation, at a luncheon of the Merchants' Association in the Hotel Astor. Foreign trade problems and the need for immediate stimulation of world business, were discussed after the luncheon.

"We believe that no better selection could possibly be made," said Mr. McHugh, "and while it is true that he can be ill-spared from the position he now occupies, still we believe that the maximum of pressure on the system has passed, and that he will see an opportunity for still greater service to the country in this undertaking."

In announcing the invitation to Mr. Harding, Mr. McHugh said that Fred I. Kent, Vice-President of the Bankers Trust Company, had agreed to serve the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation in an advisory capacity, and that Jerome Thralls, Secretary and Treasurer of the Discount Corporation of New York, had been asked to serve as one of the Executive Vice Presidents.

The meeting was one of the largest and most important that the Merchants Association has held. Among those at the guest table were Felix M. Warburg, Thomas W. Lamont, Edward R. Stettinius, Herbert L. Pratt, Guy Emerson, James Speyer, William Hamlin Childs, Lewis E. Pierson, John T. Pratt, Hendon Chubb, Julius H. Barnes, James Gilbert White, J. Louis Schaefer, William C. Redfield, Charles E. Mitchell and Colonel Samuel P. Colt.

Urge Long Term Credits Abroad.

A grave warning of the result of failing to nourish properly the export trade of the United States by establishing long time credits, was voiced not only by Mr. McHugh, but by Herbert Hoover and A. C. Bedford, Chairman of the Board of the Standard Oil Company, who said that it was the only cure for the economic ills which trouble the world, caused largely by underconsumption in Europe and overproduction in America.

"Any sane man can find the economic situation of the world easy to understand," said Mr. Hoover. "The United States is oversupplied with foodstuffs and raw materials, although the farmers are suffering from an inability to dispose of their production at cost, factories are idle, and workmen unemployed. In Europe 400,000,000 of people are slowly recovering from the war, struggling up from political, social, economic chaos, with their populations underfed.

"Not only is this a question of the establishment of credit abroad, but it is a question of the character of credit that we establish. Nothing is more dangerous to the whole economic situation of the world than that we should continue to establish short-term credits. The only solution is that we shall secure long-term investments in productive enterprise abroad.

Asks More Sane Armament.

"There is also involved in all of these processes of recuperation, another issue of the utmost importance, the whole question of disarmament," continued Mr. Hoover. "Why impose upon us, the business community, a burden of $500,000,000 a year in taxation, and at the same time ask us to restore the processes of business upon which the vital life of our own people must be maintained? In all these questions there is involved deeply the problem of taxation, and unless we can have some more sanity in the whole relationship as to armament, we have but little hope of finding from our community that surplus of resources with which we can upbuild Europe."

"America is the heart of the world's business," said Mr. Bedford, "and controls the life-blood of civilization. "It is incumbent upon American business men, with the sanction of the American Government, to work out practical expedients under which the resources of America, both moral and material, may be unleashed for the benefit of the world, not as a matter of charity, but to insure our own prosperity."

Harding Expected to Accept Offer.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Washington believes that W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, will resign soon to accept the Presidency of the Foreign Trade Financing Corporation. His term as head of the Federal Reserve Board does not expire until 1922. Mr. Harding refused to comment on the announcement that the corporation had asked him to be its President.

$65 A MONTH FOR FARM HANDS IN 1920

They Made $107 in California and Nevada, and North Dakota Paid Them $7.40 a Day.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Wages of hired men on farms have more than doubled in the last ten years, tripled in the last twenty years, and were more than four times higher last year than they were in 1879. These changes are shown by statistics of the Department of Agriculture.

Wages paid by the month, without board, averaged $64.93 for the country as a whole last year; ten years ago they averaged $27.60, and in 1879 they were $10.43.

Day labor at harvest time last year averaged $4.36 without board, and, at other than harvest time, $3.59. Ten years ago harvest-time labor was paid $1.82, and, at other than harvest time, $1.38. In 1904 harvest-time day labor was paid $1.13, and non-harvest-time labor 81 cents a day.

California and Nevada farmers paid their labor the highest prices for labor without board, the average in those States last year having been $107 a month. The lowest average was in Mississippi, where $41 was paid. The average for the country, as on a whole, was $64.93. The Northern Atlantic States averaged $75.54; the South Atlantic, $50.26; the Northeast Central States, $70.00; the Northwest Central States, $79.79; the South Central States, $51.94, and the Far Western States, $99.43.

For harvest-time labor without board North Dakota paid the highest rate with $7.40 a day, while, at other than harvest time, South Dakota paid the highest rate, with $5.90 a day.

MORE INSURANCE IN 1920.

American Surety Co. Reports 148% Increase in Burglary Policies.

In spite of the prevailing depression, the business of the American Surety Company, through its branches all over the country, increased last year by 16 2-3 per cent. over that of 1919.

The recent general increase in crime is strikingly reflected in the figures for burglary insurance. Such insurance has become popular, over 148 per cent. more policies being carried in 1920 than in the previous year. The number of claims, however, increased in even greater proportion, there having been submitted to the company last year about 304 per cent. more claims for loss through burglary than in 1919.

That public officials, holding State and municipal offices requiring bonds, were more honest during 1920 than during 1919 is apparently indicated by the decrease in the number of claims against the company for losses and defalcations covered by its bonds. In spite of an increase in this business, the number of claims fell over 22 per cent. from those in the previous year, the rate in both years being very low.

Construction conditions apparently improved to some extent, claims on bonds covering the performance of work by contractors, together with court and depository bonds, decreasing nearly 10 per cent. Irregularities in positions of trust in business appear to have increased, the number of cases of shortage, defalcation and dishonesty having risen nearly 47 per cent. over the number in 1919, the number of persons covered having been increased by 20 per cent.

DULLNESS SPREADS IN IRON AND STEEL

Small Scattered Orders Fail to Encourage Optimism in the Trade.

NEW WAGE CUT IS COMING

Lake Superior Operators to Reduce Pay 15 Per Cent., but Steel Corporation Scale Stands.

The Iron Trade Review in its weekly survey of conditions in the iron and steel industry sees no definite indication of a revival of buying power and points out that operations are greatly curtailed.

"Nothing to indicate a rejuvenation of a general buying interest is to be found in the iron and steel situation," says the Review. "Here and there some quickening of miscellaneous demand is to be noted, but no broad significance is attached to this. Industrial consumption of iron and steel continues light. In some lines, such as tubular material, good tonnages continue to be placed, especially by the Standard Oil Company. Wire demand is better, sheet conditions are erratic and an inquiry for 1,500 tons at Pittsburgh from an automobile builder, the first of its kind for some weeks, has caused comment. The market in the heavier lines, plates, shapes and bars, is very sluggish, marking the extent of new work. Structural steel awards just reported for December were 47,000 tons, or 26 per cent. of shop capacity.

"Only six out of fifty-one independent open hearth furnaces and nineteen out of 105 sheet mills in the Mahoning Valley were in commission this week. On the other hand, the American Sheet & Tin Plate Company has been operating at better than 92 per cent. and the Carnegie Steel Company at 90 to 95 per cent.

"All independent ore operators on the Lake Superior ranges who have not yet done so will reduce wages 15 per cent. Feb. 1. The Steel Corporation, however, will make no change in the present rate."

The Iron Age says that with slightly better demand, with here and there a concession from the general price level, and with the average of mill operations somewhat less, the steel trade finds nothing significant in current developments. In all lines consumers expect lower prices, but recognize that time is a prime factor and that the readjustment is only in its early stages.

Generally the leading independent companies have been running at 20 to 80 per cent. capacity.

ARMOUR SHOWS PROFIT BY AID OF RESERVES

Drew on Foreign Accumulations to Offset Losses in 1920 Sales and Exports.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Only by drawing on reserves accumulated by their foreign connections were Armour & Co. enabled to show a net profit as a result of the 1920 operations, according to the annual report of J. Ogden Armour, President of the company, presented today to the stockholders. For the first time in the history of the company stockholders other than members of the Armour family attended.

The statement disclosed that while the company's total sales approximated $900,000,000 for the year that part of it which represented sales in and exports from this country resulted in losses aggregating many millions of dollars. In view of these losses Armour & Co. found it necessary to draw on the reserves of their foreign connections to show a net profit of $5,319,975.44, which represented only 2.4 per cent. on the average net capitalization of $231,000,000.

Regarding the prospects for 1921, Mr. Armour said:

"There is abundant reason to look forward to a better year. We have maintained tonnage and outlets. The coming months should show a brisk business."

J. Ogden Armour was re-elected President and Lester Armour, a nephew of the President, was elected a member of the Board of Directors. All other officers were re-elected.

GUARANTY CO. DATA DENIED.

Trust Stockholders Refuse to Produce Subsidiary's Minutes.

The stockholders' meeting of the Guaranty Trust Company yesterday was enlivened by the demands of Clarence H. Venner for information regarding the formation of the Guaranty Company, the subsidiary concern formed by the Trust Company last October to take over its bond department, and the production of the minutes of the Executive Committee.

Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company, who was presiding at the meeting, flatly refused to comply with the demands of Mr. Venner, so far as production of the minutes of the Executive Committee or of the Board of Directors was concerned, on the ground that these documents were subject to inspection by the Superintendent of Banks and other proper authorities and that it was inadvisable to make the information public, in view of its private nature.

Mr. Sabin referred to the statement sent to stockholders of the operations of the Trust Company for the year 1920, which he said included information with regard to the organization of the Guaranty Company.

Cities Service Co.'s Profits Rise.

Gross earnings of the Cities Service Company for the twelve months ended with Dec. 31, 1920, totaled $24,698,039, an increase of $4,720,488 over the preceding year, while net increased $4,723,854, to $23,997,567. Over the twelve-month period there was a decrease in expenses from $703,835 to $700,473. After interest and preferred dividends there was left $17,370,404, which was an increase of $4,234,873 over the preceding year.

GIFTS TO CHARITY REDUCE INCOME TAX

Contributions Under 15% of Net Income May Be Deducted From Returns.

APPLIES TO INDIVIDUALS

Corporations Not Exempt—Amounts Expended for Lobbying Are Taxable.

Contributions to religious, charitable, scientific or educational organizations may be deducted in the income tax returns of individuals to an amount not in excess of 15 per cent. of the net income as computed without the benefit of this deduction, but deductions for contributions are not allowed corporations or partnerships, according to a statement of the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

"The members of a partnership or a personal service corporation," says the bureau, "may take credit in their individual returns for their proportion of such gifts, provided the pro rata part when added to the individual contributions does not exceed 15 per cent. of the taxpayer's net income.

"The law provides that contributions in order to be deductible shall be limited to corporations and associations organized and operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific or educational work, and to societies for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals, no part of the net earnings of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder; also to the special fund authorized by the vocational rehabilitation act. For example, a contribution to a hospital, the net earnings of which inure to private stockholders, would not be an allowable deduction. Gifts made directly to individuals are not deductible, but if made to an organization of the kind described may be deducted, even though the organization distributes its funds among individual beneficiaries.

"Treasury regulations specifically prohibit the deduction of contributions to funds for the payment of campaign expenses.

"Donations made by corporations to charitable institutions, hospitals, or educational institutions which legitimately represent a consideration for a benefit flowing directly to the corporation as an incident of its business are allowable deductions as ordinary and necessary expenses. For example, a corporation may deduct donations made to a charitable institution, hospital, or educational institutions conducted directly or indirectly for the benefit of its employes or their dependents, or a street railway corporation may deduct a sum of money donated to an organization holding a convention in the city in which it operates with the reasonable expectation that the holding of such convention will augment its income.

"Amounts expended for lobbying purposes, the promotion or defeat of legislation, the exploitation of propaganda, including advertising other than trade advertising, are not deductible from gross income."

FEWER ACRES YIELD GREATEST CORN CROP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Nineteen hundred and twenty was the greatest corn year in the history of the country, according to the records of the Department of Agriculture. Besides growing a record crop of 3,232,367,000 bushels, the farmers established a new record for average yield per acre with 30.9 bushels, only the second time the country's average yield went past thirty bushels.

The area planted to corn last year was 104,601,000 acres, which was smaller than the area planted in eight other years heretofore and 1,400,000 acres smaller than the area which produced the previous record crop of 3,124,746,000 bushels in 1912. Last year's crop was the third to exceed 3,000,000,000 bushels.

Iowa, the country's greatest corn producing State, made an average of forty-six bushels to the acre for the first time in its history. The highest average acre yield of any State was that of Vermont, with forty-seven bushels. Maine in 1919 had the highest average acre yield, with sixty bushels. In the ten years previous to that year the highest average acre yield has been made by one of the New England States. Connecticut had highest yield in six of the ten years, Massachusetts in two, New Hampshire in one, and Vermont and Massachusetts tying in one.

CROP CONDITIONS GOOD.

Snow Covering Protects Winter Wheat From the Cold Wave.

Weather conditions during the week were generally favorable from an agricultural point of view, although more moisture is needed in the Far Southwest and in some eastern Rocky Mountain foothill districts. Vegetation is dormant in all districts except the southern border States.

Some cotton was picked in the northern portion of the cotton belt. Some corn was shelled and marketed in Nebraska, but much is too soft to shell in Illinois; husking is nearing completion in Ohio. Plowing was unfavorably affected by the weather in east-central States and in eastern Texas, but considerable work was done in plowing for corn in other southern districts. Little farm work was possible in other sections.

Considerable snow fell during the week in the lower Mississippi and central Mississippi valleys and in the eastern portions, the central and southern Plains area. The snow covering was beneficial for Winter grains in protecting them from the cold weather that prevailed the latter part of the week. In general, Winter wheat continued in satisfactory condition. Winter oats are doing well in the South; precipitation was beneficial in the western portion of the Winter oat belt.

CHILE SEEKING A LOAN.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 18.—A bill authorizing the negotiation of a loan of approximately $25,000,000 on behalf of the State railways, which was recently passed by the Chilean Congress, was approved by the Council of State today.

In a statement relative to the loan the Minister of Finance said he was corresponding with New York and European bankers regarding the details of the undertaking. He said the loan would bear not more than 8 per cent. interest and would be repaid with a fund created by the setting aside of 15 per cent. of the gross revenues of the railway involved.

Brisk Home Bidding for London Wool.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—At the wool auction sales today, 11,914 bales of free wool were offered. There was a brisk demand and the bulk of the offerings were sold at unchanged prices. Buyers for the home trade were the principal purchasers.

GRAINS DEPRESSED BY FOREIGN NEWS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Between the heavy movement of grains from the interior to terminal markets and the deflation in the price of all commodities, the money situation in the West is rapidly easing. Bankers' acceptances, quoted at 6¼ per cent. a few weeks ago, are now 5½ per cent., and further improvement is expected shortly. The selling of corn is not confined to any one section but has been fairly general, with some parts of Illinois, that heretofore have done little, letting go a great deal of grain in the past few days.

Wheat was under pressure from the start; and, despite the removal of hedges against sales of over 1,000,000 bushels hard Winter, via the Gulf to Switzerland, rallies were feeble, and the close was at net losses of 2¼ cents. There was a revival of the rumors that there were to be unfavorable developments in Eastern financial circles, and an English cable indicated that the same rumors were current there. In the main they referred to one of the smaller continental countries which has been mentioned as having overbought commodities to some extent, although its purchases of grains are not regarded here as excessive; previous to the war it had been the largest consumer of wheat per capita in Europe.

These unconfirmed rumors were in circulation before the opening, and had more or less effect on sentiment; but around the low point there was a good class of buying by strong interests, part of which was attributed to covering shorts for a local operator who has been very bearish of late, and though the decline was sufficient for the time being.

Reports that the Italian Government had offered to resell wheat attracted much attention and led to free selling at times. This was denied later and, as far as known, only 80,000 bushels have been canceled by that country, and this for individual and not for Government account.

Country offerings were not large and readily absorbed, with premiums at the Gulf firm. Part of the wheat sold was at 19½ over March, f. o. b. the Gulf, for April shipment. Minneapolis mills bought 200,000 bushels hard Winter at Kansas City, while domestic milling sales were around 400,000 bushels. Southwestern reports indicate a better flour trade.

Coarse grains were weaker and lower, with oats at a new low on the crop for cash and futures, while cash corn sold at a new low and May corn within half cent of the inside figure of the season. The support came mainly from shorts and from holders of bids. Country offerings were smaller, due to the decline, but the movement to terminal markets is expected to continue very heavy. A sale of 75,000 bushels oats was made from the seaboard to Cuba. Export business in corn aggregated 175,000 bushels.

Movement of grains is well above the average for this season. Arrivals of wheat, so far this week, have been 4,101,000 bushels, against 3,219,000 the previous week and 3,308,000 last year; shipments 2,616,000 bushels against 1,892,000 last week, and 2,504,000 last year.

In three days receipts of corn have been 5,772,000 bushels against 4,265,000 a week ago and 3,118,000 last year. Shipments of 2,411,000 bushels compared with 2,132,000 a week ago and 1,503,000 last year.

$207,919,694 GAIN BY SMALL SAVERS

BRONX LEADS IN GROWTH

Amounts Due Depositors Jump $14,050,376 for 1920—Manhattan Savings Gain 10.1 Per Cent.

The small savers of Greater New York during the year 1920, added $207,919,694.77 to their savings in fifty-eight of the fifty-nine savings banks in the five boroughs, according to a statement issued by the Savings Banks Association of the State of New York yesterday. This includes figures on the fifty-ninth bank up to July 1 only.

The total amount due depositors, including dividends credited, in these banks Dec. 31, 1920, was $1,832,132,534.02, as against $1,624,212,139.25 due Dec. 31, 1919.

The total resources of the banks increased during 1920 from $1,759,766,174.37 to $2,025,550,374.64, an increase of $265,784,400.27, or 15 per cent. The number of depositors increased from 2,451,148 to 2,559,840, a gain of 108,692, or 4.4 per cent.

The greatest gains were made by the people in the Bronx. The amount due depositors in that section, including dividends credited, increased $14,050,376.99, or 45.4 per cent., while the number of depositors increased from 82,464 to 98,241, a gain of 19.1 per cent.

Queens County was second only to the Bronx in growth. The amounts due depositors, including dividends credited, increased from $30,503,034.52 to $37,733,450, a gain of 23.3 per cent., while 6,803 people started new accounts.

Aggregate savings in Manhattan have increased from $1,128,493,878.64 to $1,243,175,568.43, while the percentage of increase in deposits has been only 10.1. The number of depositors in Manhattan increased only 1.5 per cent., there being on Dec. 31, 1920, a total of 1,611,674, as against 1,587,714 on Dec. 31, 1919.

Kings and Richmond gained in deposits 16.4 and 22.4 per cent., respectively, and 8.5 and 9.3, respectively, in number of depositors.

A $7,750,000 STOCK LOSS.

Price Cuts Reduce $5,500,000 Profit of Chicago House to $747,000.

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—Butler Brothers, wholesale general merchandise dealers here, announced today a quarterly dividend of 3½ per cent., adding that in the last quarter of 1920 they had suffered a merchandise depreciation loss of $7,750,000.

"Following our usual policy," a statement issued by Frank S. Cunningham, President of the company, says, "we have taken our Dec. 31 inventories on the basis of actual replacement or market value at that time, thus taking in 1920 the entire loss caused by recent radical declines in commodity prices. Our net earnings for the first months of 1920, as determined by our inventory on June 30, were more than $5,500,000, but in the fourth quarter the effort to reduce stocks to normal before the end of the year, and the sale of many goods at less than cost to meet market conditions, plus the inventory depreciation on Dec. 31, wiped out all the net earnings for the year except $747,524."

Course of Prices in Switzerland.

Taking the average of prices at the beginning of June, 1914, as par, it is estimated by Swiss statisticians that at the same date in 1915 the average was 118.6, that in 1916 it was 139.5, that it had reached 179.7 in 1917 and 229.3 in 1918. Between September, 1918, and June, 1919, the average rose from 250.3 to 261.4; it fell to 243.4 in the middle of 1920, but was up to 258.3 at the beginning of September.

COTTON LIST BREAKS ON BRITISH REPORTS

Local Market Bears Use Foreign Weakness to Force 50 to 65 Point Drop.

For the third successive day weakness at Liverpool and unsatisfactory reports from Manchester served to depress the local cotton market. The Liverpool market again came in lower than due and the spot price there broke sharply, losing 68 English points on the day and falling to a level 121 points under the figure of last Friday. This, coupled with the poor trade reports from Manchester, gave the local and Southern bears more ammunition and they made the most of it.

Prices started heavy. January was down 20 and the rest of the list was down 32 to 40 points. There was a slight recovery, which did not, however, carry the market back to where it had left off on Tuesday, and then the selling again broke out and prices fell abruptly. By mid-afternoon they were down 30 to 45 points, and in the last half hour, on fresh and rather aggressive selling, they broke still further, showing net losses at the extreme low of 50 to 65 points. Spots here were down 35 points, and in the South most spot markets were down 25 to 50 points from the preceding day's scale.

The unsatisfactory trade situation at Manchester still is to be accounted for. Just what is going on remains the same mystery it was three days ago, when Liverpool began to ease off, and local operators, even those who are using the situation abroad extensively for market purposes, do not seem to be entirely clear as to just what that situation is.

Further large arrivals of cotton here were reported. The day's receipts totaled 8,704 bales, making 28,583 bales received since the first of the week, and nearly 50,000 bales since the beginning of last week.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

PEAK OF HIGH PRICES PASSED IN BRITAIN

Lower Living Cost Will Mean Automatic Wage Decrease in Some Industries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Official figures issued today show the cost of living on Jan. 1 was 165 per cent. above pre-war level. This is a reduction of four points since Dec. 1, and since the latest figures were compiled there has been a further fall. It seems, therefore, that the peak of high prices has been passed and that figures are now definitely on the down grade.

The information upon which these figures are based is collected by managers of labor exchanges from 5,500 leading retailers in working-class neighborhoods in 632 towns. The articles selected include beef, mutton, bacon, fish, flour, bread, potatoes, tea, sugar, milk, butter, margarine, cheese and eggs. Rent, clothing, fuel and light are also considered.

In a number of industries agreements are in existence by which the rate of wages paid varies according to the cost of living. Under the railway agreement there is an increase or decrease of a shilling weekly in wages for each rise or fall of five points in the figures, with a fixed minimum of 100 per cent. over pre-war rates. But as wages are regulated by the General Wages Board in March, June, September and December there can be no change in this industry before April.

In all the industries concerned it is estimated that the wages of about 1,500,000 workers are affected by an increase or decrease in the cost of living.

SITE BOUGHT FOR LINCOLN SCHOOL

PLAN $1,000,000 BUILDING

New Site Selected to Be Near Teachers College, the Parent Organization.

The property on the north side of 123d Street, between Morningside and Amsterdam Avenues, reported to have been purchased by Rockefeller interests, has been bought, it was announced yesterday, by the General Education Board as a site for the new Lincoln School building. The General Education Board was established by John D. Rockefeller, and it has done a great deal of work in educational development.

Plans for the new school structure are being prepared by the architects, Starrett & Van Vleck. The building will be, it is said, from six to ten stories in height, definite plans not having yet been settled. The cost will be about $1,000,000. The Lincoln School is closely affiliated with Teachers College, one of Columbia University's affiliated organizations. Dr. Otis W. Caldwell of Teachers College is the Director of Lincoln School, and the 123d Street site was chosen as being more accessible to the educational facilities in the neighborhood of the Columbia buildings.

Lincoln School now occupies the former Charlton School building on Park Avenue, near Sixty-seventh Street, and the abutting house at 54 East Sixty-seventh Street. Several months ago a site for a larger structure was acquired at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and 103d Street, the plot comprising six lots. Title was taken in the name of the Empire Mortgage Company, which has acted as the holding company for many of the Rockefeller properties, and that company will retain the property. Plans were filed for improving the Fifth Avenue site with a five-story building, but recently the interests associated with the school felt that a location nearer the parent organization would be preferable, and the result was the purchase of the 123d Street property.

Bronx Borough Sales.

The six-story apartment house at 294 and 296 East 143d Street, on a plot 50 by 110 feet, has been sold by Neuer & Cohen to an investor. The brokers were Henry S. Kirschner and the Sherman Brokerage Company.

J. Clarence Davies sold for Cornelius B. Fish the lot, 25 by 100, on the west side of Courtlandt Avenue, 100 feet north of 149th Street. A two-story business building will be erected.

The two-family house at 1,641 Garfield Street, in the Van Nest section, has been sold by Laumenster & Herrmann.

The five-story flat at 1,423 Wilkins Avenue, plot 40.8 by 130.7, has been purchased by Bernhard Mayer from the Handley Realty Company.

The six-story flat at 890 Elton Avenue, plot 81.9 by 124.8, has been purchased by Louis Kirshan from John Greundler.

Plan $1,000,000 Club House.

Plans are being perfected by the Parnassus Club of 612 West 115th Street for the erection of a fifteen-story clubhouse on Fifty-seventh Street, just west of Ninth Avenue, for the accommodation of 600 nurses, teachers and business women. The new structure is estimated to cost $1,000,000.

The Parnassus Realty Corporation at present operates two clubhouses, largely in the interest of music, literary and art students. The first was opened in September, 1919, the second in July, 1920.

Adds to Roslyn Estate.

Charles C. Auchincloss, who recently purchased the "Big House" property at Roslyn, has added to his estate by purchasing nineteen additional acres adjoining his present holdings, giving him sixty acres. Cocks & Willets negotiated the deal. The same brokers were associated with John R. Hill of Westbury in the sale of Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt's property at Jericho.

CHARGE FAVORITISM TO SHIPPING BOARD

Witness Says M. J. Gillen Sought to Help Companies in Which He Became Interested.

FACED $15,000,000 LOSS

Colonel Abadie Submits 50,000-Word Statement to Shipping Board Investigators.

Losses running from $15,000,000 to $16,000,000 would have been sustained by the United States Shipping Board had the instructions of Martin J. Gillen, formerly Special Assistant to Chairmen John Barton Payne and William S. Benson been complied with, according to the testimony of Colonel Eugene H. Abadie, formerly General Controller, given yesterday to the Congressional Committee on Shipping Board Operations at the Hotel Pennsylvania. He said Gillen had demanded that he sign a typewritten certification for payments of millions to former owners of hulls requisitioned for war purposes. When he declined, Colonel Abadie said, Gillen threatened to oust him.

The attack on the former assistant to Judge Payne and Admiral Benson was made at a dramatic moment. Mr. Gillen appeared in the midst of the attack and asked permission to explain details of the transactions. Chairman Walsh said it was not the practice of the committee to interrupt the testimony of witnesses, but he was willing to hear Mr. Gillen later. Outside the committee room Mr. Gillen gave a brief statement answering the attack.

Abadie Makes 50,000-Word Statement.

Colonel Abadie read into the record a 50,000-word statement. He said:

"The first unpleasant incident arose as a result of the attempt to settle requisition claims. Martin J. Gillen, then Special Assistant to Chairman John Barton Payne, early in December, 1919, telephoned me to appear at his office at 3 o'clock to certify to some records. I was presented with a number of typewritten certifications carrying payments of millions to former owners of requisitioned hulls and I was requested to sign on the dotted line.

"I tried to explain that I was not satisfied that these records were correct and that I would not sign them until I was satisfied that they were correct. Mr. Gillen lost his temper and demanded that if I intended to continue as General Controller these certificates would have to be certified to before 6 o'clock, to which I refused until I was shown from whom the figures were obtained and how.

"I was then presented a sheet which was made up by Mr. Gillen and his several assistants, the figures on which they finally admitted were obtained by telephone from the Philadelphia office of the General Controller. I found that no letter or statement supporting these figures had ever been received and that no letter of request had been made of the General Controller's department by Mr. Gillen or the other parties present which would explain the purpose of the figures. I then refused absolutely to have anything to do with the certification until I had made a complete investigation. I was persuaded to meet them that evening at 8 o'clock for a further discussion. In the meantime I communicated with the Philadelphia office and found that my contentions were substantiated. As a matter of fact, the investigation disclosed that it was necessary for us to write to all the former owners to obtain their sworn statements as to the progress payments they paid to ship contractors, and we likewise wrote to the contractors and obtained their sworn statements of what they received from the former owner in the way of progress payments before we could straighten out and adjust these payments.

"To prevent a condition of this kind arising in the future a general order, requiring all statements issued in the future to be properly identified, was issued by me."

Faced $15,000,000 Loss.

"How long after your refusal to certify to these settlements was it that they were actually made and completed?" asked Chairman Walsh.

"From thirty to sixty days," said Colonel Abadie.

"How many millions would the Shipping Board have lost if you had certified to these claims when the demand was first made," next asked the chairman.

"From $15,000,000 to $16,000,000," replied the witness.

In an effort to finish with the witness the committee found it necessary to continue the hearing last night, when Colonel Abadie took up the transactions between the Shipping Board, the Nafra Company, Inc., the Green Star Steamship Company and the Imperial Steamship Company. His testimony intimated that Mr. Gillen had used his efforts while connected with the Shipping Board to have favors shown to these companies.

Asked if he knew whether any former official of the board was connected with these companies the witness said he knew from hearsay that a former official of the board was connected with some of these shipping concerns. The inference was that he referred to Mr. Gillen, now adviser to Joseph Mercadante, President of the Nafra Company, Inc., as well as the Green Star Steamship Company.

An overpayment of $873,849 was made to the Nafra Company, Inc., according to Colonel Abadie, in the settlement of claims made by that company for three ships requisitioned in October, 1917, from the Imperial Shipping Company, which it controlled. Before these vessels were requisitioned and allocated to the army in 1918, he explained, they made two trips to Italy on account of their owners. The Imperial Shipping Company retained part of the receipts from these voyages, and the Shipping Board collected the balance direct from the Italian Government.

Subsequently the Nafra Company claimed this revenue because the Shipping Board had not taken possession of these vessels. A controversy followed and pending its settlement the Nafra Company bought a number of Shipping Board vessels.

Credit to Nafra Company.

The witness said that under a compromise resolution presented by Commissioner Scott on Nov. 28, 1919, a credit of $1,884,467 was granted to the Nafra Company to be applied to the purchase price of the board's vessels. This sum represented the full credit for freights which the Nafra Company was unable to collect. From this amount $711,868 was deducted as charter hire for the requisitioned ships.

In the purchase agreement it was stipulated that the board should pay the Nafra Company from and after Jan. 1, 1920, $4.15 per deadweight ton a month on all three ships which had not been delivered, as a penalty for their detention. The terms of the sale agreement were again changed largely through Mr. Gillen, according to the witness.

Colonel Abadie said he retired from the Controller's office on April 1 last, and on April 16 following, he asserted, Gillen pleaded with the board for more liberal terms to the Green Star Line on fourteen ships which it previously had purchased. He proposed that the Green Star Line should not be required to pay any instalments due within a period of two years, according to the witness.

On April 21, 1920, according to the witness, Gillen offered a resolution which was carried, providing that the Shipping Board should take over the Green Star Line contract for five ships from the Standifer Construction Company, and agree to sell these vessels back to the Green Star Line at cost. He said that the Government agreed further to pay the Equitable Trust Company $1,350,000 in liquidation of loans advanced to the Green Star Line.

Colonel Abadie said that on April 22 last Gillen disclosed that the Standifer Construction Company had purchased from the Emergency Fleet Corporation at half price building materials for the five ships that were being constructed for the Green Star Line, and that he had ordered that the Standifer Construction Company should receive only enough money to complete the work pending a final settlement.

The witness said Gillen had urged the board to refund to the Green Star Line all the payments it had made on the five ships to the Standifer Construction Company, and that the vessels, when completed, be allocated to the Green Star Line as managing agents for the board to operate them for the Government's account. The suggestion was followed.

The committee will continue its hearing this morning at 9 o'clock at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

National Thrift Week

Let This be the Inaugural Week of a 52-Week Campaign of Prosperity Building.

This letter is meant particularly for the big business man and the employer, but we hope everybody will read it.

But a little more than a year ago business seemed to be on the boom as it never had been before. Retail buying was so abnormal as to be unprecedented. Commodity prices were at or near maximum. We wondered how we were ever going to build enough houses to shelter all of our people. There did not seem to be enough labor to keep the ordinary machinery going to supply the needs of routine.

We have all had our troubles—everybody, from the big corporation to the small merchant.

Only yesterday I saw in the newspapers that the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. had to cut their employment to five days per week.

Even those of us whose business had nothing to do with war work, and who thought we were merely spectators, found ourselves plunged into the whirlpool.

Speaking figuratively, some of us were in a crowded grandstand which collapsed.

Some of us were kicked down the stairs.

Some of us don't know yet whether we have reached the street level, or by what route we are going to get there.

And some of us don't know whether we are going to be able to choose our route of descent or whether some unforeseen happening will select it for us.

But, after all, did you ever imagine that there could be such a let-down, and yet so little real damage done?

We may not all be down to the street level yet, but we can't have much further to go—and in most cases we will have a chance to walk down stairs rather than be pushed out of a window.

We know that many commodity prices have gone below the cost of production, and sooner or later they are bound to come back.

We know that investment securities were dragged down into the sub-cellar, but are gradually and surely coming back. We know that speculative securities were dragged down to unbelievable levels—and that in spite of the fact that many of the most experienced heads believed long ago that these securities had reached levels that must inevitably produce a panic that no power could stop—and yet they have literally bounded back to much higher levels.

We know that relief has come within a few weeks to our banking situation that most bankers would not have dared to expect in an equal number of months.

All of which means that the inherent soundness of our financial system and institutions and our industrial and mercantile institutions have been subjected to the test of a storm of such severity that nothing like it will probably ever again be experienced—and in spite of the severity of the storm no serious damage has been done.

Well, we know now that we were in an unreal period a year ago; and we will know a year from today that we were in an unreal period today.

Retail buying has fallen off until many merchants are as apprehensive now about the future as many Wall Street people were a month ago. Some commodities are at the lowest price of all history. Vacant houses are to be found here and there in every neighborhood. Not only is there plenty of labor to be had, but there are hundreds of thousands of men out of employment.

Now, let's stop and think a minute. There were plenty of black clouds in the sky a year ago, but we were not trying to see them. There are plenty of bright spots in the sky today, but some of us are not trying to see them—and there is not a single cloud in the sky today that has not a silver lining.

A year ago we faced a wave of radicalism that an overstrained labor market had crystalized into an ever present menace.

Today we suffer from a wave of crime largely accentuated by unemployment and are threatened with radicalism of a type which is sure to spring from a long period of unemployment.

But there is no reason to have a long period of unemployment.

Today we will give careful thought to any earnest man.

We can make many of our apparent troubles solve each other.

Wisdom, caution and determination are becoming as much the order of today as intolerance and recklessness was the order of the day which brought about our present situation.

Therefore, many of us believe that Thrift and Investment is the answer. I will try to tell you some of the reasons why tomorrow.

In the meantime, try and name, if you can, a single problem that this country faces that would not be entirely solved, or greatly simplified, if we could make everybody thrifty and get them to invest what they save in the mercantile and industrial institutions that not only furnish us with the many comforts of life but also furnish employment for a large portion of our population as well.
